His Flight Plan Gets Priority

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration says it has given top priority to a flight plan filed by a pilot identified as S. Claus. "This is nothing new. For years S. Claus has filed a Christmas Eve flight plan for Sleigh SC-1," said a FAA spokesman Thursday. "Once a year the FAA waives all air traffic regulations for S. Claus. The safety of the national airways system not only is our prime mission but something in which we take great pride."

"To waive regulations indicates the confidence we have in the piloting ability of Mr. Claus." The flight plan was registered at the FAA's northernmost station at Point Barrow, Alaska. S. Claus said he would like the world to know that he again has his cargo craft loaded with gifts to bring good cheer to all. S. Claus told the FAA he will leave at sundown Friday, proceeding south from the North Pole at a cruising altitude of 30,000 feet. He will maintain this altitude until reaching a point near the southern edge of Hudson Bay. He will make a gradual descent, crossing the Canadian border at about 34,000 feet. First he will swing through the Minneapolis Air Route Traffic Control Center area. From there he will be within the Chicago Air Route Center, first at O'Hare International Airport and then at others within the center area.

Next he will maneuver through airports in the Indianapolis Center area and finally through the Cleveland Center before stopping at homes in the rest of the world. "Why he follows this particular route, I don't know. He's so fast we can't question him," said the FAA spokesman. "His aircraft is ancient but its dependability is legendary, and he keeps updating the equipment aboard. He increased the power a number of years ago of his original eight reindeer by adding another, called Rudolph. He has a red nose and makes a fine ship on air controllers' radar screens."

"That sleigh and reindeer may look silly compared with a jumbo jet or a Concorde, but S. Claus never has had an accident or incident to mar his long record of Christmas Eve flights. The speed of his craft—which operates on a highly secret fuel source—is incredible. Traffic controllers enjoy watching SC-1 zip across their radarscreens," the spokesman said. "In the passing years, S. Claus has proven to have such an impeccable safety record that we grant waivers to him that we could not, in all conscience, grant to any other person or aircraft."

"S. Claus always has had the most advanced, most reliable equipment, and it's never necessary for us to worry about him," the FAA said. "There is no noise or other pollution problem, except, maybe, the stubby pipe that S. Claus sometimes puffs on. "The FAA wants to emphasize that it does not usually reveal details of privately filed flight plans, but the importance of this annual trip is a different matter," said the spokesman.

It's Big Night For Bethlehem

By LARRY THORSON
Associated Press Writer

BETHLEHEM. — Occupied West Bank (AP) — Thousands of Christian pilgrims were arriving today to celebrate "tidings of great joy" with bells, carols and a solemn Mass in the town where Christ was born.

Some 20,000 visitors were to arrive here Christmas Eve on buses that have to have special passes to come near the cramped and winding streets of this hilltop town. Strict military security has been imposed by Israeli soldiers to guard against terrorist attacks.

Once here, according to Mayor Elias Freij, the pilgrims will have almost as much trouble getting a hotel room in the town of 30,000 as did Joseph and Mary 2,000 years ago.

The religious ceremonies were to start with the motorcade of the Roman Catholic patriarch, Msgr. Giacomino Giuseppe Beltritti, making the five-mile trip from Jerusalem to Bethlehem.

Escorted by mounted police with lances, the patriarch was to make a ceremonial stop at the tomb of Rachel on the edge of Bethlehem, be greeted at Manger Square by local officials, then go to the 800-year-old Church of the Nativity.

Descending from the main part of the church, he was to enter the richly appointed Grotto of the Nativity and worship at the place hallowed in tradition as the stable-cave where Jesus was born.

Choirs and orchestras from the United States, Israel, Australia, Sweden, South Africa and Britain take over the stage in Manger Square after nightfall. Their carols and hymns will resound in the Church of the Nativity on the north side of the square, a Muslim mosque on the south side, and other denominations' churches nearby.

Pilgrims and tourists arriving on Thursday suffered several hours of delays because of a brief strike by flight stewards at the airport, one of the hotbeds of labor activism in Israel.

Passes, usually reserved for diplomats and other dignitaries, admit a few hundred into St. Catherine's Roman Catholic Church next to the Church of the Nativity, where Msgr. Beltritti will celebrate Mass at midnight. The Mass will be broadcast by closed circuit television to a giant outdoor screen so that thousands of people in Manger Square can follow the service.

The influx of visitors is a boon to the local manufacturers of souvenirs. The curio shops and restaurants stay open long after midnight Mass, until the last carolers wind their way out of the town about 2 a.m. on Christmas Day.

The souvenir shops charge as much as $100 for a mother-of-pearl carving of the Last Supper or a manger scene. They also offer carvings of the Star of David for Jewish customers and of the Mosque of Omar — for Muslims.

Mayor Freij, an Arab Christian, took note in his Christmas message of the tensions underlying the busy tourist scene in Bethlehem, which is part of the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

"We send greetings from the Christmas city of the world," Freij said. "We hope that all countries will join hands to secure peace between Arabs and Jews and to guarantee the basic human rights of the Palestinian people."

Cleared Niles Policeman Reinstated But Demoted

NILES — Max Cole will be back on the job at the Niles police department on MX, Dec. 27.

The city's public safety board announced late yesterday that Cole would be reduced from the rank of a sergeant to patrolman status and given two weeks back pay as part of the reinstatement.

Cole, in return, agreed to drop a grievance he had filed against the board, according to Malcolm House, safety board chairman.

Cole was suspended in September when he was indicted by a Berrien county citizens grand jury on charges of embezzlement over $50 and larceny in a building in connection with his handling of a handgun. Cole was cleared of the charges in Berrien Fifth district court on Nov. 19. A week later, however, the board ordered him fired but then ordered him returned to the suspension without pay status when he filed the grievance.

Cole, 45, is a 18-year veteran of the force. He was accused in the grand jury indictments of selling a gun which had been sent to the police department. Atty. Richard Beers Lindenfeld, who represented Cole, said this morning "We are very pleased to see Max back on the police force."

The attorney said, however, he did not necessarily accept the safety board's determination that Cole had violated a departmental rule in the case. "I think that is questionable," he said. Lindenfeld also represented officer Gary Koller who was cleared of grand jury charges in district court and subsequently reinstated to the Niles force.

A statement released by House regarding the reinstatement said "The board's decision to reinstate Max E. Cole is based upon its confidence in his integrity and belief that he will be of continuing service to the citizens of Niles."

It added that he was demoted because "The board concluded that Max E. Cole had failed to comply with a departmental

New Buffalo Clerk Killed In Collision

NILES — Debbie Powell, 18, of Lakeside road, New Buffalo, was killed in a two-car collision near here yesterday about 11:30 a.m. as she and her fiancé were returning home from a pre-Christmas job-hunting trip in Niles.

Her fiancé and two other people were injured in the collision, according to state police at Niles.

Listed in good condition this morning at Pawating hospital, Niles, were George King, 16, Miss Powell's fiancé, of route 1, Forest Lawn road, Three Oaks; Gordon Colson, 35, Chicago; and Colson's 11-year-old son, Colin.

Troopers said the crash occurred when the car in which Miss Powell was riding, driven by King, went out of control on the ice-covered road and skidded broadside into the path of an oncoming car.

The collision occurred on US-12 about three-tenths of a mile west of Portage road in Bertrand township.

Troopers said blowing snow which reduced visibility may have been a contributing factor in the collision.

Troopers said King told them he was eastbound on US-12 when his right wheels dropped off the shoulder of the road. He said he lost control as he attempted to get back on the road and his car swerved into the oncoming lane.

The westbound Colson car slammed into the right side of King's car, troopers said.

Miss Powell was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. David Speers, a deputy medical examiner, troopers said. King

The First Christmas-- An Enduring Message

The wise men from the East who journeyed to Bethlehem to pay homage to the Babe born in the manger understood the significance of the first Christmas.

Other wise men from all points of the compass have shared in the rejoicing through the years, as the meaning of the star of Bethlehem has grown in their consciousness.

Perhaps there is little one can add today to what has been written on the significance of the first Christmas. Yet there is a phase of that meaning which deserves special consideration at this period of history.

It is the emphasis which the incarnation gave to the dignity and the worth of man as evaluated by the Creator in whose image he was made.

The sacredness of human personality was central in the teaching of the Founder of Christianity, whose birth the star proclaimed. It is a foundation principle of democracy as we know it, and it is a basic issue on which the world divides in the continuing ideological conflict.

There will continue to be hope springing eternal, and men will realize it. They will recognize how far the hope that, for many, had its origin in a stable at Bethlehem has brought the human spirit and that this hope, perhaps more than any other single factor in the life of man, has saved mankind from the debasement of utter savagery.

Men must be content with the knowledge that slowly, almost imperceptibly, progress is being made, and that eventually — although perhaps not in the time of anyone now living — the world will witness the triumph of an ideal.

Yes, there continue to be wars and rumors of wars, but the King of Kings, born in a manger, foresaw each departure from the divine plan throughout the ages and dismissed the subject. "The end is not yet," He said calmly.

No, the end is not yet. Man's plots and plans are brief and futile. The captains and the kings depart and little that they do leaves an impress upon the sands of time.

All that endures is the Divine Purpose, which is as firm today and as unchanged as it was more than nineteen hundred years ago, when the first Christian, grown to manhood, walked the earth.

A Christmas That Helped Create The United States

In this newspaper yesterday, an Associated Press article described a Christmas replay of Washington crossing the Delaware, a replay that very probably will be the last act in the nation's celebration of its bicentennial year.

This final and highly significant event of 1776—the crossing of the Delaware river by George Washing-

Mystical Mistletoe

Mistletoe is a plant with miraculous powers, or so the Druids believed. Today the ancient customs, changed out of recognition, survive mainly at Christmas time.

Why they survive at all isn't clear, since they serve merely as an excuse for kissing in an age when romantic interludes don't need any excuse the rest of the year.

But if you're going to kiss under the mistletoe, you might as well do it right. A tree expert who is presumably an expert with the old traditions says that you're supposed to pluck one white mistletoe berry for each kiss — otherwise the rite will lose its magical powers to bring happiness. And otherwise less mistletoe will be sold.

How did the mistletoe, a heathen charm, get into the celebration of Christmas festival anyway? Botanically, it is a parasite, so maybe there's logic in its attaching itself to a different religion. There are no Druids around to object, either.

THE JOYS OF CHRISTMAS

Editor,
What a happy holiday it is going to be. Being thankful for God's blessing, sharing joyful feeling with the little ones, and the joyful feeling that lies within us.

Christmas to the little ones is joy and happiness. Waking up on Christmas morning, finding their stockings filled with goodies. Opening presents: dolls, bikes, trains and other nice things, the man with the big belly that shakes like jelly, who left his reindeer on top of the roof, came down the chimney, and put their toys under the Christmas tree.

Oh how happy they will be when their little eyes see what

Santa has left for them on Christmas Day.

Their houses are suddenly filled with Christmas joy because Santa has made their little hearts merry.

But for us, who understand Christmas, we live the Christmas spirit.

The aroma of food on the tables, exchanging gifts, the laughter of loved ones, relatives, and friends from far and near.

Candles burning, mistletoe, choir singing outside our door, and smiling faces that we never have seen before. But most of all, the little thought of giving that will touch our hearts so deep.

So from me to you and especially The Herald-Palladium, I'm wishing each and everyone all over the world a very Merry Christmas and happiness in the coming year!

STATE PAY HIKES DRAW CRITICISM

Editor,
Your editorial about the action of the compensation committee of the state was very well put. There is a very good reason for the commission not getting more letters disagreeing with their action.

People have developed an apathy because it didn't do any good. They didn't say how many letters of approval they received from the ones who pay the bill. If all the legislators worked as hard, and represented what the people wanted, as Sen. Jack Welborn and a few others do, then this kind of raise might be warranted.

It sure would make a lot more sense if more people from the middle income group were put on that commission rather than lawyers and high-price business men. But of course they wouldn't get what they would like to have in that case.

Basically I believe legislature should have backbone enough to be responsible for all salaries and not leave it to an appointive commission. After all, they are elected by the people of their districts to do the job.

SAYS LEGISLATURE DOING 'TOO MUCH'

Editor,
After reading your editorial about the Michigan legislators, I begin to wonder why they stay in session so long. The longer they stay in Lansing the more bills they pass and that means more it will cost the taxpayers both for their salaries and the things they can think up.

In Indiana, they are in session for a very short time then they go home about their business for the rest of the year. In New Hampshire, they meet only every two years and they don't have any sales or income tax.

Veep Creature Of Congress?

WASHINGTON — Nelson Rockefeller and Walter Mondale have held more than two hours of personal discussions regarding what aides call the transfer of "powers." In their case the subject is most severely limited. If Rockefeller intended to be helpful, he may have spent most of the time telling his successor why the office of vice president has no "powers" to transfer.

The popular reason is because few presidents have chosen to give authority to their mates. But why? It is not enough to cite jealousy or lack of confidence. The fact is, as Franklin Roosevelt said when he campaigned for the office (1920), the Constitution may not permit a vice president with serious responsibilities.

The framers gave only one job to vice presidents, that of serving as president of the Senate. All executive branch powers were vested in "a president." In effect, the Constitution thus suggests that the two are not even in the same part of government, that the vice president is, if anything, a creature of the legislature.

In the Republic's early years, this is actually how vice presidents viewed themselves: as separate from the administration. Their pay came from and their loyalty was due the Senate. Even as recently as the Wilson era, when Vice President Thomas Marshall was asked to preside at cabinet meetings in the president's absence, he did so reluctantly, thinking his proper place was on Capitol Hill.

This distinction probably ended with Harry Truman. When he inherited the presidency during the Second World War, he was more than surprised to find that he had never been informed about the creation of the atomic bomb. Since then prudence has demanded that vice presidents not become excessively isolated from the executive.

And yet the Constitution has not changed. In explaining why he did not give Richard Nixon more substantive duties, Dwight Eisenhower questioned the legality of such an action, saying his own opinion was that the vice president was "not subject to direction by the president." Historian Arthur M. Schlesinger agrees, adding that this Constitutional question is "not to be taken lightly."

No one questions the right of a president to hand out executive orders to a bored second man. Hence Nixon ran errands for Ike, Spiro Agnew became Nixon's hatchet man, Gerald Ford as veep was given the useful job of defending the Watergate administration, and Rockefeller has served in capacities ranging from CIA snoop to chairing an obscure commission on American productivity.

But as for delegating serious duty, legal ice is thin. Donald Young, who has written one of the few serious books on the vice presidency ("American Roulette"), says flatly that it can't be a witcongressional authority or, more probably, a Constitutional amendment. In other words, the president is not now permitted to scatter his own executive powers.

This means that Jimmy Carter's campaign promise to add president's responsibilities were idle. Or, as is likely, he didn't understand the legal limitations. For instance Mondale could not easily be given cabinet-level authority for this might seriously interfere with his Senate responsibilities and also the Constitutional idea of separated government branches.

All of this does not mean that the new vice president need be as slighted as were most of his 41 predecessors.

T.S. Eliot: The Christmas Poet

Christmas celebrates the incarnation, the penetration of time and history by the divine and the eternal in the person of Jesus Christ.

During the 19th century, Charles Dickens captured one version of Christmas for the English-speaking world. The product of an age of humanitarianism and sentiment, the Dickensian Christmas with its feasts, carols, and human generosity became the generally accepted definition of Christmas.

In our own time, T.S. Eliot returned to the original idea of incarnation, the intersection of time and the timeless. Eliot became a great poet of incarnation, exploring the idea philosophically and poetically in his "Four Quartets," and narratively in his "Journey of the Magi," a recreation of the wise men's journey to Bethlehem.

The "Four Quartets" can be regarded as a kind of philosophical notebook, though highly organized and presenting a virtuoso variety of verse forms.

In different places and under different circumstances, the poet has a perception of a reality other than the ordinary succession of minutes, hours, days. There is "the moment in the rose-garden," the moment in the arbour where the rain beat, the moment in the draughty church at smoke fall.

Such moments are fleeting for him, because "humankind/ Cannot bear very much reality." Only the rare person, the saint, lives with a frequent or continuous perception of the timeless.

The climactic representation of incarnation in the poem comes in the last Quartet, "Little Gidding." The poet is walking across a snow-covered landscape, probably in the vicinity of the tiny 17th century chapel at Little Gidding. Christmas is only a few days away. This is St. Lucy's Day, the shortest day of the year, the very depth of winter.

Suddenly there comes a blaze of light, a "glare that is blindness in the early afternoon." "Now the hedgerow/ Is blanched for an hour with transitory blossom/ Of snow. . . The soul's sap quivers. . . This is the spring-time/ But not in time's covenant."

In Eliot's poetry, such glimpses of the eternal manifesting itself within time constitute an antidote to meaninglessness and despair. "Sudden in a shaft of sunlight/ Even while the dust moves/ There rises the hidden laughter/ Of children in the foliage/ Quick now, here, now, always —/ Ridiculous the waste sad time/ Stretching before and after."

The poet's object is to render himself more accessible to such intimations of the divine. Prayer is necessary: "you would have to put off/ Sense and notion. . . You are here to kneel/ Where prayer has been valid."

Through prayer, suffering, meditation one may approach "A condition of absolute simplicity/ (Costing not less than everything)."

Eliot's sense of incarnation is thus quite different from the humanitarian Christmas of Dickens. He reaches back behind the 19th century — to the English poets and theologians of the 17th century, to Dante, to St. Juliana or Norwich.

Eliot understood himself, indeed, to be engaged in a great act of recovery: "And what there is to conquer/ By strength and submission, has already been discovered/ Once or twice, or several times, by men whom one cannot hope/ To emulate — but there is no competition —/ There is only the fight to recover what has been lost/ And found and lost again and again; and now, under conditions/ That seem unpropitious."

Unpropitious or not, Eliot succeeded in expressing the idea of incarnation for his own time, succeeded in his act of recovery, and his "Four Quartets" are an extraordinary poem to read or listen to (Eliot recorded them on a Coddman record) at Christmas.

The First Christmas-- An Enduring Message

The wise men from the East who journeyed to Bethlehem to pay homage to the Babe born in the manger understood the significance of the first Christmas.

Other wise men from all points of the compass have shared in the rejoicing through the years, as the meaning of the star of Bethlehem has grown in their consciousness.

Perhaps there is little one can add today to what has been written on the significance of the first Christmas. Yet there is a phase of that meaning which deserves special consideration at this period of history.

It is the emphasis which the incarnation gave to the dignity and the worth of man as evaluated by the Creator in whose image he was made.

The sacredness of human personality was central in the teaching of the Founder of Christianity, whose birth the star proclaimed. It is a foundation principle of democracy as we know it, and it is a basic issue on which the world divides in the continuing ideological conflict.

There will continue to be hope springing eternal, and men will realize it. They will recognize how far the hope that, for many, had its origin in a stable at Bethlehem has brought the human spirit and that this hope, perhaps more than any other single factor in the life of man, has saved mankind from the debasement of utter savagery.

Men must be content with the knowledge that slowly, almost imperceptibly, progress is being made, and that eventually — although perhaps not in the time of anyone now living — the world will witness the triumph of an ideal.

Yes, there continue to be wars and rumors of wars, but the King of Kings, born in a manger, foresaw each departure from the divine plan throughout the ages and dismissed the subject. "The end is not yet," He said calmly.

No, the end is not yet. Man's plots and plans are brief and futile. The captains and the kings depart and little that they do leaves an impress upon the sands of time.

All that endures is the Divine Purpose, which is as firm today and as unchanged as it was more than nineteen hundred years ago, when the first Christian, grown to manhood, walked the earth.

A Christmas That Helped Create The United States

In this newspaper yesterday, an Associated Press article described a Christmas replay of Washington crossing the Delaware, a replay that very probably will be the last act in the nation's celebration of its bicentennial year.

This final and highly significant event of 1776—the crossing of the Delaware river by George Washington's army on the night of Dec. 25 and the capture of Trenton the following day—is well worth the scrutiny of every American. For without the success of this storied adventure, the United States might very well not exist today.

In the closing weeks of 1776, the year that the Declaration of Independence was signed, the Patriot cause appeared almost hopeless. The battered remnants of the American army, having been driven from their last stronghold in New York, were camped along the west bank of the Delaware. Some 2,500 men still were under arms, but most of them wore ragged summer uniforms and worn-out shoes.

"I think the game is pretty near up," Washington wrote in a letter to a relative.

But the downhearted commander-in-chief decided to try one last gamble. With the help of a personal spy, John Honeyman, Washington learned that the 1,500-man Hessian division across the river at Trenton was ill-prepared in winter quarters, not expecting any serious military action until spring. The Hessian commander, Col. Johann Rall, was openly disdainful of the Americans' fighting ability. So on Christmas night, in terrible conditions of rain, sleet and snow flurries, Washington led his soldiers across the ice-swollen river in 50-foot boats at a place called McKonkey's Ferry. Well after midnight, they began the nine-mile march to Trenton. A weapons check found that many flintlock muskets were useless because rain had soaked the powder in the firing pans. "Tell (them) to use the bayonet," Washington ordered. "The town must be taken." There is little doubt that Washington was prepared to die if the attack failed. He had personally declared the password for the fight: "Victory or death."

Shortly after day break the army, now split into two columns, approached the sleeping town and exchanged shots with a few Hessian pickets. But it was too late for the main garrison to be warned. The surprised Hessians stumbled out of their quarters and found themselves hemmed in by American infantrymen and artillery. After Col. Rall fell mortally wounded, most of the troops surrendered. It was all over within an hour. More than 900 Hessians were captured, 102 killed or wounded and about 400 escaped. The Americans had only four men wounded and not one killed. It was the turning point of the revolutionary war. The British historian Sir George Trevelyan later wrote: "It may be doubted whether so small a number of men ever employed so short a space of time with greater more lasting results upon the history of the world."

THE JOYS OF CHRISTMAS

Editor,
What a happy holiday it is going to be. Being thankful for God's blessing, sharing joyful feeling with the little ones, and the joyful feeling that lies within us.

Christmas to the little ones is joy and happiness. Waking up on Christmas morning, finding their stockings filled with goodies. Opening presents: dolls, bikes, trains and other nice things, the man with the big belly that shakes like jelly, who left his reindeer on top of the roof, came down the chimney, and put their toys under the Christmas tree.

Oh how happy they will be when their little eyes see what

Santa has left for them on Christmas Day.

Their houses are suddenly filled with Christmas joy because Santa has made their little hearts merry.

But for us, who understand Christmas, we live the Christmas spirit.

The aroma of food on the tables, exchanging gifts, the laughter of loved ones, relatives, and friends from far and near.

Candles burning, mistletoe, choirs singing outside our door, and smiling faces that we never have seen before. But most of all, the little thought of giving that will touch our hearts so deep.

So from me to you and especially The Herald-Palladium, I'm wishing each and everyone all over the world a very Merry Christmas and happiness in the coming year!

STATE PAY HIKES DRAW CRITICISM

Editor,
Your editorial about the action of the compensation committee of the state was very well put. There is a very good reason for the commission not getting more letters disagreeing with their action.

People have developed an apathy because it didn't do any good. They didn't say how many letters of approval they received from the ones who pay the bill. If all the legislators worked as hard, and represented what the people wanted, as Sen. Jack Welborn and a few others do, then this kind of raise might be warranted.

It sure would make a lot more sense if more people from the middle income group were put on that commission rather than lawyers and high-price business men. But of course they wouldn't get what they would like to have in that case.

Basically I believe legislature should have backbone enough to be responsible for all salaries and not leave it to an appointive commission. After all, they are elected by the people of their districts to do the job.

SAYS LEGISLATURE DOING 'TOO MUCH'

Editor,
After reading your editorial about the Michigan legislators, I begin to wonder why they stay in session so long. The longer they stay in Lansing the more bills they pass and that means more it will cost the taxpayers both for their salaries and the things they can think up.

In Indiana, they are in session for a very short time then they go home about their business for the rest of the year. In New Hampshire, they meet only every two years and they don't have any sales or income tax

Toy Car Is Mother's Favorite Yule Gift

other expensive gift? For Mrs. Eugene Lincoln, formerly of Berrien Springs, it's a 30-cent fire truck, according to a story published in "Woman Magazine" and written by her husband, Eugene. The toy truck has a special meaning for Mrs. Lincoln because it was a gift in 1954 from her five-year-old son. The fire truck now seems as a logical gift because the five-year-old boy in the story is the Lincoln's oldest son, David, a firefighter with the Benton Harbor fire department until he was laid off earlier this year.

The story written by Eugene Lincoln appeared in a summer edition of "Woman Magazine" and was titled "A Summertime Christmas Story."

The story relates how Eugene Lincoln and Dave went Christmas shopping in 1954. Dave had 30 cents to spend on his mother. His father tried to persuade him that a writing tablet or a hanky might be appropriate.

After "much" fruitless searching stores, Dave decided to buy her a fire truck because he told his father, "I think she'd like it, don't you? And maybe she'll let me play with it too?"

Eugene Lincoln failed to argue his son out of the purchase and on Christmas day, Mrs. Lincoln opened the "crudely-wrapped package containing the fire truck."

Lincoln wrote he had not prepared his wife for the gift and was somewhat surprised at her genuine feeling of happiness

She told her husband, "David did give me the nicest present he could have given. It was something that he had chosen for me — something that he felt he would have liked if he had been me. And I'll never forget it."

David Lincoln resides at 309 Krohn avenue, Berrien Springs. He and his wife, Janice have a four-year-old daughter and another child is expected Dec. 27. He is now employed at Hlicks Sign Co., St. Joseph, but added he is anxious to get back to being a fireman.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lincoln now live in Nashville, Tenn. Eugene Lincoln is a book editor for Southern Publishing association, according to David Lincoln. He said his father has written a number of free-lance articles that were published. His father was formerly employed at Andrews University Press.

He said the toy fire truck and the fact he became a firefighter were just a coincidence, but he is a little concerned about his daughter's selection of gifts.

She recently bought her grandmother a toy race car.

SJ Good Fellow Fund Closes $600 Over Goal

The books were closed today for the St. Joseph Area Good Fellow fund with a total of $6,583.38 nearly $600 over the goal.

Santa said, "It was a very good year. I'd like to thank all those who helped make the St. Joseph Area Good Fellow fund a success."

Four contributions were received today for a total of $74.18. Whirlpool Corp., Automatic Washer Engineering department, sent in $21.43.

As is the custom, the Whirlpool Corp., Research & Engineering Center, made contributions to a local charity rather than exchange Christmas cards with other department members. This year the charity was the Good Fellow fund. They contributed $40.75.

Also "a good friend" sent in $10 in memory of L.C. Upton. A two dollar contribution was received from the South Side Carbers. A couple of girls went caroling the other night down Timberlane drive, south of St. Joseph, and received the two dollars which they gave to the fund.

All the money received for the Good Fellow fund went to help those less fortunate in the St. Joseph area. A total of 385 checks have been distributed to help a total of 837 people, of which 387 were elderly.

The checks were distributed in St. Joseph, Berrien Springs, Baroda, Bridgman, Galien, Harbert, Lakeside, New Buffalo, New Troy, Sawyer, Stevensville, Three Oaks and Union Pier.

There were 15 members in the largest family helped. And two families with 13 members and 12 members were also aided.

Santa concluded, "Merry Christmas to all and a Happy New Year."

BH Groups Spread Christmas Cheer

The aged, young and impoverished are being remembered this Christmas by various organizations.

The staff of Berrien County Action, Inc., prepared baskets with turkey and all the trimmings for nine low income families. Silas Legg of BCA said it was personal contributions by staff and board members and the help of two businesses that made the gifts possible.

Members of Local 953 of American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees representing Benton

Harbor Area schools bus drivers gave $50 worth of toys to the pediatrics department at Mercy Hospital, according to Local President Roger Lange.

Baskets of fruit and nuts will be on tables at Harbor Towers apartments for the elderly in Benton Harbor as gifts of Gospel Propheters, according to Margaret Henderson, manager of the Benton Harbor group.

Order of Eastern Star Esther 41 and Shrine Chapter 141 packed baskets with turkey and ham for needy families, said Mrs. Carrie Barnes, worthy matron of Esther chapter.

SJ Blaze Blamed On Fireplace

At 1:30 this morning St. Joseph firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Marc Reid, 1001 St. Joseph drive, where heat from fire in a fireplace had transferred through the brick and ignited the wall in back of the fireplace.

Firemen extinguished the blaze in the wall, which was in the attached garage of the home.

Damage was limited to a hole approximately one foot in diameter and to a four-by-eight foot sheet of plywood which was removed to check for fire spread, firefighters said.

Dogfight Is Subject Of Lawsuit

A dogfight is the subject of a Berrien Circuit court suit in which a Fairplain man claims a German Shepherd bit his terrier and then bit him.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Cary, of 614 East Delaware street, seek any amount over $10,000 for injuries Cary allegedly sustained.

Named defendants were Auto Parlor, Inc., car wash at 2080-M-139, Benton township, and Donald Davino, identified in the suit as owner of the car wash and German Shepherd.

The suit claims Cary was walking his small terrier on the grounds of Fairplain East school on Aug. 1 when the German Shepherd, which Cary claims was allowed to run at large, attacked his dog and then bit him.

The suit says the car wash kept the dog as a watch dog, and characterized it as "ferocious, vicious, mischievous, and accustomed to attacking and biting mankind."

Hagar Treasurer Schedules Tax Payment Days

Hagar township property owners may pay 1976 property taxes at the Hagar township hall on three Fridays in January and three in February.

Mrs. Winifred Anderson, treasurer, said she would be at the hall between 1 to 5 p.m. on Jan. 7-21-28 and on Feb. 4-11-18, to receive payments.

'French Polio' Strikes 28 In State; One Dies

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Twenty-eight Michigan residents have been stricken with the paralyzing Guillain-Barre syndrome since Oct. 1, state health officials said Thursday.

Of those suffering the syndrome, 19 had received swine flu shots. The only fatal attack hit a person who had not been vaccinated, said Dr. Kenneth Wilcox, chief of the health department's bureau of disease control and laboratory services.

Wilcox said the high number of flu shot recipients among the paralysis victims could be a "statistical quirk."

He said the disease is spread among 13 Michigan counties and shows no clear pattern of sex, age or other characteristics. He said most of the victims are between the ages of 30 and 60.

Nationally, 233 persons had been stricken by Guillain-Barre as of Thursday. Public health officials are investigating a possible link between the sudden occurrences of the rare disease and the nationwide swine flu immunization program begun in October. The program has been halted during the probe.

Before the swine flu inoculation program started, 13 other cases of the syndrome were reported in Michigan since July 1, Wilcox said.

But health officials had not been keeping track of the disease until the question of its possible link with swine flu vaccine arose. So, Wilcox said, he was unable to say whether that was an unusually high incidence.

Wilcox said surveillance of the syndrome probably will continue until spring.

"Figures will be more meaningful on a national basis," Wilcox said. "The 28 cases in Michigan do not give us enough information to tell if there is truly an association between the disease and swine flu shots."

He said Michigan doctors and health officials have investigated reports of at least 104 possible cases of Guillain-Barre in the last several days.

The syndrome causes temporary paralysis and lasts up to six months, but about 90 per cent of the victims recover completely, health officials say. Wilcox had no details on the conditions of the 28 Michigan victims but said nine of them needed respirators to aid breathing at some time during their illnesses.

A 22-year-old Wayne County woman who died of the disease had not received a swine flu shot, Wilcox said. A 72-year-old man from Grand Traverse County also suffered a fatal attack, but that was before the swine flu program began, the health department said.

About 2.1 million Michigan residents, or 35 per cent of those eligible, have received swine flu shots.

Nationally, 110 of the 223 persons stricken with Guillain-Barre had received swine flu shots, while 108 had not. The status of 13 was unknown. There have been seven deaths.

Toy Car Is Mother's Favorite Yule Gift

DAVID LINCOLN

Berrien Christmas Story Is Told In National Magazine

other expensive gift? For Mrs. Eugene Lincoln, formerly of Berrien Springs, it's a 30-cent fire truck, according to a story published in "Woman Magazine" and written by her husband, Eugene. The toy truck has a special meaning for Mrs. Lincoln because it was a gift in 1954 from her five-year-old son. The fire truck now seems as a logical gift because the five-year-old boy in the story is the Lincolns' oldest son, David, a firefighter with the Benton Harbor fire department until he was laid off earlier this year.

The story written by Eugene Lincoln appeared in a summer edition of "Woman Magazine" and was titled "A Summertime Christmas Story."

The story relates how Eugene Lincoln and Dave went Christmas shopping in 1954. Dave had 30 cents to spend on his mother. His father tried to persuade him that a writing tablet or a hanky might be appropriate.

Eugene Lincoln failed to argue his son out of the purchase and on Christmas day, Mrs. Lincoln opened the "crudely-wrapped package containing the fire truck."

Lincoln wrote he had not prepared his wife for the gift and was somewhat surprised at her genuine feeling of happiness.

She told her husband, "David did give me the nicest present he could have given. It was something that he had chosen for me — something that he felt he would have liked if he had been me. And I'll never forget it!"

David Lincoln resides at 509 Krohn avenue, Berrien Springs. He and his wife, Janice have a four-year-old daughter and another child is expected Dec. 27. He is now employed at Hicks Sign Co., St. Joseph, but added he is anxious to get back to being a fireman.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lincoln now live in Nashville, Tenn. Eugene Lincoln is a book editor for Southern Publishing association, according to David Lincoln. He said his father has written a number of free-lance articles that were published. His father was formerly employed at Andrews University Press.

He said the toy fire truck and the fact he became a firefighter were just a coincidence, but he is a little concerned about his daughter's selection of gifts.

She recently bought her grandmother a toy race car.

ALL TUCKERED OUT: That's what mother of these 13 black Labrador pups is after nursing big brood, now being pan-fed. Owner of dogs, Don DeFord, Stevensville, said 13 were born Oct. 22. He said usual number in Labrador litter is between five and eight. It was first (and last, DeFord vows) litter for 2½-year-old "Black Sissy." DeFord said delivery process took about nine hours and all the pups lived. Black Sissy had no outside help with delivery. DeFord believes there are eight males and five females, but says it's hard to get accurate sex count of lively pups. (Staff photo)

SJ Good Fellow Fund Closes $600 Over Goal

The books were closed today for the St. Joseph Area Good Fellow fund with a total of $5,583.38 nearly $600 over the goal.

Santa said, "It was a very good year. I'd like to thank all those who helped make the St. Joseph Area Good Fellow fund a success."

Four contributions were received today for a total of $74.18. Whirlpool Corp., Automatic Washer Engineering department, sent in $21.43.

As is the custom, the Whirlpool Corp., Research & Engineering Center, made contributions to a local charity rather than exchange Christmas cards with other department members. This year the charity was the Good Fellow fund. They contributed $40.75.

Also "a good friend" sent in $10 in memory of L.C. Upton. A two dollar contribution was received from the South Side Carolers. A couple of girls went caroling the other night down Timberlane drive, south of St. Joseph, and received the two dollars which they gave to the fund.

All the money received for the Good Fellow fund went to help those less fortunate in the St. Joseph area. A total of 385 checks have been distributed to help a total of 837 people, of which 397 were elderly.

The checks were distributed in St. Joseph, Berrien Springs, Baroda, Bridgman, Galien, Harbert, Lakeside, New Buffalo, New Troy, Sawyer, Stevensville, Three Oaks and Union Pier.

There were 15 members in the largest family helped. And two families with 13 members and 12 members were also aided.

BH Groups Spread Christmas Cheer

The aged, young and impoverished are being remembered this Christmas by various organizations.

The staff of Berrien County Action, Inc., prepared baskets with turkey and all the trimmings for nine low income families. Silas Legg of BCA said it was personal contributions by staff and board members and the help of two businesses that made the gifts possible.

Members of Local 953 of American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees representing Benton

Harbor Area schools bus drivers gave $50 worth of toys to the pediatrics department at Mercy hospital, according to Local President Roger Lange.

Baskets of fruit and nuts will be on tables at Harbor Towers apartments for the elderly in Benton Harbor as gifts of Gospel Prophets, according to Margaret Henderson, manager of the Benton Harbor group.

Order of Eastern Star Esther 41 and Shrine Chapter 141 packed baskets with turkey and ham for needy families, said Mrs. Carrie Barnes, worthy matron of Esther chapter.

SJ Blaze Blamed On Fireplace

At 1:30 this morning St. Joseph firemen were called to the home of Mrs. Marc Reid, 1907 St. Joseph drive, where heat from fire in a fireplace had transferred through the brick and ignited the wall in back of the fireplace.

Firemen extinguished the blaze in the wall, which was in the attached garage of the home.

Damage was limited to a hole approximately one foot in diameter and to a four-by-eight foot sheet of plywood which was removed to check for fire spread, firefighters said.

Dogfight Is Subject Of Lawsuit

A dogfight is the subject of a Berrien Circuit court suit in which a Fairplain man claims a German Shepherd bit his terrier and then bit him.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Cary, of 614 East Delaware street, seek any amount over $10,000 for injuries Cary allegedly sustained.

Named defendants were Auto Parlor, Inc., car wash at 2080 M-139, Benton township, and Donald Davino, identified in the suit as owner of the car wash and German Shepherd.

The suit claims Cary was walking his small terrier on the grounds of Fairplain East school on Aug. 1 when the German Shepherd, which Cary claims was allowed to run at large, attacked his dog and then bit him.

The suit says the car wash kept the dog as a watch dog, and characterized it as "ferocious, vicious, mischievous, and accustomed to attacking and biting mankind."

Hagar Treasurer

Hagar township property owners may pay 1976 property taxes at the Hagar township hall on three Fridays in January and three in February.

Mrs. Winifred Anderson, treasurer, said she would be at the hall between 1 to 5 p.m. on Jan. 7-21-28 and on Feb. 4-11-18, to receive payments.

'French Polio' Strikes 28 In State; One Dies

By DONALD WOUTAT
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Twenty-eight Michigan residents have been stricken with the paralyzing Guillain-Barre syndrome since Oct. 1, state health officials said Thursday.

Of those suffering the syndrome, 19 had received swine flu shots. The only fatal attack hit a person who had not been vaccinated, said Dr. Kenneth Wilcox, chief of the health department's bureau of disease control and laboratory services.

Wilcox said the high number of flu shot recipients among the paralysis victims could be a "statistical quirk."

He said the disease is spread among 13 Michigan counties and shows no clear pattern of sex, age or other characteristics. He said most of the victims are between the ages of 30 and 60.

Nationally, 233 persons had been stricken by Guillain-Barre as of Thursday. Public health officials are investigating a possible link between the sudden occurrences of the rare disease and the nationwide swine flu immunization program begun in October. The program has been halted during the probe.

Before the swine flu inoculation program started, 13 other cases of the syndrome were reported in Michigan since July 1, Wilcox said.

But health officials had not been keeping track of the disease until the question of its possible link with swine flu vaccine arose. So, Wilcox said, he was unable to say whether that was an unusually high incidence.

Wilcox said surveillance of the syndrome probably will continue until spring.

"Figures will be more meaningful on a national basis," Wilcox said. "The 28 cases in Michigan do not give us enough information to tell if there is truly an association between the disease and swine flu shots."

He said Michigan doctors and health officials have investigated reports of at least 104 possible cases of Guillain-Barre in the last several days.

The syndrome causes temporary paralysis and lasts up to six months, but about 90 per cent of the victims recover completely, health officials say.

Wilcox had no details on the conditions of the 28 Michigan victims but said nine of them needed respirators to aid breathing at some time during their illnesses.

A 22-year-old Wayne County woman who died of the disease had not received a swine flu shot, Wilcox said. A 72-year-old man from Grand Traverse County also suffered a fatal attack, but that was before the swine flu program began, the health department said.

About 2.1 million Michigan residents, or 35 per cent of those eligible, have received swine flu shots.

Nationally, 110 of the 223 persons stricken with Guillain-Barre had received swine flu shots, while 100 had not. The status of 13 was unknown. There have been seven deaths.

DANK Will Give Book To Libraries

The German-American Club (DANK) of Benton Harbor-St. Joseph will present a book on German-Americans to each elementary school in Berrien county and public libraries in Benton Harbor, St. Joseph, Coloma, Stevensville, and Eau Claire, according to Josef Baumann, DANK president.

Titled "Spirit of 1776-1976," the book by Heinrich Tolzmann is on German-Americans who have contributed to the history of the United States. The cover bears the poem "At Your Side There Were Germans, Too" in its original German with English translation on the back cover.

Christmas Legends Captured In Cards

Take a closer look at your Christmas cards. There may be more there than meets the eye.

"Christmas cards are full of symbolism," says Sally Hopkins, researcher for a leading greeting card company. "Many of the illustrations are based on almost forgotten legends."

According to a German legend, tinsel resulted when little house spiders spun their silk to decorate the bare tree of a poor old woman who had been kind to them. Their act of charity impressed an angel who turned the spider webs to shining silver.

The Christmas tree is the subject of another German legend.

As a woodsman and his family were about to retire on Christmas Eve, a small, cold and hungry child knocked at the door. The family took the child in, fed him and gave him a place to sleep.

The next morning the family awakened to the singing of a choir of angels. They discovered that it was the Christ Child they had fed. Jesus planted a twig from a fir tree in the ground and said: "I have gladly received your gifts, and here is mine to you; this tree will never fail to bear its fruit at Christmas and you shall always have abundance."

Christmas card artists have a wealth of other symbols from which to draw, Miss Hopkins says.

Holly is symbolic of chastity. Flying birds symbolize spiritual life. A peacock stands for eternal life.

Lambs call attention to the sacrifice on the cross. Sheep indicate that all living things owe allegiance to their Creator. Beasts of burden often stand for humility.

A white rose on a Christmas card recalls the legend of the little shepherd girl who burst into tears at the manger because she had no gift. An angel, seeing her plight, turned her tears into white roses.

Christmas lights symbolize the Glory of God and holly berries the drops of blood caused by Christ's crown of thorns.

Even Santa Claus, though he has been secularized through the years, sprang from religious origins, Miss Hopkins says.

"The children of Dutch colonists called St. Nicholas, an early Christian bishop, Sinterklaas," she says, "and it wasn't long before the name was Americanized to Santa Claus."

By whatever name, Santa Claus symbolized the joy of giving.

Although America is commonly regarded as a melting pot, many American traditions and customs have a distinct ethnic and regional flavor. A look at our Christmas traditions is proof of this distinctiveness.

French settlers in the Southern portions of the United States ushered in the holiday by the use of fireworks, firearms, and anything else that would make loud noises. This custom is still observed in some rural communities.

The preparation of large meals, a main part of Christmas on a Southern plantation, is now a universally honored custom. Traditional dinners of turkey, ham, or goose, garnished with desserts of pies, cakes, and cookies, are still gastronomical delights. George Washington's circle of family and friends were treated to Martha Washington's Christmas cake, which, among other ingredients, called for the use of 40 eggs!

In the days of the Puritans, a person greeting a passerby with the salutation, "Merry Christmas," was awarded a five dollar fine for his gesture. These settlers were bound by a law passed in 1659 prohibiting the celebration of Christmas. In fact, this ban continued until the 1800s when the Episcopal Sunday schools in New England began observing the holiday.

Around this time, the early Irish immigrants, settling in Boston, transplanted their custom of placing a lighted candle in the window an act symbolically lighting the way for the Christ child.

Those wishing further information about the test or financial aids for nursing students may call the admissions office at the college.

Sewing Hints

By DOROTHY KING

I am making a velvet dress. I plan to send it to the cleaners after it is finished, but I am not sure about how to press it during construction. Can you please help me? D.G., Benton Harbor

Dear D.G.: There are two very good methods for pressing velvets and velveteens without crushing the pile. They are as follows:

1. Purchase a needle board. This is a pressing aid designed especially for this job. Place the fabric pile side down on the needle board and press lightly using steam.
2. Use a piece of velvet from your scraps as a press cloth. Place press cloth on garment with right sides of press cloth and garment facing. Press with very light pressure and steam.

If you do not have a steam iron use this method with a regular iron to produce a steam effect. Place your iron in an upright position on your ironing board and cover the soleplate with a damp cloth. Place the wrong side of your garment against the soleplate and draw it slowly across the wet cloth.

As you move the garment, also move the wet cloth to create continuous steam. To avoid imprints on the pile, keep your fingers away from the fabric as much as possible.

After your garment is finished, turn the hot water on in your shower. Hang your dress away from the water source but close enough for it to get completely steamed. Turn off shower, but leave dress hanging until dry. If necessary, brush with a soft brush to restore pile.

Lighted Christmas Tree

German immigrants to the United States brought with them the beautiful tradition of the lighted Christmas tree.

It is said that the first lighted tree was a contribution made by Martin Luther, who, after taking a walk in a nearby forest before Christmas, placed candles on an evergreen to recapture the stars he saw shining through the branches of the trees.

Decorations for Christmas trees in the early Republic were usually candles and ornaments fashioned from bits and pieces of materials found in the home.

In the 20th century, candles were gradually replaced by electric light strings.

For Unto You Is Born This Day...A Saviour

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.
And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were so afraid.
And the angel said unto them: Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.
For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — A thankoffering, part of the 125th anniversary celebration of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod, topped its $3.55 million goal Dec. 7.

On May 18, 1975, the 400,000 member Wisconsin Synod celebrated the 125th anniversary of its organization which took place in Granville, now Milwaukee, on May 27, 1850. The synod's 1973 convention authorized a thankoffering for the occasion with a goal of $2.8 million. Commitments from the synod's 1,063 congregations, however, totaled $3.55 million or 27 per cent above the goal set by the convention.

The first $2.4 million of the offering was used to fund three dormitories, one at Northwestern college, Watertown, Wis., and two at Michigan Lutheran seminary, Saginaw, a high school preparing students for the synod's teaching and preaching ministry. Another $1 million has been given to the Church Extension Fund — for building mission churches — and to the World Mission Building Fund.

According to the Rev. Carl H. Mischke of Juneau, Wis., the synod's first vice president and chairman of the anniversary committee, thankoffering receipts will "easily reach $3.6 million." He said that a "number of congregations have not quite reached their goal, but they are expected to reach it in the next several months." This, he said, will account for an additional $50,000.

Congregations of the synod are in 46 states and three provinces of Canada, and mission churches are supported in 10 foreign countries.

Congregations in the area which are members of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran synod are St. Paul's of Stevensville, Sodus and South Haven; Grace of Eau Claire and St. Joseph; Good Shepherd and St. Matthew's of Benton Harbor; St. John's of Dowagiac; Hope of Hartford, and Trinity of Bangor.

No. 271. The Valley of the Bones

The hand of the Lord came upon Ezekiel, and carried him to the floor of a valley where old, dry bones were scattered everywhere along the ground. Ezekiel was then asked if these bones could live, and he responded that only God knew that answer.
"Thus saith the Lord God unto these bones, Behold, I will cause breath to enter into you, and ye shall live: And I will lay sinews upon you, and will bring up flesh upon you, and cover you with skin, and put breath in you, and ye shall live, and ye shall know that I am the Lord." (Ezekiel 37:1-6)
"Then he said unto me, Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel: behold, they say, Our bones are dried, and our hope is lost; we are cut off for our parts. Therefore prophesy, and say unto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, O my people, I will open your graves, and cause you to come up out of your graves, and bring you into the land of Israel." For Unto You Is Born This Day...A Saviour

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.
And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were so afraid.
And the angel said unto them: Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.
For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

She's Sick Of Sick Schools

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teacher who is considering resigning from my profession — because I am sick of being called foul names by students. I am sick of students calling each other four-letter words. I am sick of hearing the principal being referred to as "that dude in the office." I am sick of attitudes expressed in terms of "I don't care" and "You can't make me." I am sick of garbage and fights in the hallways. I am sick of parents who coddle their kids and take their side when school officials try to instill discipline as their parents should have done long ago.

I have hope for my profession, but it grows dimmer by the day. The only solution I see to this sickness is that teachers and administrators will one day get fed up and insist on contracts that permit them to exercise authority when they feel it is needed.

Don't mention the city, please. Just sign me — Irritated in Iowa

Dear Iowa: Your letter sounds as if it were written in 1968. The teachers with whom I have had contact in recent years tell me that students of all ages are looking better, thinking better and behaving better.

If I've been misled, I hope you teachers out there will let me know.

Facts of Life

Dear Ann: Now that Christmas is near, will you please deliver this message to parents of young children:

If you have decided your youngster is old enough to be told there is no Santa Claus, no Easter Bunny and no Tooth Fairy, will you please instruct the child NOT to tell his playmates?

My husband and I are just sick. Our Johnny, a second-grader, believed in all those magical characters and was so happy with his fantasy friends until yesterday. A boy in his room at school spilled the beans. The disillusionment was so hurtful to Johnny he cried. What a cruel thing, to rob a youngster of his dream-world joys! It just broke our hearts.

We hope you will print this letter and perhaps spare other children from the same fate. — Johnny's Mom And Dad

Dear M. and D.: There's no way parents can protect their children from becoming "defantized" by their playmates. In fact, it is from their playmates that most kids learn what life is all about.

Best Gift

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing this for my neighbor who is 64 years old. Her eyes are bad and she has arthritis in her hands and can't hold a pen for long.

This woman wants you to put

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You behave like a true champion today. You want to do things with no ulterior motive, other than to make others happy and lighten their burdens.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) After your family, a must for you today is to spend time with your close friends. Either drop in on them or invite them to your home.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're held in unusually high esteem by your peers today, particularly among people you work with. You could write your own ticket in this area.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) There is an additional Christmas surprise in store for you. It will do no good to try to guess where it's coming from!

For Monday, Dec. 27, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Keep your temper in check today. Losing it will create problems that could easily be avoided. Count to ten a couple of times!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your curiosity is intense today. You could be tempted to stick your nose into the affairs of others. Doing so could spell trouble.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's possible you could be the unwitting pawn in another's chess game today. Steer clear of persons you feel are trying to use you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Friction with a subordinate can be avoided today if you don't take his moodiness too seriously. He's got a problem he doesn't want to discuss.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't try to be overly possessive with a loved one today. Allow this person the same freedom and latitude you expect.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You might try to place the onus for a poor decision on someone else. If you do, this person will let you know in no uncertain terms.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be safety conscious today. Don't try to perform hastily tasks requiring use of tools or machinery.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your extravagant tendencies are newly surfaced today. Take care, or you could make some foolish purchases.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You tend to be extremely short today with your family. They'll have to tread very softly or you'll snap their heads off.

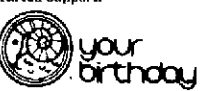

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Take care not to read more into things people say than they mean. You could see an insult where none was intended.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Before volunteering for club or social work today, assess its cost in time and money. Once committed, it will be hard to back out.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Being set on having things your own way could result in frustration today. The boss may be equally stubborn. We'll have the last word.

something in your column about people who mean well but don't use their heads when it comes to visiting old folks. It seems they always bring this woman caramels or taffy or popcorn which she can't eat because of her dentures. Sometimes they bring dried flowers, which she can't stand, or a bottle of cologne. She's allergic to perfume.

The elderly would appreciate a hot meal prepared in somebody else's kitchen. That, she says, is the best gift of all. So please, Ann, pass the word. — The Lady Down The Street

Dear Lady: Consider it passed.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teenage Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Sent 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

There is nothing sadder in this world than to awake Christmas morning and not be a child.

Not to feel the cold on your bare feet as you rush to the Christmas tree in the living room. Not to have your eyes sparkle at the wonderment of discovery. Not to rip the ribbons off the shiny boxes with such abandon.

When did the cold, bare feet give way to reason and a pair of sensible bedroom slippers? when did the sparkle and the wonderment give way to depression of a long day? When did a box with a shiny ribbon mean an item on the "charge"?

A child of Christmas doesn't have to be a toddler or a teen. A child of Christmas is anyone who believes that Kings have birthdays.

The Christmases you loved so well are gone. What happened? Maybe they diminished the year you decided to have your Christmas cards printed to send to 1,500 of your "closest friends and dearest obligations." You got too busy to sign your own name. Maybe it was the year you discovered the traditional Christree was a fire hazard and the needles had to be vacuumed every three hours and you traded its holiday aroma for a silver one that revolved, changed colors, played "Silent Night" and snowed on itself.

Or the year it got to be too much trouble to sit around the table and put popcorn and cranberries on a string. Possibly you lost your childhood the year you solved your gift problems neatly and coldly with a checkbook.

Think about it. It might have been the year you were too rushed to bake and resorted to microwave-bake with no nonsense. Who needs a bowl to clean — or lick?

Most likely it was the year you were so efficient in paying back all your party obligations. A wonderful little caterer did it for you for $3 per person.

Children of Christmas are givers. That's what the day is for. They give thanks, love, gratitude, joy and themselves to one another.

It doesn't necessarily mean you have to have children around a tree. It's rather like lighting a candle you've been saving, caroling when your feet are cold, building a fire in a clean grate, grinding tinsel deep into the rug, licking frosting off a beater, giving something you made yourself.

It's laughter, being with people you like, and at some time falling to your knees and saying, "Thank you for coming to my birthday party."

How sad indeed to awake on Christmas and not be a child.

Time, self-pity, apathy, bitterness and exhaustion can take the Christmas out of the child, but you cannot take the child out of Christmas.

My husband is extremely nervous and suffers from fatigue at the end of the day. I'm sure it's anemia, but he won't listen. Is there any kind of tonic or iron for anemia that I could urge him to take? — Mrs. C.Y., Neb. Dear Mrs. Y.:

Your homemade diagnosis of anemia is leading you into a state of "medical" confusion. Before you base your husband's symptoms on your own diagnosis he should be urged, more sensibly, to seek the advice of a physician.

Even though extreme fatigue and nervousness may be related to anemia, many other physical and psychological problems should first be eliminated.

A simple blood test can take the guesswork out of the definite diagnosis of anemia. If an iron deficiency anemia is present, replacement of iron by tablet, and by eating nourishing foods high in iron, will rectify it.

Expensive tonics and vitamin supplements are no more beneficial than inexpensive iron tablets and an improved diet. The expensive ones can cause an anemia of the pocketbook, which can only lead to increased nervousness of those who must pay for them!

Can you tell me something about the stripping method for varicose veins of the legs? — Mrs. G.W.A., Mich. Dear Mrs. A.:

"Stripping" is one of a number of techniques used for the treatment of varicose veins. Under anesthesia, a long wire is threaded into the veins. The vein is then stripped, almost like the "snake" technique that electricians use to bring wire from one room to another.

This stripping method is not recommended in all cases of varicose veins. The choice of a particular type of operation is made by the surgeon after carefully evaluating the patient's individual problem.

In some instances, injection technique are first tried. The standard surgical procedure of removing varicose veins is also considered. This is known as "cutting and ligation." It has served for many years as an effective method of bringing relief to patients burdened by the problems of varicose veins.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

She's Sick Of Sick Schools

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teacher who is considering resigning from my profession — because I am sick of being called foul names by students. I am sick of students calling each other four-letter words. I am sick of hearing the principal being referred to as "that dude in the office." I am sick of attitudes expressed in terms of "I don't care" and "You can't make me." I am sick of garbage and fights in the hallways. I am sick of parents who coddle their kids and take their side when school officials try to instill discipline as their parents should have done long ago.

I have hope for my profession, but it grows dimmer by the day. The only solution I see to this sickness is that teachers and administrators will one day get fed up and insist on contracts that permit them to exercise authority when they feel it is needed.

Don't mention the city, please. Just sign me — Irritated In Iowa

Dear Iowa: Your letter sounds as if it were written in 1968. The teachers with whom I have had contact in recent years tell me that students of all ages are looking better, thinking better and behaving better.

If I've been misled, I hope you teachers out there will let me know.

Facts of Life

Dear Ann: Now that Christmas is near, will you please deliver this message to parents of young children:

If you have decided your youngster is old enough to be told there is no Santa Claus, no Easter Bunny and no Tooth Fairy, will you please instruct the child NOT to tell his playmates?

My husband and I are just sick. Our Johnny, a second-grader, believed in all those magical characters and was so happy with his fantasy friends until yesterday. A boy in his room at school spilled the beans. The disillusionment was so hurtful to Johnny he cried. What a cruel thing, to rob a youngster of his dream-world joys! It just broke our hearts.

We hope you will print this letter and perhaps spare other children from the same fate. — Johnny's Mom And Dad

Dear M. and D.: There's no way parents can protect their children from becoming "defantized" by their playmates. In fact, it is from their playmates that most kids learn what life is all about.

Best Gift

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing this for my neighbor who is 84 years old. Her eyes are bad and she has arthritis in her hands and can't hold a pen for long.

Wind Shift May Turn Oil Slick

BOSTON (AP) — Marine experts are hoping that an expected wind shift will keep a 100-mile long carpet of heavy oil from encroaching on the rich fishing grounds of Georges Bank. But that's all they can do — hope. Forecasters said the wind would reverse from southeasterly to northwesterly today and could hold off the oil slick, which is spreading from the tanker Argo Merchant, wrecked on the shoals off Nantucket Island. The U.S. Coast Guard said winds will almost certainly keep the oil from any U.S. shore, and they predicted that if it comes ashore anywhere, it might be across the Atlantic. "In a few months, if it sticks together, it might come ashore somewhere — Iceland, Great Britain, who knows?" said Coast Guard Capt. Lynn Hein.

Slovik Widow Seeks Funds

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Army was mailed a formal request Thursday seeking reopening of the case of Pvt. Eddie Slovik, the only American soldier shot for desertion since the Civil War. The request, filed by a lawyer here on behalf of Slovik's widow, claims the Army committed legal and moral errors in executing Slovik by firing squad in France on Jan. 31, 1945. Bernard Edelson, lawyer for the widow, said he has asked the Army Board for Correction of Military Records to approve payment to Mrs. Slovik of $61,000, the proceeds plus interest on Slovik's military life insurance policy. Mrs. Slovik is living on welfare in a Detroit nursing home under an assumed name, Edelson said, but was fully informed Wednesday about the contents of the application. The application claims the Army failed to conduct an adequate psychiatric evaluation of Slovik before he was shot and also failed to provide him with a record of his one-day trial, as mandated by military law, Edelson said.

Help For Stranded Students

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan attorney general has called on the U.S. State Department for help getting 48 stranded exchange students back to their homes. The Ann Arbor-based International Cultural Exchange apparently has gone broke. Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said, and can't pay for return transportation for the students. Twenty-one American college and high school students, including eight from Michigan, have been stranded in Latin America, Kelley said. Also affected are 27 foreign students in this country, Kelley said. He called on the U.S. State Department to arrange transportation for the students, who are due home in January. Among Michigan students believed included is Margo Moser, of Holland.

Extradition Proceedings

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) — Authorities began extradition plans Thursday following the arrest of a man in Michigan City, Ind., for the July 11 shooting of a Holland man. Theodore Krystekski, 21, was apprehended at his Michigan City apartment Wednesday by FBI agents and city police. Krystekski had been wanted under a federal fugitive warrant since the day after MacArthur Blanton, 25, was shot once in the abdomen during an argument at a Holland bar. Detectives in Michigan City said they learned of Krystekski's whereabouts from a tip to the FBI office in South Bend, Ind.

Fourteen-Year Legal Battle

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Hamtramck widow who was alerted by a 1962 newspaper article that her husband's death might have been caused by his city job has won a 14-year legal battle to collect benefits. The Michigan Supreme Court has reversed an appeals court ruling Thursday and ordered the case of 70-year-old Lottie Krol reopened. The decision doesn't quite qualify as an early Christmas present, however. Now the problem might be collecting the $14,500 in damages from the financially-strapped city of Hamtramck, said one of the attorneys who worked on the case. Mrs. Krol's husband, Bruno, died of brain damage in 1960 after working 10 years painting traffic control signs for the city. During the winter he worked indoors and was exposed to fumes from paint, kerosene and gas, the court said.

Red's Arrest Protested

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Thousands of youths protesting the arrest of Communist leader Santiago Carrillo have clashed with police in Madrid's central square for a second night. An estimated 3,000 to 4,000 young people threw rocks, raised clenched fists and hoisted red flags in front of police headquarters Thursday night. Police chased the demonstrators through side streets and threw smoke bombs to disperse them. No arrests or injuries were reported. About 2,000 persons took part in similar demonstrations Wednesday night in the square.

More For Retired Teachers

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill boosting benefits for retired teachers and other school employees has been signed into law by Gov. William Milliken. It will provide retirement increases of from 1 to 8 per cent as of Oct. 1 this year, depending on when the employee retired. Next Oct. 1, retirees will get another boost of the same size. The measure also permits members to receive credit toward retirement for up to six years of military service. The employee would have made his normal contribution for those years, however. Budget officials estimate the bill will cost the state $10.6 million in the current fiscal year.

Milliken Rips Sen. Mack

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has lambasted the behavior of a state senator toward one of the governor's aides, calling it "outrageous, crude, in bad taste and inexcusable."

Milliken blasted Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood, at a news conference Thursday. Mack tried last week to eliminate a pay raise for Joyce Braithwaite, the governor's aide who recommends gubernatorial appointments and advises on political matters.

But Milliken's wrath was aimed at Mack's personal attacks on Mrs. Braithwaite. H. who has angered him by passing over his suggestions for appointments. Mack criticized her on the Senate floor last week as he sought to cut her pay hike.

Mrs. Braithwaite's pay increase, from $27,680 to $32,250, was eliminated in the Senate but restored by the House before the bill passed. It also carried pay increases for department heads and other top state officials.

Mack's performance drew a personal letter from Mrs. Braithwaite on Monday, in which she called him "the most reprehensible, scurrilous, least-respected person" in the state Capitol.

In mocking her duties, Mack referred to Mrs. Braithwaite as "Joyce-girl," and "just some secretary," and in the past has used vulgarities to describe her.

Milliken said in a response to questions Thursday that Mack's behavior was "outrageous." He said he had learned further details of Mack's past behavior toward Mrs. Braithwaite, but refused to elaborate.

Mack's comments last week and in the past were "crude, in bad taste and inexcusable," Milliken said. "I deplore that approach and personally resent it, and it is time for Sen. Joseph Mack to cease and desist from these tactics."

But, he acknowledged, Mack "may have met his match" in the outspoken Braithwaite, who said in her letter Mack was "the poorest excuse for a public servant ever to occupy an office in this state."

Mack, however, denied Thursday he had criticized Mrs. Braithwaite personally. "I didn't call Braithwaite anything. I just criticized her salary," he said. "Since when does she justify a $4,000 raise over what she was making? The job isn't worth that."

Milliken, who has criticized Mack's legislative conduct in the past, denied he vetoed a land sales bill sponsored by Mack to get back at him for not approving a wetlands protection measure in his Senate Conservation Committee.

But he noted Mack has "bottled up" several important pieces of legislation the governor wanted passed.

Carter Putting Aside Politics For Quiet Christmas At Home

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter is settled down at home for a quiet Christmas with his family after completing the 50-day process of naming his cabinet.

The President-elect, whose news conferences and statements of cabinet choices have been virtually constant since his Nov. 2 election, vowed to give Americans a politically silent Christmas, saying he plans no more announcements until the holiday ends.

Carter completed his lengthy cabinet selection process Thursday by naming Joseph A. Califano Jr., a Washington lawyer and a principal architect of President Lyndon B. Johnson's "Great Society" legislation, to head the giant Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Carter also filled two other key noncabinet posts by naming former Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger as special assistant to the president in charge of energy policy, and Theodore Sorensen, once a principal aide to President John F. Kennedy, as director of the CIA.

After Christmas, he plans meetings with his 11-member cabinet on St. Simons Island off the south Georgia coast where his team will begin planning the policy positions and directions the new administration will take after the Jan. 20 inauguration.

Carter also has a meeting Tuesday on the island with New York Gov. Hugh Carey and New York City Mayor Abraham Beame.

Two top-level Carter administration appointees say they will quit private clubs that have no black members and do not routinely accept women. But the membership status of three other Carter nominees in similar organizations remains unchanged.

The five are men named by President-elect Carter to be secretaries of defense, state and Treasury, the attorney general — all cabinet posts — and the director of the White House Office of Management and Budget.

Carter said Monday that he personally would not join private clubs that discriminate on the basis of sex or race. He said he hoped his cabinet members wouldn't join such clubs but that he would not tell them what to do.

By Wednesday, Atty. Gen. designate Griffin Bell and Thomas "Bert" Lance, named to head the OMB, said they would drop their memberships in private clubs in Atlanta and Savannah, Ga. None of the clubs have black members.

The chairman of one club refuses to say if women are allowed to join, and a spokesman for another says a few women who are widows of members are allowed. Another of the clubs does allow women members.

Three other Carter cabinet nominees and the President-elect's choice for deputy secretary of defense have similar memberships and have not announced any intention to resign.

The Carter transition office said it did not know whether the three cabinet nominees — Michael Blumenthal, named to be Treasury secretary; Dr. Harold Brown, secretary of defense-designate; or Cyrus Vance, Carter's choice for secretary of state — planned to retain their club memberships or resign.

Vance, Carter's choice for secretary of state — planned to retain their club memberships or resign.

Cooper, free on bond since 1972, was accused of going into Michigan National Bank in Battle Creek and telling employees he had a bomb in a suitcase.

Overtured Conviction Riles Three Policemen

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Three police officers say they are angry that a convicted bank robber was freed by the state Supreme Court because he was the victim of double jeopardy.

"It's a sick world we're living in, and it's a dirty rotten shame that a guy like this can walk around scot-free," said Battle Creek Police Detective Max Bracy.

The day before, the state's high court had freed Marx Cooper, 45, reversing his 1971 circuit court conviction for bank robbery.

The court unanimously ruled a person cannot be tried for the same offense in both federal and state courts unless the courts have substantially different interests at stake.

Bracy and Capt. Robert Houghaling were two of four Battle Creek officers who received citations for valor for actions in the December 1970 robbery.

Police and bank officials overpowered him and discovered he was carrying nine sticks of dynamite.

Sinking Report Believed Hoax

BOSTON (AP) — The Coast Guard has called off an air and sea search for six persons supposedly adrift in a life raft, because it believes the distress call it received was a hoax.

"The call has been evaluated as a hoax," a Coast Guard spokesman said early today.

Cooper "jeopardized lives of countless people at the bank, and he's getting off on a lousy technicality," said Houghaling.

Lt. Horace Parker, who also was cited for valor in the incident, said many people would have been killed if Cooper had set off the bomb.

"We had an assignment, and we did it well," Parker said. "I'm going to do my job, and if someone doesn't do theirs, it's their business. But the loser is the entire country. Every citizen loses."

The fourth officer cited for valor, Det. Robert Salage, has retired to Texas.

An Integrated Christmas

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Gov. Edwin Edwards has been advised by an assistant secretary of health and human resources that "a White Christmas would be in violation of Title 86 of the Civil Rights Act of 1964." That tongue-in-cheek comment came in a letter from A.Z. Young, one of a large number of blacks Edwards has installed in key positions. Young, active in civil rights demonstrations of the 1960s, suggested that "to insure that we comply with the act during the Christmas season in our offices ... all Christmas trees must have at least 23.4 per cent colored bulbs and they must be placed throughout the tree and not segregated in the back of the tree." He also said that in nativity scenes "20 per cent of the angels and one of the Three Kings must be of a minority race."

Carter Putting Aside Politics For Quiet Christmas At Home

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter is settled down at home for a quiet Christmas with his family after completing the 50-day process of naming his cabinet.

The President-elect, whose news conferences and statements of cabinet choices have been virtually constant since his Nov. 2 election, vowed to give Americans a politically silent Christmas, saying he plans no more announcements until the holiday ends.

Carter completed his lengthy cabinet selection process Thursday by naming Joseph A. Califano Jr., a Washington lawyer and a principal architect of President Lyndon B. Johnson's "Great Society" legislation, to head the giant Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Carter also filled two other key noncabinet posts by naming former Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger as special assistant to the president in charge of energy policy, and Theodore Sorensen, once a principal aide to President John F. Kennedy, as director of the CIA.

After Christmas, he plans meetings with his 11-member cabinet on St. Simons Island off the south Georgia coast where his team will begin planning the policy positions and directions the new administration will take after the Jan. 20 inauguration.

Carter also has a meeting Tuesday on the island with New York Gov. Hugh Carey and New York City Mayor Abraham Beame.

Two top-level Carter administration appointees say they will quit private clubs that have no black members and do not routinely accept women. But the membership status of three other Carter nominees in similar organizations remains unchanged.

The five are men named by President-elect Carter to be secretaries of defense, state and Treasury, the attorney general — all cabinet posts — and the director of the White House Office of Management and Budget.

Carter said Monday that he personally would not join private clubs that discriminate on the basis of sex or race. He said he hoped his cabinet members wouldn't join such clubs but that he would not tell them what to do.

By Wednesday, Atty. Gen. designate Griffin Bell and Thomas "Bert" Lance, named to head the OMB, said they would drop their memberships in private clubs in Atlanta and Savannah, Ga. None of the clubs have black members.

The chairman of one club refuses to say if women are allowed to join, and a spokesman for another says a few women who are widows of members are allowed. Another of the clubs does allow women members.

Three other Carter cabinet nominees and the President-elect's choice for deputy secretary of defense have similar memberships and have not announced any intention to resign.

The Carter transition office said it did not know whether the three cabinet nominees — Michael Blumenthal, named to be Treasury secretary; Dr. Harold Brown, secretary of defense-designate; or Cyrus Vance, Carter's choice for secretary of state — planned to retain their club memberships or resign.

Overtured Conviction Riles Three Policemen

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — Three police officers say they are angry that a convicted bank robber was freed by the state Supreme Court because he was the victim of double jeopardy.

"It's a sick world we're living in, and it's a dirty rotten shame that a guy like this can walk around scot-free," said Battle Creek Police Detective Max Bracy.

The day before, the state's high court had freed Max Cooper, 45, reversing his 1971 circuit court conviction for bank robbery.

The court unanimously ruled a person cannot be tried for the same offense in both federal and state courts unless the courts have substantially different interests at stake.

Bracy and Capt. Robert Houghtaling were two of four Battle Creek officers who received citations for valor for actions in the December 1970 robbery.

Cooper, free on bond since 1972, was accused of going into Michigan National Bank in Battle Creek and telling employees he had a bomb in a suitcase.

Police and bank officials overpowered him and discovered he was carrying nine sticks of dynamite.

Sinking Report Believed Hoax

BOSTON (AP) — The Coast Guard has called off an air and sea search for six persons supposedly adrift in a life raft, because it believes the distress call it received was a hoax.

"The call has been evaluated as a hoax," a Coast Guard spokesman said early today.

Cooper "jeopardized lives of countless people at the bank, and he's getting off on a lousy technicality," said Houghtaling.

Lt. Horace Parker, who also was cited for valor in the incident, said many people would have been killed if Cooper had set off the bomb.

"We had an assignment, and we did it well," Parker said. "I'm going to do my job, and if someone doesn't do theirs, it's their business. But the loser is the entire country. Every citizen loses."

The fourth officer cited for valor, Det. Robert Sadage, has retired to Texas.

An Integrated Christmas

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Gov. Edwin Edwards has been advised by an assistant secretary of health and human resources that "a White Christmas would be in violation of Title 88 of the Civil Rights Act of 1964." That tongue-in-cheek comment came in a letter from A.Z. Young, one of a large number of blacks Edwards has installed in key positions. Young, active in civil rights demonstrations of the 1960s, suggested that "to insure that we comply with the act during the Christmas season in our offices ... all Christmas trees must have at least 23.4 per cent colored bulbs and they must be placed throughout the tree and not segregated in the back of the tree." He also said that in nativity scenes "20 per cent of the angels and one of the Three Kings must be of a minority race."

AAA OFFERS HOLIDAY KIT Party Buttons Warn Drinkers

Automobile Club of Michigan is offering colorful peel-off and stick-on vinyl party buttons to help keep holiday inebriated drivers safe during this year's Christmas-New Year's season, according to Jerry Tooley, manager of the Twin Cities Triple-A office, 601 Riverview drive, Benton Harbor.

The nine party buttons and a pamphlet containing an alcohol quiz are available free to the public at any Triple-A office in Michigan, Tooley said. The pamphlet also contains a chart showing blood alcohol tolerance by weight according to the number of drinks consumed, plus other tips for party-goers and hosts.

The buttons and pamphlets are part of Auto Club's annual "First a Friend, Then a Host" campaign aimed at reducing alcohol-related traffic fatalities during the holidays.

Tooley said three of the buttons are on a facsimile of a traffic signal, the others in familiar highway sign shapes. Messages on the party buttons apply to hosts serving drinks and to guests consuming those drinks. There's even a button for abstainers.

The green button on the traffic signal reads, "Hold me to one an hour, I'm driving." The yellow button says, "Caution I'm dangerous when loaded." The red button reads "Let's eat. I've had one too many."

The other buttons read: "Reduce drinks," "Make mine mashed so I don't get smashed," "Eat. It's time to sober up for driving," "Stop I've had enough," and "Bar closed, kitchen open." The button for abstainers reads, "Soft drink."

Auto club advises abstinence for persons who drive, Tooley said. "However, eight of 10 motorists probably will have a social drink or two and then drive during the holiday. Our aim is to make drivers aware that moderation in alcohol use will help 'Bring 'Em Back Alive!'"

Last Christmas, 17 persons died in Michigan traffic. Another 22 fatalities occurred over the last New Year's holiday. Alcohol was involved or suspected in more than half of those fatalities, Auto club said.

If hosts serving liquor will taper off drinks early and serve a high-cholesterol meal, this will help hold alcohol in the stomach and slow its absorption rate into the blood stream, Tooley advised. He added, "The best recipe for holiday party-goers is to have someone who hasn't been drinking do the driving."

"All drunk drivers are not alcoholics or problem drinkers," Tooley said. "They're your next-door neighbor coming home from a cocktail party, a teenager who has had a few beers — or perhaps, even you."

This holiday, Auto club is asking motorists to check their knowledge about drinking and driving by asking the following quiz, 10-question alcohol quiz.

Q. Having just two drinks after dinner, within an hour before driving will not impair the average driver's capabilities. True or false?

A. False. More than one ounce of alcohol consumed within an hour's time doubles a driver's chances of having an accident.

Q. A 12-ounce can of beer has less effect on driving skills than a one-ounce shot of hard liquor. True or false?

A. False. An ounce of hard liquor, four ounces of wine and a 12-ounce bottle of beer all contain about the same amount of alcohol.

Q. At what blood alcohol level is a person considered legally drunk in Michigan? .15 percent, .10 percent, .08 percent, .05 percent.

A. Michigan law states that a driver is legally drunk with a blood alcohol level of .10 and impaired at .07.

Q. The legal penalty for the first conviction of drunk driving is: A fine of up to $100. Jail or probation for up to one year. Loss of driver's license. All of the above.

A. In Michigan, conviction of a first offense for drunk driving is punishable by a $100 fine and/or 90 days in jail. Suspension of driver's license is automatic upon conviction.

Q. After a conviction for drunk driving, a cost of auto insurance could: Remain the same. Go up 15 per cent. Go up 50 per cent. Go up 100 per cent.

A. Increases vary from company to company, and can be as much as 100 per cent. If driver's license is suspended, insurance may be canceled.

Q. How many beers could an average 160-pound person consume over a one- to two-hour period and still be legally sober under Michigan law? One, Two, Three, Four, Five.

A. Tests show that for a person weighing 160 pounds, four beers or four ounces of hard liquor will impair driving ability.

Q. You can usually tell if you are too drunk to drive safely. True or false?

A. False. Your nervous system can be affected even when you don't feel, act or look drunk.

Q. The best way to sober up after drinking and before driving is to: Drink hot coffee. Get exercise and fresh air. Take a cold shower. None of the above.

A. None of the above. Coffee, fresh air, exercise or a shower will just make you a wide-awake drunk. Such measures will not affect your blood alcohol level or improve reactions and motor skills. Only time has any effect.

Q. Drinking and driving could lead to suspension of driving privilege even if police have not proved that you are impaired.

A. True. All states have an implied consent law, which means that for the right to hold a driver's license, one must consent to a chemical test if requested to do so. AAA OFFERS HOLIDAY KIT Party Buttons Warn Drinkers

Artistic Home Decoration Glass Is Popular Medium

By VIVIAN BROWN

Stained glass is being worked into homes to accommodate the physical style and function of an area. It forms the roof of bathrooms, it is used in entryways and kitchens, on stairwells and as walls. Autonomous glass — free standing and hanging — which can be suspended from a window or used as a divider or as a piece of art is popular with young people because it can be moved from place to place. As an architectural medium the new glass has little resemblance to the medieval glass that complemented Gothic architecture. "It has no comparison either to Victorian or Art Nouveau revival styles. A renaissance, the first in 800 years, it is a new exploration of the medium," explains Otto B. Rigan of Atwater, Calif. A painter, Rigan was discouraged in the '60s when he tried to learn the art. Studios were secretive and competitive. He moved to Europe to paint and returned to the United States in the '70s to discover "a whole network of artists along the West Coast doing glass work." Inspired, he studied and visited studios where the medium was being explored in its "new aesthetic perspective" and he decided the work should be documented, he explained, while discussing his book, "New Glass," which describes the work of 24 artists and includes photographs — 64 pages in color and more than 100 monochromatic pictures by Charles Frizell.

"I got to know the artists and their different aesthetic orientations in traveling from San Diego to Victoria, B.C.," he said, adding that the budding artists in a field dominated by traditionalists and hobbyists must often opt for a commission to earn a living, rather than follow their own artistic pursuits. Individual pieces are priced as gallery art: architectural work ranges from $30 to $100 a square foot. He has seen panels that were worth far more than the environment in which they are placed, he said.

The new art has attracted women artists. Sculptor Judy Jansen blows her own glass in sensuous shapes that are integrated with flat glass. Rigan watched her work on an 18-foot-square window in browns and yellows for an entry wall. Kristin Newton designed a room divider, an assembly of motorized louvers with each vertical in motion. She liked kinetic effects and free form shapes. An artistic sense of freedom she "didn't have with painting" motivates Elizabeth Devereaux Tallant, whose glass arch above a picture window changes in character from day to night. Deep greens, browns and blues go into some of the glass windows of Kathie Stackpole Bunnell who often uses three elements in design. And after designing some very large windows — for example, the Salvation Army Chapel doors in San Francisco — Judy Rafael is limiting herself to less time-consuming work. A painter and quilter, she often uses border designs to frame her images. A prolific output of glass by Peter Mollica includes a beautiful bath window of cool blue and white that is designed to provide "aesthetic relief from the heat of the Japanese-style tub while steam from the water fogs the glass with a mystical quality." New techniques include using ribbon-thin copper as a structural binder as Jodi King does. He superimposes a motif of oak tree branches on the matrix of a geodesic dwelling. Casey Lewis, said to be the first to use enameled lead in colors, has done more than 80 windows including one for a sauna. James Hubbell constructs total environments in which stained glass becomes part of a shaped or curved wall, door or roof. Mark Adams, who studied under French tapestry artist Jean Luceat, did a wall of a large stairwell. Narcissus Quaglinata does beautiful windows with simple flower and water themes. Ed Carpenter's autonomous panels hang gracefully on windows, providing an architectural feeling that can identify harmoniously with the time and place.

Q. The sink in our kitchen drains very slowly and has been that way for months. I have tried everything, including chemicals and running a "snake" down the drain, but it doesn't seem to help. Lately, every once in a while, the water backs up into the dishwasher. The minute you turn on the sink faucet, can you tell me what could be causing this? No other sinks in the house are affected. The kitchen is over our garage.
A. — It appears very much as though the pipe carrying the sink water to the soil pipe is clogged. When too much water gets into that pipe too quickly, the backs has no place to go and so backs up into the dishwasher. You will find an elbow in that area of the garage ceiling which must be removed in order to run a "snake" or wire auger through the clogged pipe. Either you or a plumber will have to tackle the job. If the clogged material has hardened so much that a hand-operated auger will not go through it, an electric auger will have to be used. In which case you definitely will need the services of a professional with the proper equipment.
Q. — I recently purchased a bag of ready-mixed concrete, the kind that requires only the addition of water. Since I needed only about half the bag for my first project, I poured out that amount, mixed it with water and proceeded with the job. A couple of weeks later, I used the rest of the bag for a second project. This time, the mixture contained a lot more gravel than the first. I see now I should have mixed everything the first time, then added water to the part I wanted. How is this generally done?

A. — When you intend to use only a portion of the bag's contents, pour it all out, then mix everything with a shovel. Put back into the bag whatever you aren't using immediately and tie up the tip of the bag so that it is as airtight as you can get it. Then go ahead and add water to the part you intend to use. If you just take what you need out of the original container, you won't get a good mixture because the ingredients will have separated in transit.
Q. — What's the solvent for lacquer?
A. — Lacquer thinner, which is somewhat like nail polish remover. Use it carefully and where there is ventilation.

Windows Built-In Form Of Solar Energy System

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures
Capturing the sun may be the newest architectural game. People are building everything from makeshift contraptions to expensive solar housing to help collect the energy of the sun. But the average home long has had its own built-in solar energy system — windows. They are among the best heat traps we have and can help cut the consumption of fuel as sunshine is brought into the home, the Federal Energy Administration reminds us. What we do about corralling

the sun for heat however may be the key to the efficiency of the windows. Maximum efficiency depends on where the windows are placed, the kind of windows, how they are draped and how the outdoors relates to them. How much space we allot to windows is another consideration, the agency points out in its publication, "Energy Conservation with Windows," prepared with the National Bureau of Standards. "A window, unlike a wall, can transmit sunlight into a room, then trap its heat," the FEA states. "In many instances this solar heat gain can exceed the window's total conductive heat loss for the day. Thus the window can actually provide heat in winter." It is something to consider before one chooses to have more wall space in that new or remodeled home. We don't really want to live in a cave-like atmosphere when we can have more light, air and sunshine, even as we tap the sun for energy. And if the opportunity exists for choice, south exposures should have the greatest window area, the agency suggests. Windows facing east and west enjoy the sun's rays only part of the day, and the side of the house facing north gets no sun and should have the least number of windows.

It is something to think about when a house is being positioned on a site when there is still time to decide which rooms will be used most during the day and require the most warmth. "Cold air leaking through cracks in a well-insulated house can account for 30 per cent of the load on the heating system, a figure that could be reduced by as much as 50 per cent by making windows and doors tighter," points out the energy administration, which suggests installing weather stripping and tight-fitting storm sashes in existing homes. A few months ago, there was a story in this space that, while most home buyers were willing to accept smaller houses, they were showing a reluctance to purchase stripped-down models. Since that time, similar stories have appeared elsewhere. Also, since then, I have talked to several builders, architects and others on the subject. Here are some of their comments. From Martin Poretsky, president of Poretsky & Star, builders in Maryland and Virginia: "People are buying down from a space standpoint because they want some of the extras. For example, in our part of the country, they still insist on basements even though slabs cost quite a bit less. You know what our biggest problem is? Bureaucratic delays and zoning restrictions. I wonder how any persons know that, in most cases, about 50 per cent of the cost of building does not actually go into a house?"

From Harry Powell Jr., president of the Leigh Building Corp., which has put up more than 4,000 houses a few miles east of Ft. Myers, Fla.: "People want to retain comfortable lifestyles no matter what the sizes of their homes. We give them some amenities regardless of the total square footage of the habitable area." From Allen Trellis, director of technical services of the National Association of Home Builders: "People are willing to accept smaller houses in better locations. As for what is basic and what are frills, the images of those things change over the years."

From architect Herman H. York: "While you must give the buyer a quality house, it is the frills that sell it in the final analysis." From Larry Martin, consumer communications director of Fox & Jacobs, builders in the Southwest for more than 30 years: "Our bottom-of-the-line house, priced at $20,500, sold fairly well more than a year ago, but we have dropped it because nearly all purchasers said they would pay more if fireplaces were included. Today, our big seller runs between 1,300 and 1,400 square feet, starts at $23,000 — and has a fireplace."

From architect Samuel Paul: "The trend toward smaller houses will continue to a certain extent, but a sizable segment of the house-buying public will continue to insist on houses that meet their requirements, among them the right number of bedrooms."

From Duane McGough, acting director of Housing and Community Analysis in the Department of Housing and Urban Development: "Within the next year, there will be a big demand for houses between $30,000 and $40,000."

From William Mittendorf, chief of the Housing Starts Division of the Bureau of the Census: "The statistics show that buying habits haven't changed very much over the past year. There is still a tendency to stay with quality and most extras."

From architect William Chirgottis: "People think first of price. But when they find out it may mean an absence of some of the things they have become accustomed to, they decide to pay more to get what they want." It is interesting to note that when the original article on this subject was written, the median price of a house was $48,000. Today, on the basis of the latest figures from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the average price of a new house is $50,300. (Home-do-it-yourselfers will find much valuable information in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available through this newspaper for $1.50 at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.

Windows Built-In Form Of Solar Energy System

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Capturing the sun may be the newest architectural game. People are building everything from makeshift contraptions to expensive solar housing to help collect the energy of the sun.

But the average home long has had its own built-in solar energy system — windows. They are among the best heat traps we have and can help cut the consumption of fuel as sunshine is brought into the home, the Federal Energy Administration reminds us.

What we do about corraling

the sun for heat however may be the key to the efficiency of the windows. Maximum efficiency depends on where the windows are placed, the kind of windows, how they are draped and how the outdoors relates to them. How much space we allot to windows is another consideration, the agency points out in its publication, "Energy Conservation with Windows," prepared with the National Bureau of Standards.

"A window, unlike a wall, can transmit sunlight into a room, then trap its heat," the FEA states. "In many instances this solar heat gain can exceed the window's total conductive heat loss for the day. Thus the window can actually provide heat in winter."

It is something to consider before one chooses to have more wall space in that new or remodeled home. We don't really want to live in a cave-like atmosphere when we can have more light, air and sunshine, even as we tap the sun for energy.

And if the opportunity exists for choice, south exposures should have the greatest window area, the agency suggests. Windows facing east and west enjoy the sun's rays only part of the day, and the side of the house facing north gets no sun and should have the least number of windows.

It is something to think about when a house is being positioned on a site when there is still time to decide which rooms will be used most during the day and require the most warmth.

"Cold air leaking through cracks in a well-insulated house can account for 30 per cent of the load on the heating system, a figure that could be reduced by as much as 50 per cent by making windows and doors tighter," points out the energy administration, which suggests installing weather stripping and tight-fitting storm sashes in existing homes.

To reduce air infiltration a minimum in order to achieve best fuel conservation results, the FEA suggests that windows should be double-glazed — two panes with air space in between. The trapped air serves as a relatively good insulator. Windows with double-pane insulating glass simplify maintenance chores while providing the insulating benefits of tight-fitting storm sashes over double-glazed windows.

Maximum use of windows as energy savers requires examining conditions surrounding the windows. In a new house there is an opportunity to plant deciduous trees near the windows to permit leafy coolness in the summer and the sun's rays to enter the home in winter. If heavy foliage screens an existing home from sun in winter, perhaps ruthless pruning would clear the area for the solar objective.

Many years ago Americans took advantage of opportunities to manipulate their windows to suit their needs. They screened out bugs, used awnings to control the sun even as they permitted cool breezes to enter a window. In winter they used heavy draperies to keep out cold at night. In the day they enjoyed the warming effects of the sun. Small houses were often heated comfortably only with fireplaces. We should give more thought to the kind of energy that may be available without investing large sums of money.

ONE SOLITARY LIFE

"There is a man who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another village, and that a despised one. He worked in a carpenter shop for thirty years, and then for three years he was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never owned a home. He never had a family. He never went to college. He never put his feet inside a really big city. He never traveled, except in his infancy, more than two hundred miles from the place where he was born. He had no credentials but himself.

"While still a young man, the tide of popular opinion turned against him. His friends ran away. One of them betrayed him. He was turned over to his enemies. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed upon a cross between two thieves. His executioners gambled for the only piece of property he had on earth, his seamless robe. When he was dead, he was taken down from the cross and laid in a borrowed grave through the courtesy of a friend. Nineteen whole centuries have come and gone, and today Jesus is the centerpiece of the human race, and the leader of all heaven's progress.

"We are well within the mark when we say that all the armies that ever marched, all the navies that were ever built, all the parliaments that have ever sat, and all the kings that have ever ruled put together have not affected the life of man upon this earth like this ONE SOLITARY LIFE."

Common Sense

If you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him. If he pays wages that supply you your bread and butter, work for him, speak well of him, think well of him, stand by him, and stand by the company he represents. I think if I worked for a man, I would work for him. I would not work for him a part of his time, but all of his time. I would give an undivided service or none. If put to a pinch, an ounce of loyalty is worth a pound of cleverness. If you want wisdom and eternally complete, quit your job, and when you're out, damn it your heart's content. But, I pray you, so long as you are part of a company, do not condemn it. But that you will improve the company — not hurt — but when you hurt the company of which you are a part, you hurt yourself.

TOP STATE STORY IN '76

Editors Pick Auto Strikes

The two-month fire in the Upper Peninsula's Seney National Wildlife Refuge was voted the second-best story of the year in Michigan. The continuing problem with PBB in the Michigan food chain was third.

In a year where there were "no real grabbers," according to one AP voter, the auto strikes showed up on 21 of the 24 ballots cast.

The unsuccessful Presidential election effort of former Michigan Congressman Gerald Ford took the most first-place votes, 7, but was listed among the top stories on less than half the ballots returned. Some voters felt the story was a national item and not a state story. The Seney fire raged for two months before being contained by more than 1,000 firefighters. Officials termed the 65,000-acre blaze the costliest forest fire in state history.

The PBB problem, triggered three years ago when the fire retardant accidentally was mixed with cattle feed, drew nationwide attention in 1976 when it was disclosed that mothers' milk may not be safe because of the chemical. In addition, infected cattle continued to be slaughtered and farmers with PBB-infected livestock took their problems to Washington and appeared before a Congressional committee.

Ranked fourth in the annual balloting was Michigan voter approval of a November election proposal to ban throwaway beverage containers.

Here's the remainder of the Top 10 Michigan news stories of 1976:

5. Michigan native Gerald Ford loses to Jimmy Carter in his bid for election to the White House.

6. A devastating ice storm blankets southern Lower Michigan in March, leaves thousands without light and heat and causes millions of dollars in damage.

7. Flint Congressman Donald Riegle upsets Secretary of State Richard Austin in the U.S. Senate primary and defeats Republican Marvin Esch in the November election to succeed retiring Sen. Philip Hart.

8. Detroit's youth gang problem erupts in late summer with a violent melee outside

State Is Planning One-Stop Offices

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken announced Thursday that Saginaw will get a $6 million state office building to provide "one-stop service" to residents. Milliken said the state and Saginaw officials have agreed on a central business district site for the building. He said he will ask the legislature next year to allocate funds for the construction. The office building is one of several planned, with others tagged for Flint, Jackson and Traverse City. The state also has bought a building in Detroit and built one in Grand Rapids.

The Saginaw site consists of vacant urban renewal land and is part of the city's plans for redevelopment of the downtown area. Milliken said the construction depends, however, on a favorable ruling by the Supreme Court on the state's plans to sell bonds to finance most of its construction projects next year. That ruling is expected within a few months. The Saginaw building will feature services of several state departments, including agriculture, civil rights, education, the lottery bureau, labor, natural resources, social services and secretary of state.

Boil Of Disinfect It

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A well-water shortage that has forced some Upper Peninsula residents to find substitute sources of water poses a potential health risk, state health officials warned. Dr. Maurice S. Reizen, public health director, urged residents to be sure they know where their water comes from and that it's safe. If in doubt, boil it or disinfect it with chlorine, he advised. A severe drought last spring, summer and fall caused many wells to go dry in Gogebic, Houghton, Iron, Marquette, Menominee, Delta and Dickinson counties on the western UP. Some 1,700 residents have resorted to local springs for their water, while others are getting water from nearby communities.

Board May Face Lawsuit

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Warren Consolidated School Board may have to face a lawsuit filed by parents of a child who was allegedly sexually assaulted more than 100 times by a school principal. The state Supreme Court in a split decision has returned to Macomb County Circuit Court the $1.5 million suit filed by the parents of Mark Galli. It left it up to the court to determine whether the school board and district administrator Olin Adams were liable for damages from the alleged assaults. Three justices said the board and Adams were liable for damages, along with the accused principal, Arthur Kirkely. Two judges said only Kirkely was liable, while two other justices said the lower court should decide how many defendants were liable. The boy's parents charge that Kirkely, who later pleaded in contest to criminal charges in the case, assaulted the nine-year-old boy more than 100 times in the storage room of the Hatherly Elementary School in Sterling Heights in 1972-73.

It's Up To Them

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — It's up to school districts whether to admit nonresident pupils and how much to charge the parents for tuition, the state attorney general's office said. Tuition must be charged in such cases, but if the tuition is to be paid by the parents the local school board doesn't have to charge the maximum rates allowed by law, said Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley. The opinion was requested by state Sen. Daniel S. Cooper, D-Oak Park, in connection with recent amendments to the state School Aid Act.

Two Checks Or None At All

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state social service department is probing its own billing and accounting practices concerning welfare payments to a Salvation Army center in Detroit. Department Director John Dempsey said he ordered the investigation after receiving a letter from a caseworker who complained her supervisors refused to probe the matter. Dempsey said an internal task force has not found "any impropriety" concerning the Salvation Army's Harbor Light Center in Detroit. The state probe reportedly centers on general assistance welfare payments made to the Salvation Army for the care and treatment of indigent men at the Harbor Light Center. The center's program includes rehabilitation of men suffering from alcoholism and drug abuse. Dempsey said it was possible the Harbor Light Center was receiving extra welfare checks because of problems in Wayne County's fiscal bureau in Detroit. "The Army might have received two checks or none at all," Dempsey said. "That's what we're trying to find out."

School Enrollment Down

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state's public school enrollment decreased nearly 45,000 this year, the biggest one-year decline since enrollment started dropping five years ago. An estimated 2,063,000 pupils were enrolled in Michigan's 4,000 public schools on Oct. 1, down 2.1 per cent from the student population last year, the state Board of Education said. Public school enrollment peaked at 2,212,000 in 1971-72 and has been dropping ever since. A recent study predicted enrollment will decline by another 236,000 in the next five years.

Flashing Light Bill Signed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Doctors and ambulance drivers may install flashing lights on their own cars for use when responding to emergencies, under a bill signed into law Wednesday. Except for limited police instances, drivers of such emergency vehicles must sound an audible signal when using the flashing or rotating lights. In addition to numerous minor bills, Gov. William Milliken also signed an amendment to the mental health code requiring a final hearing within seven days after a person is admitted to a mental institution. The former limit was 14 days.

Girls Die In Fire At Heatless Home

GRANT, Mich. (AP) — Two young sisters perished when fire swept through their home Wednesday while their parents were out buying an ax to cut wood to warm the house. The bodies of Michelle Carnes, 6, and Charlette, 3, were found near a wood-burning kitchen stove which had been the family's only source of heat since their fuel oil and money to buy it ran out a couple of weeks ago.

Fire Chief Ervin Van Koeveing of Grant expressed belief the fire started near the stove. He said the roof and one of the walls of the house collapsed before firemen arrived. The father, Jerry Carnes, an unemployed welder, told officials he made the short trip into town to get a handle for his ax. On the way home, he and his wife, Betty, saw the fire engines and followed them, not knowing it was their home which was on fire. A third child, Mark, 9, was in school at the time of the fire.

Road Toll

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snowfall slowed traffic on highways from the Great Lakes to New England and rain and snow dampened roads in the Pacific Northwest today as travelers began the long Christmas weekend.

Traffic accidents had claimed 28 lives by early this morning.

The National Safety Council has estimated that between 400 and 500 persons will die on the roads between 6 p.m. Thursday and midnight Sunday.

A year ago, when the weekend was four days rather than three, 367 people were killed on streets and highways.

The council said the worst Christmas for highway travelers was in 1965, when 720 persons died over a three-day period.

Some Stations Staying Open

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan holiday motorists should find enough service stations open to meet their needs if they start their trips with a full tank, the Automobile Club of Michigan says. The auto club's weekly "fuel gauge" survey of 300 stations along major state arteries showed 29 per cent of the stations checked will be open Christmas Day, while 23 per cent will remain open after 9 p.m. Nine per cent will remain open after midnight.

On Christmas Eve, 62 per cent of the stations surveyed will be open during daylight hours, with 32 per cent open after 9 p.m. and 10 per cent after midnight. On Sunday, 81 per cent of the stations will operate, 54 per cent after 9 p.m. The average cost of regular fuel at the 300 surveyed stations held steady at last week's price of 62.6 cents a gallon. Prices ranged from 54.9 to 68.9 cents.

Who's Really In Doghouse?

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — A Southfield woman is suing the city because one of its police dogs chewed up her carpet. But her husband — a policeman — might end up having to pay for the damages. City officials say since Officer Robert Brown was in charge of the German shepherd, Charlie Brown, he's liable for any damage the dog may have done to his wife's $468 rug. Brown was given charge of the police dog in June 1975, and decided to keep the animal at home rather than in a city kennel. The city reimbursed the officer for taking care of the dog, and installed a doghouse in his backyard. But on the night of July 1, 1975, Charlie Brown began howling. Officer Brown let the dog inside his house, and was rewarded with a chewed carpet. His wife, Charlene, filed suit this month in Southfield District Court against the city.

Alderman To Lead

CHICAGO (AP) — The odds-on favorite to serve as interim mayor of Chicago has shifted to the late Mayor Richard J. Daley's floor leader in the City Council, Alderman Michael A. Bilandic.

Leading Democrats told the Chicago Sun-Times that Bilandic went over the top when 27 of 48 votes were pledged to him by noon Thursday.

Bilandic reportedly has promised to act as a caretaker only and not to seek the post permanently in the special election which must be held within six months.

Black Alderman Wilson Frost, president pro tem of the City Council, proclaimed himself the acting mayor Thursday but was immediately challenged by Frank Sullivan, press aide for Daley, and William R. Quinlan, city corporation counsel.

either. Michigan has become a welfare state by their spending and the Governor hasn't tried very much to stop it.

The Federal government has become the biggest welfare state in the world and to make things worse, we will soon have almost a one-party government and that is bad. It is the legislators that have passed so many bills of all kinds in the last few years that have made the Bureaucracy so big in Washington. The president and the cabinets are blamed for big government but they are only doing what has been forced on them by the congress. Only a few presidents have been big spenders.

Over one hundred years ago, Henry Thoreau said government is an expedient by which men would find success in letting one another alone; and, as has been said when it is expedient, the government are most let alone by it. Trade and commerce if they were not made of India rubber would never manage to bounce over the obstacles which legislators are continually putting in their way and if one were to judge these men wholly by the effects of their actions and not partly by their intentions they would deserve to be classed and punished with those mischievous persons who put obstructions on the railroads.

So when Michigan and the nation goes broke, we will know who is at fault.

WANTS EAU CLAIRE TO PERK UP

Editor,

Do you know where Eau Claire, Mich. is? You can't miss it, its the little town somewhere between Dowagiac and Sodus, the one that has about six Christmas bulbs burning on a wire across the main street, and please don't try and park, because if you do you may never get away from the curb, (that is if you can find the curb).

What is the matter with the townspeople, don't they have a street maintenance man, or a nice truck with a blade to clear the streets? Forget the side streets, that's a lost cause.

Is Eau Claire the little forgotten town? You townspeople, what's the matter with you? Thirty years ago the streets were in better condition than they are today, and they had less equipment than they have today.

And as for decorations, why doesn't every family in Eau Claire give one decoration, which they probably have in the attic, and put it either on a light pole or all get together and put them on the wires that are strung across the street.

Come on folks, wake up, let's not be ashamed of that little town, get it back on the map as the town that came to life. Even Sodus and Vandalia look better. So get together you newly-elected townspeople and see what you can do.

OFFICES PLANNED: Raymond Tortora speaks to reporters at a news conference in Lansing Thursday with Governor William Milliken announcing their agreement on the construction of a state office building in the downtown area of Saginaw. (AP Wirephoto)

State Is Planning One-Stop Offices

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken announced Thursday that Saginaw will get a $6 million state office building to provide "one-stop service" to residents. Milliken said the state and Saginaw officials have agreed on a central business district site for the building. He said he will ask the legislature next year to allocate funds for the construction. The office building is one of several planned, with others tagged for Flint, Jackson and Traverse City. The state also has bought a building in Detroit and built one in Grand Rapids.

The Saginaw site consists of vacant urban renewal land and is part of the city's plans for redevelopment of the downtown area. Milliken said the construction depends, however, on a favorable ruling by the Supreme Court on the state's plans to sell bonds to finance most of its construction projects next year. That ruling is expected within a few months. The Saginaw building will feature services of several state departments, including agriculture, civil rights, education, the lottery bureau, labor, natural resources, social services and secretary of state.

Boil Of Disinfect It

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A well-water shortage that has forced some Upper Peninsula residents to find substitute sources of water poses a potential health risk, state health officials warned. Dr. Maurice S. Reizen, public health director, urged residents to be sure they know where their water comes from and that it's safe. If in doubt, boil it or disinfect it with chlorine, he advised. A severe drought last spring, summer and fall caused many wells to go dry in Gogebic, Houghton, Iron, Marquette, Menominee, Delta and Dickinson counties on the western UP. Some 1,750 residents have resorted to local springs for their water, while others are getting water from nearby communities.

Board May Face Lawsuit

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Warren Consolidated School Board may have to face a lawsuit filed by parents of a child who was allegedly sexually assaulted more than 100 times by a school principal. The state Supreme Court in a split decision has returned to Macomb County Circuit Court the $1.5 million suit filed by the parents of Mark Galli. It left it up to the court to determine whether the school board and district administrator Olin Adams were liable for damages from the alleged assaults. Three justices said the board and Adams were liable for damages, along with the accused principal, Arthur Kirkeby. Two judges said only Kirkeby was liable, while two other justices said the lower court should decide how many defendants were liable. The boy's parents charge that Kirkeby, who later pleaded no contest to criminal charges in the case, assaulted the nine-year-old boy more than 100 times in the storage room of the Hatherly Elementary School in Sterling Heights in 1972-73.

It's Up To Them

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — It's up to school districts whether to admit nonresident pupils and how much to charge the parents for tuition, the state attorney general's office said. Tuition must be charged in such cases, but if the tuition is to be paid by the parents the local school board doesn't have to charge the maximum rates allowed by law, said Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley. The opinion was requested by state Sen. Daniel S. Cooper, D-Oak Park, in connection with recent amendments to the state School Aid Act.

Two Checks Or None At All

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state social service department is probing its own billing and accounting practices concerning welfare payments to a Salvation Army center in Detroit. Department Director John Dempsey said he ordered the investigation after receiving a letter from a caseworker who complained her supervisors refused to probe the matter. Dempsey said an internal task force has not found "any impropriety" concerning the Salvation Army's Harbor Light Center in Detroit. The state probe reportedly centers on general assistance welfare payments made to the Salvation Army for the care and treatment of indigent men at the Harbor Light Center. The center's program includes rehabilitation of men suffering from alcoholism and drug abuse. Dempsey said it was possible the Harbor Light Center was receiving extra welfare checks because of problems in Wayne County's fiscal bureau in Detroit. "The Army might have received two checks or none at all," Dempsey said. "That's what we're trying to find out."

School Enrollment Down

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state's public school enrollment decreased nearly 45,000 this year, the biggest one-year decline since enrollment started dropping five years ago. An estimated 2,083,000 pupils were enrolled in Michigan's 4,000 public schools on Oct. 1, down 2.1 per cent from the student population last year, the state Board of Education said. Public school enrollment peaked at 2,212,000 in 1971-72 and has been dropping ever since. A recent study predicted enrollment will decline by another 236,000 in the next five years.

Flashing Light Bill Signed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Doctors and ambulance drivers may install flashing lights on their own cars for use when responding to emergencies, under a bill signed into law Wednesday. Except for limited police instances, drivers of such emergency vehicles must sound an audible signal when using the flashing or rotating lights. In addition to numerous minor bills, Gov. William Milliken also signed an amendment to the mental health code requiring a final hearing within seven days after a person is admitted to a mental institution. The former limit was 14 days.

Girls Die In Fire At Heatless Home

GRANT, Mich. (AP) — Two young sisters perished when fire swept through their home Wednesday while their parents were out buying an ax to cut wood to warm the house. The bodies of Michelle Carnes, 3, and Charlette, 6, were found near a wood-burning kitchen stove which had been the family's only source of heat since their fuel oil and money to buy it ran out a couple of weeks ago.

Fire Chief Ervin Van Koeveing of Grant expressed belief the fire started near the stove. He said the roof and one of the walls of the house collapsed before firemen arrived. The father, Jerry Carnes, an unemployed welder, told officials he made the short trip into town to get a handle for his ax. On the way home, he and his wife, Betty, saw the fire engines and followed them, not knowing it was their home which was on fire. A third child, Mark, 9, was in school at the time of the fire.

Road Toll

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snowfall slowed traffic on highways from the Great Lakes to New England and rain and snow dampened roads in the Pacific Northwest today as travelers began the long Christmas weekend.

Traffic accidents had claimed 28 lives by early this morning.

The National Safety Council has estimated that between 400 and 500 persons will die on the roads between 6 p.m. Thursday and midnight Sunday.

A year ago, when the weekend was four days rather than three, 397 people were killed on streets and highways.

The council said the worst Christmas for highway travelers was in 1965, when 720 persons died over a three-day period.

Some Stations Staying Open

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Michigan holiday motorists should find enough service stations open to meet their needs if they start their trips with a full tank, the Automobile Club of Michigan says. The auto club's weekly "fuel gauge" survey of 300 stations along major state arteries showed 29 per cent of the stations checked will be open Christmas Day, while 23 per cent will remain open after 9 p.m. Nine per cent will remain open after midnight. On Christmas Eve, 92 per cent of the stations surveyed will be open during daylight hours, with 32 per cent open after 9 p.m. and 10 per cent after midnight. On Sunday, 81 per cent of the stations will operate, 54 per cent after 9 p.m. The average cost of regular fuel at the 300 surveyed stations held steady at last week's price of 62.6 cents a gallon. Prices ranged from 54.9 to 68.9 cents.

Who's Really In Doghouse?

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — A Southfield woman is suing the city because one of its police dogs chewed up her carpet. But her husband — a policeman — might end up having to pay for the damages. City officials say since Officer Robert Brown was in charge of the German shepherd, Charlie Brown, he's liable for any damage the dog may have done to his wife's $468 rug. Brown was given charge of the police dog in June 1975, and decided to keep the animal at home rather than in a city kennel. The city reimbursed the officer for taking care of the dog, and installed a doghouse in his backyard. But on the night of July 1, 1975, Charlie Brown began howling. Officer Brown let the dog inside his house, and was rewarded with a chewed carpet. His wife, Charlene, filed suit this month in Southfield District Court against the city.

Alderman To Lead

CHICAGO (AP) — The odds-on favorite to serve as interim mayor of Chicago has shifted to the late Mayor Richard J. Daley's floor leader in the City Council, Alderman Michael A. Bilandic.

Leading Democrats told the Chicago Sun-Times that Bilandic went over the top when 27 of 48 votes were pledged to him by noon Thursday.

Bilandic reportedly has promised to act as a caretaker only and not to seek the post permanently in the special election which must be held within six months.

Black Alderman Wilson Frost, president pro tem of the City Council, proclaimed himself the acting mayor Thursday but was immediately challenged by Frank Sullivan, press aide for Daley, and William R. Quintan, city corporation counsel.

Voyageurs, Families To Share Christmas

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm & Features Editor

Members of the latter day LaSalle Expedition will observe Christmas by dining with their own families Saturday, within a few stone's throw of where the original exploring force established Fort Miami.

Families of the LaSalle Expedition II men will bring hams and turkeys and foods for a big Christmas dinner with their sons and husbands in the cafeteria of Lake Michigan

Catholic high school in St. Joseph. Most of the men and their families live in the area of Elgin, Ill.

Meanwhile, the men — recent high school graduates and their teachers — were in South Bend today paying a series of visits to hospitals, senior citizens centers and the like, to spread holiday cheer to shut-ins.

Tonight they will participate at the traditional Christmas Eve Midnight mass at the church on the campus of Notre Dame university. The Rev. Fr. Loran

Fuchs, a member of the expedition, will celebrate the mass.

Following the midnight mass, the voyageurs will return to their outdoor camp at Bridgman.

They set up camp in Bridgman Thursday after a foot march from New Buffalo. They presented a program for Bridgman residents last night.

After Christmas Day with their families in St. Joseph, the men will return to the Bridgman camp Saturday night, and then march from Bridgman to St. Joseph on Sunday.

The camp in St. Joseph is expected to be set up on the river from below the Lakeview Terrace senior citizens home.

Contributions Sought To Aid Expedition

The Berrien County Bicentennial commission is seeking donations to help support the group of 25 men retracing the historic voyage of the French Explorer LaSalle from Montreal to New Orleans, according to A.S. Mowery, commission chairman. The commission has set up a special bank account to receive donations to support the voyageurs on their journey through Berrien county, according to Mowery. He said donations can be mailed to the Berrien County Bicentennial commission, 777 Riverview drive, Benton Harbor, or to David Upton, chairman of the welcoming committee for Berrien county, at Box 380, St. Joseph, Mich. 49885.

If the river has open channels in the ice, they will paddle up the St. Joseph, according to David Upton, chairman of the expedition committee in Berrien county. If the big stream is ice over completely, they will either walk to Berrien Springs or, if the ice is thick enough, pull their canoes on sleds on the river ice, Upton reported.

EPA Grant Awarded To Berrien

The office of Congressman Edward Hutchinson (R-St. Joseph) has announced a grant of $25,350 from the U.S. Environmental Protection agency to Berrien county board of public works for assistance in the construction of a wastewater treatment facility.

Robert Barnes, director of the county department of public works, said the grant will be used for planning facilities that would serve Berrien and Oronoko townships, the villages of Berrien Springs and Eau Claire, and a small portion of Pipestone township.

Library Move Is Opposed

COLOMA — Marshall Badt, chairman of the Downtown Coloma Merchants association, has announced the association members are opposed to the possible relocation of the Coloma public library.

Badt said that the members feel the library should remain in the city to best serve the needs of all library patrons.

The library board is considering moving from its present location into the township if it receives a $300,000 federal grant to finance construction of a new library.

PALISADES PARK INCIDENT

Doctor Guilty Of Assault

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A Van Buren circuit court jury deliberated just over two hours Thursday before finding a Chicago area physician guilty of a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder. Dr. Vernon Wallace, 46, an anesthesiologist at Holy Family hospital, Des Plaines, Ill., now faces a maximum 10-year prison term. Sentencing will follow a required presentence investigation.

Wallace had been arrested by Covert township police on June 16, 1975, in connection with a knife attack upon Michael Shine, 32, Lake Geneva, Wis., at Wallace's summer home in the Palisades Park subdivision.

Shine was stabbed in the chest following an argument. Police said the two men met while Shine was looking at property he was interested in purchasing in the area. During the trial, Wallace claimed he acted in self-defense after Shine assaulted him, according to Prosecutor Ward S. Hamlin, Jr. Wallace was defended by Atty. David Grier, South Haven.

'Andy' Mollison Retires In Niles

NILES — An attorney who has practiced law in Niles 32 years, Andrew (Andy) R. Mollison, will retire with the close of 1976. He will leave the law firm of Mollison, Hadsell & Mollison, in the hands of his son and the son of a former partner, plus two newer additions to the firm.

Atty. Mollison, native of Scotland, came to Niles on Jan. 1, 1945, to join the firm of Burns & Hadsell, which consisted of the late Wilbur M. Burns and he late Phillip A. Hadsell, Sr., who later became a Berrien county circuit judge.

He had graduated from the Detroit College of Law in 1939, and spent the next six years with the old Reconstruction Finance Corp. and the Detroit Trust Co. before coming to Niles.

Mollison became a partner in the Niles firm in 1951, and the name was enlarged to Burns, Hadsell & Mollison.

Following the death of Burns and the ascension of the senior Hadsell to the bench, the firm name became Mollison, Hadsell & Mollison. He was the senior partner, joined by Phillip Hadsell, Jr., and James Mollison. As of Jan. 1, the firm name will be Hadsell, Mollison, Landgraf & Smith. The new partners are Robert Landgraf, Jr., and Peter W. Smith.

The retiring lawyer will continue to reside in Niles.

Pileup Halts Traffic On I-196

SAUGATUCK — Traffic in both directions on I-196 was rerouted for more than two hours yesterday due to a series of accidents involving 18 vehicles, according to state police from the South Haven post.

Troopers said the chain reaction accident started at 8:30 a.m. when a semi-truck jackknifed near the bridge over the Kalamazoo river.

Poor visibility from blowing snow and a snow covering on the interstate resulted in a series of accidents during the next half an hour, involving 13 cars and three semis.

Two people suffered minor injuries and were released after treatment at Douglas Community hospital.

Traffic was rerouted onto Blue Star Memorial highway through Saugatuck during the time the road was closed. The highway was reopened at 11:30 a.m.

Chikaming To Vote Feb. 5 On 2 Issues

LAKE SIDE — Chikaming township residents will go to the polls Saturday, Feb. 5, to decide the fate of a revised township zoning ordinance and a requested one-mill property tax for fire equipment.

In early June, the board adopted the new zoning ordinance replacing the township's former ordinance which was 12 years old. The new ordinance changed the zoning on some parcels of land in the township and brought the township zoning laws into conformity with recent state laws.

Since that time, residents of the township have had petitioned the township board to hold a special election so the electorate could decide the fate of the zoning ordinance. At a special meeting, Dec. 6, the board approved holding the special election.

Also to be included on the ballot is a one-mill property tax request for three years, which would provide funds for fire equipment. The one-mill levy would raise approximately $35,000 a year, according to Mrs. Lena Abrahamson, township clerk.

In August, township residents narrowly defeated a similar one-mill proposal by four votes, 47 to 43. The township board had already purchased a new fire truck. In anticipation of passage of that millage, according to Mrs. Abrahamson.

Woman Survives 5 Days In Trunk

NILES — A 70-year-old woman was rescued from a car trunk where city police said she had been stuffed for five days by an assailant who bound her and locked her in the trunk during a robbery.

Police said Mrs. Frances Ruple was found in the garage at her home, 653 North 11th street, Wednesday afternoon by an unidentified niece from Dowagiac who had become concerned about Mrs. Ruple's whereabouts.

A spokesman at Pawling hospital said Mrs. Ruple was listed in "good condition" this morning. The spokesman described her as alert, although suffering from exposure, but said she "is really doing well."

Police said Mrs. Ruple told them a man came to her house Friday, tied her up at knifepoint and ransacked her house. As he left he locked her in the trunk of her car. Police said she was wearing a dress but no coat, and kept warm wrapping up in a blanket that was in the trunk. Police said it's not known what was taken from Mrs. Ruple's house. Mrs. Ruple is a widow who lives alone.

Mrs. Ruple managed to untie herself while in the trunk and sustained bruises trying to claw her way out, police said.

Police said the garage is attached to the house but is unlocked.

Det. Bill Weaver said police were not releasing a description of the bandit.

Voyageurs, Families To Share Christmas

By JERRY KRIEGER

Members of the latter day LaSalle Expedition will observe Christmas by dining with their own families Saturday, within a few stone's throw of where the original exploring force established Fort Miami.

Families of the LaSalle Expedition II men will bring hams and turkeys and foods for a big Christmas dinner with their sons and husbands in the cafeteria of Lake Michigan

Catholic high school in St. Joseph. Most of the men and their families live in the area of Elgin, Ill.

Meanwhile, the men — recent high school graduates and their teachers — were in South Bend today paying a series of visits to hospitals, senior citizens centers and the like, to spread holiday cheer to shut-ins.

Tonight they will participate in the traditional Christmas Eve Midnight mass at the church on the campus of Notre Dame university. The Rev. Fr. Loran

Fuchs, a member of the expedition, will celebrate the mass.

Following the midnight mass, the voyageurs will return to their outdoor camp at Bridgman.

They set up camp in Bridgman Thursday after a foot march from New Buffalo. They presented a program for Bridgman residents last night.

After Christmas Day with their families in St. Joseph, the men will return to the Bridgman camp Saturday night, and then march from Bridgman to St. Joseph on Sunday.

The camp in St. Joseph is expected to be set up on the river front below the Lakeview Terrace senior citizens home.

Contributions Sought To Aid Expedition

The Berrien County Bicentennial commission is seeking donations to help support the group of 23 men retracing the historic voyage of the French Explorer LaSalle from Montreal to New Orleans, according to A.S. Mowery, commission chairman. The commission has set up a special bank account to receive donations to support the voyageurs on their journey through Berrien county, according to Mowery. He said donations can be mailed to the Berrien County Bicentennial commission, 777 Riverview drive, Benton Harbor, or to David Upton, chairman of the welcoming committee for Berrien county, at Box 380, St. Joseph, Mich. 49085.

If the river has open channels in the ice, they will paddle up the St. Joseph, according to David Upton, chairman of the expedition committee in Berrien county. If the big stream is iced over completely, they will either walk to Berrien Springs or, if the ice is thick enough, pull their canoes on sleds on the river ice, Upton reported.

EPA Grant Awarded To Berrien

The office of Congressman Edward Hutchinson (R-St. Joseph) has announced a grant of $26,550 from the U.S. Environmental Protection agency to Berrien county board of public works for assistance in the construction of a wastewater treatment facility.

Robert Barnes, director of the county department of public works, said the grant will be used for planning facilities that would serve Berrien and Oronoko townships, the villages of Berrien Springs and Eau Claire, and a small portion of Pipestone township.

Library Move Is Opposed

COLOMA — Marshall Badt, chairman of the Downtown Coloma Merchants association, has announced the association members are opposed to the possible relocation of the Coloma public library.

Badt said that the members feel the library should remain in the city to best serve the needs of all library patrons.

The library board is considering moving from its present location into the township if it receives a $300,000 federal grant to finance construction of a new library.

PALISADES PARK INCIDENT

Doctor Guilty Of Assault

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — A Van Buren circuit court jury deliberated just over two hours Thursday before finding a Chicago area physician guilty of a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder. Dr. Vernon Wallace, 46, an anesthesiologist at Holy Family hospital, Des Plaines, Ill., now faces a maximum 10-year prison term. Sentencing will follow a required presentence investigation.

Wallace had been arrested by Covert township police on June 16, 1975, in connection with a knife attack upon Michael Shine, 32, Lake Geneva, Wis., at Wallace's summer home in the Palisades Park subdivision.

Shine was stabbed in the chest following an argument. Police said the two men met while Shine was looking at property he was interested in purchasing in the area. During the trial, Wallace claimed he acted in self-defense after Shine assaulted him, according to Prosecutor Ward S. Hamlin, Jr. Wallace was defended by Atty. David Grier, South Haven.

'Andy' Mollison Retires In Niles

NILES — An attorney who has practiced law in Niles 32 years, Andrew (Andy) R. Mollison, will retire with the close of 1976.

He will leave the law firm of Mollison, Hadsell & Mollison, in the hands of his son and the son of a former partner, plus two newer additions to the firm.

Atty. Mollison, native of Scotland, came to Niles on Jan. 1, 1945, to join the firm of Burns & Hadsell, which consisted of the late Wilbur M. Burns and he late Phillip A. Hadsell, Sr., who later became a Berrien county circuit judge.

He had graduated from the Detroit College of Law in 1939, and spent the next six years with the old Reconstruction Finance Corp. and the Detroit Trust Co. before coming to Niles.

Mollison became a partner in the Niles firm in 1961, and the name was enlarged to Burns, Hadsell & Mollison.

Following the death of Burns and the ascension of the senior Hadsell to the bench, the firm name became Mollison, Hadsell & Mollison. He was the senior partner, joined by Phillip Hadsell, Jr., and James Mollison.

As of Jan. 1, the firm name will be Hadsell, Hollison, Landgraf & Smith. The new partners are Robert Landgraf, Jr., and Peter W. Smith.

The retiring lawyer will continue to reside in Niles.

Pileup Halts Traffic On I-196

SAUGATUCK — Traffic in both directions on I-196 was rerouted for more than two hours yesterday due to a series of accidents involving 16 vehicles, according to state police from the South Haven post.

Troopers said the chain reaction accident started at 8:30 a.m. when a semi-truck jackknifed near the bridge over the Kalamazoo river.

Poor visibility from blowing snow and a snow covering on the interstate resulted in a series of accidents during the next half an hour, involving 13 cars and three semis.

Two people suffered minor injuries and were released after treatment at Douglas Community hospital.

Traffic was rerouted onto Blue Star Memorial highway through Saugatuck during the time the road was closed. The highway was reopened at 11:30 a.m.

College Life Different For SJ's Dave Ziebart

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

Many high school students see their upcoming college life as not going to many classes, sleeping until noon and meeting many members of the opposite sex.

But St. Joseph's Dave Ziebart has found things a lot different at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Falcons' freshman quarterback sensation, who spoke Thursday to the Lions Club of St. Joseph, gets up at 5:30 a.m. and must have his room, which he shares with two other cadets, immaculate before 7 a.m. breakfast.

He then goes to classes that are chosen for him until noon, when all the cadets gather at the center of the campus and march to Mitchell Hall, where the food is served. Then comes two more classes which end at 3:30 p.m.

For most of the cadets, the time between the last class and 7 p.m. dinner is spent studying.

But for Ziebart and the football team, the next two hours is reserved for the gridiron.

After practice and supper, most cadets study from 8 until 11, reported Ziebart. Everyone must be in bed by 11 p.m.

For a freshman, it is especially hard. "They teach us to handle pressure and to follow, figuring you have to be good followers before you can be a good leader," Ziebart stated.

With the influx of 150 girls into the 4,400 student academy, some of the freshmen, or fourth class, training was changed from a negative type to a positive type. "Before, if you did something wrong, an upperclassman would come over and harp on you and make you do a few push ups and squat thrusts," he said. "Now, they have outlawed the push ups, but they still can harp on you."

As for dress, the first-term freshmen must wear their dress uniforms constantly. Even if they go into town for a pizza or a beer, they must wear their uniform.

No beards or mustaches are allowed, and Ziebart's hair doesn't come close to touching his ears. "And I probably will have to get it cut a little before I go back," he grinned.

The pressure on not only the freshmen, but all the cadets, to succeed is tremendous. "The cadets are pretty religious," Ziebart said. "They have Protestant, Catholic and Jewish services. Most believe God. And a good sense of humor can also help you make it through the academy."

While the strictness of the academy might have been rough on him, Ziebart's football performance more than lifted his spirits. Besides completing 57 of 117 passes for 789 yards and five touchdowns, he set a school record when he threw an 88-yard touchdown pass.

"I didn't even see the catch because I got sacked," Ziebart said. "Then I heard the cadets yelling and I figured it was either caught or intercepted."

Ziebart will have another year to decide whether to stay in the Air Force. If a cadet starts his junior year, he is committed to go to pilot's school and four years of duty.

"Right now, I don't know whether I want the military as a career," he said.

If his sophomore season is as good as his freshman year was, he may decide to stick it out...even though his school day starts at 5:30 a.m.

Foreman Also Eyes Revenge

Hopes To Crack Ram Defense

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

With all the talk of a revenge rematch between the Pittsburgh Steelers and George Atkinson of the Oakland Raiders, it's gone kind of unnoticed that Minnesota's Chuck Foreman has a score to settle, too.

Foreman will get his chance Sunday when the Vikings entertain the Los Angeles Rams for the National Football Conference championship a few hours before the Steelers and Raiders square off in Oakland for American Football Conference honors.

In the season opener, a forearm by Atkinson to the back of Pittsburgh wide receiver Lynn Swann's head resulted in a concussion for Swann, fines and warnings for Atkinson and bitter feelings on the part of the Steelers.

"If Atkinson pulls that kind of garbage, I'll come off the bench and get him myself," threatened defensive tackle "Mean" Joe Greene.

Meanwhile, Foreman remembers an early-season 10-10 standoff with the Rams, although he'd like to forget it.

"I had only 31 yards rushing, or something horrible like that," Foreman points out. "I think they did the best job defending me of anybody we played against. I don't want that to happen again."

Since Foreman was a consensus all-pro selection a year ago, owns most club rushing marks and has averaged 1,000 yards over the last three years, you can see that few people other than the Rams have stopped him.

The conference winners meet in Super Bowl XI, scheduled for Jan. 9 in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.

The Raiders, with 11 victories in a row, and the Steelers, with 10, boast the NFL's longest winning streaks. Obviously, only one of them can continue.

Pittsburgh, which has won the last two Super Bowls, and Oakland are old hands at this sort of thing. This will be their third consecutive AFC title showdown and their fifth post-season confrontation in as many years.

Swann predicts he'll "have the last laugh" at Atkinson "when we come home AFC champs — again."

For that to happen, though, some of the Steelers' running backs had better get well in a hurry. Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier both rushed for more than 1,000 yards this season but are trying to come back from injuries, as is French Fugua.

"Football always hurts," says Fugua. "This is for the money, darlin'. You can't be half-stepin' with all those Christmas bills coming in."

Pittsburgh is favored because of its defense, which allowed only two touchdowns in the final nine regular-season games and recorded five shutouts, most in the NFL since 1944.

But, says Oakland quarterback Kenny Stabler, "In the playoffs, all the teams are evenly matched. The team that wins will be the one that holds down the turnovers and makes the big plays."

Pacer Rally Downs Nets

Bulls Get Eighth Win In Last 10 Games

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Leonard spoke in superlatives. That's what happens when your basketball team comes back from a 10-point deficit in the last two minutes.

Kevin Loughery wouldn't speak at all. That's what happens when your team loses a 10-point lead in the last two minutes.

"That was a great comeback, one of the finest comebacks I've ever seen," said Leonard after his Indiana Pacers defeated the New York Nets 96-94 in the National Basketball Association Thursday night.

It was certainly one of the better ones. The Pacers reeled off 12 points in the final 1:47 of the game to wipe out a 94-84 New York lead.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Phoenix turned back Buffalo 107-92; Chicago downed Atlanta 101-95; San Antonio nipped Washington 118-116; Milwaukee outscored Golden State 112-103 and Denver hammered Seattle 123-85.

While Leonard was exulting in the eruption of last-minute points, Loughery was shutting out reporters.

"I didn't see the game so I can't comment on it," said a dour Loughery, who was ejected on his second technical of the night at 9:02 of the fourth period.

Billy Knight scored 32 points for Indiana, including seven in that late 12-point run. An underhand scoop shot of Knight's tied the score at 94 with 28 seconds left. Moments before, Don Buse hit two free throws, then stole the ball from Nate Archibald to set up a dunk shot by Dan Roundfield and bring the Pacers within striking distance.

Ricky Sobers scored a career-high 30 points to pace Phoenix over Buffalo.

Mickey Johnson and Artis Gilmore combined for 17 fourth-quarter points and picked off 13 rebounds to guide Chicago past Atlanta. The Bulls, winning for the eighth time in their last 10 games, could not put the game away until the final two minutes, when Norm Van Lier made four straight free throws.

San Antonio got 26 points from Larry Kenon and survived a scare when Washington's Elvin Hayes narrowly missed a tip-in with one second left, preserving the Spurs' victory over the Bullets.

Milwaukee's Bob Dandridge scored 16 of his 22 points in the second half, leading the Bucks over Golden State. Gus Williams and Rick Barry rallied the Warriors from an eightpoint, fourth-quarter deficit to within 100-99 and 104-103. But Dandridge scored a basket to make it 106-103 and trigger a run of eight consecutive points by the Bucks.

David Thompson scored a season-high 39 points and Denver used a brilliant second-quarter defense to whip Seattle.

Finley's Court Case Recessed

CHICAGO (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley's civil suit against baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for voiding the multi-million dollar sale of three Oakland A's players last summer has recessed until Jan. 3.

Finley is seeking in U.S. District Court to recover some of the millions he said he lost when Kuhn voided his trade of outfielder Joe Rudi and pitchers Vida Blue and Rolfe Fingers.

Finley said he believes baseball's Major League Agreement doesn't give the commissioner power to void legal trades, but allows him only to "make sure there is no gambling — and nothing immoral going on."

Finley, wrapping up his case against Kuhn Thursday, also testified that he was constantly offering his players valuable contracts but that they were all turned down.

Kuhn gave as his reason for voiding the sales last summer that they were "not in the best interests of baseball" and would tend to upset "competitive balance" in the American League by making New York and Boston too strong and weakening Oakland.

Judge Frank J. McGarr recessed the trial until Jan. 3, when Kuhn's attorneys will cross-examine Finley and then begin their own defense.

Rose Bowl Coaches Speak Out

Player Limit Criticized

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Coaches for both Rose Bowl-bound football teams Thursday criticized a rule forcing them to use only 60 players, and said it should be changed for the safety of the athletes.

Campbell Conference coach John Robinson of Southern California came out strongly against the policy at separate news conferences.

The rule permits Rose Bowl participants to use no more than 60 players beginning today and running through the Jan. 1 matchup between the two powers.

"If we keep going the way we are we're gonna have a lot of injuries on our demo (demonstration) team," Schembechler said. "It's just not the way to

He has been forced to use second-stringers to act as demonstrators of the Southern Cal team, while first-stringers concentrate on their own regular play. Normally, third, fourth and fifth stringers handle the demonstration chores — but most of them couldn't make the trip.

"I think both conferences have to look seriously at that rule," Robinson said. "They (demo players) are exposed to too much practice and too much beating from our starters. It's detrimental to both teams."

Don Canham, Michigan's athletic director, said the rule was made by committees from both the Pacific Eight and Big Ten conferences.

"The Rose Bowl committees couldn't care less how many people (players) came," he said.

The Wolverines arrived in Pasadena on Monday to begin two weeks of preparation for the game.

"If you're out here for a week and had your rough stuff done at home, 60 would be enough," Schembechler said. "Our second team players are getting the hell kicked out of them and they're not used to that."

"It helps them with toughness, I suppose, but it doesn't help them prepare for USC because they're playing against our teams (as USC demonstrators) and not USC's."

Last year Michigan brought 85 players to the Orange Bowl, while their opponent, Oklahoma, brought 114, Canham said.

Michigan, however, is bringing the rest of its squad to Pasadena in a few days on a student tour and is paying their way, both Canham and Schembechler said.

"But when players earn a trip to the Rose Bowl they should be rewarded by allowing them all to dress for the game," Schembechler said.

What set him off on the criticism was an injury suffered Thursday by linebacker Jerry Voegele — although he's a starter and not a demo player. Voegele sprained his left ankle. X-rays were negative, "but we probably won't get any work out of him the next few days," Schembechler said.

Substitute tackle Mark Torz also suffered a minor shoulder injury in the two-hour workout at Citrus College. Two-hour practices were scheduled for today and Christmas Day.

some of the freshmen, or fourth class, training was changed from a negative type to a positive type. "Before, if you did something wrong, an upperclassman would come over and harp on you and make you do a few push ups and squat thrusts," he said. "Now, they have outlawed the push ups, but they still can harp on you."

As for dress, the first-term freshmen must wear their dress uniforms constantly. Even if they go into town for a pizza or a beer, they must wear their uniform.

No beards or mustaches are allowed, and Ziebart's hair doesn't come close to touching his ears. "And I probably will have to get it cut a little before I go back," he grinned.

The pressure on not only the freshmen, but all the cadets, to succeed is tremendous. "The cadets are pretty religious," Ziebart said. "They have Protestant, Catholic and Jewish services. Most believe God. And a good sense of humor can also help you make it through the academy."

While the strictness of the academy might have been rough on him, Ziebart's football performance more than lifted his spirits. Besides completing 57 of 117 passes for 789 yards and five touchdowns, he set a school record when he threw an 89-yard touchdown pass.

"I didn't even see the catch because I got sacked," Ziebart said. "Then I heard the cadets yelling and I figured it was either caught or intercepted."

Ziebart will have another year to decide whether to stay in the Air Force. If a cadet starts his junior year, he is committed to go to pilot's school and four years of duty.

"Right now, I don't know whether I want the military as a career," he said. "If his sophomore season is as good as his freshman year was, he may decide to stick it out...even though his school day starts at 5:30 a.m."

Foreman Also Eyes Revenge

Hopes To Crack Ram Defense

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
With all the talk of a revenge rematch between the Pittsburgh Steelers and George Atkinson of the Oakland Raiders, it's gone kind of unnoticed that Minnesota's Chuck Foreman has a score to settle, too.

Foreman will get his chance Sunday when the Vikings entertain the Los Angeles Rams for the National Football Conference championship a few hours before the Steelers and Raiders square off in Oakland for American Football Conference honors.

In the season opener, a forearm by Atkinson to the back of Pittsburgh wide receiver Lynn Swann's head resulted in a concussion for Swann, fines and warnings for Atkinson and bitter feelings on the part of the Steelers.

"If Atkinson pulls that kind of garbage, I'll come off the bench and get him myself," threatened defensive tackle "Mean" Joe Greene.

Meanwhile, Foreman remembers an early-season 10-10 standoff with the Rams, although he'd like to forget it.

"I had only 31 yards rushing, or something horrible like that," Foreman points out. "I think they did the best job defending me of anybody we played against. I don't want that to happen again."

Since Foreman was a consensus all-pro selection a year ago, owns most club rushing marks and has averaged 1,000 yards over the last three years, you can see that few people other than the Rams have stopped him.

The conference winners meet in Super Bowl XI, scheduled for Jan. 9 in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.

The Raiders, with 11 victories in a row, and the Steelers, with 10, boast the NFL's longest winning streaks. Obviously, only one of them can continue.

Pittsburgh, which has won the last two Super Bowls, and Oakland are old hands at this sort of thing. This will be their third consecutive AFC title showdown and their fifth post-season confrontation in as many years.

Swann predicts he'll "have the last laugh" on Atkinson "when we come home AFC champs — again."

For that to happen, though, some of the Steelers' running backs had better get well in a hurry. Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier both rushed for more than 1,000 yards this season but are trying to come back from injuries, as is Frenchy Fuqua.

"Football always hurts," says Fuqua. "This is for the money, darlin'. You can't be half-step-pin' with all those Christmas bills coming in."

Pittsburgh is favored because of its defense, which allowed only two touchdowns in the final nine regular-season games and recorded five shutouts, most in the NFL since 1944.

SCHOOL OF HARD KNOX: Head coach Chuck Knox of the Los Angeles Rams, mindful that his team had two punts blocked by Dallas last weekend, demonstrates face-to-stomach blocking technique to members of Rams' punting unit during a workout at Long Beach, Calif., Thursday. Bulls Get Eighth Win In Last 10 Games

Bobby Leonard spoke in superlatives. That's what happens when your basketball team comes back from a 10-point deficit in the last two minutes.

Kevin Loughery wouldn't speak at all. That's what happens when your team loses a 10-point lead in the last two minutes.

"That was a great comeback, one of the finest comebacks I've ever seen," said Leonard after his Indiana Pacers defeated the New York Nets 96-94 in the National Basketball Association Thursday night.

It was certainly one of the better ones. The Pacers reeled off 12 points in the final 1:47 of the game to wipe out a 94-84 New York lead.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Phoenix turned back Buffalo 107-92; Chicago downed Atlanta 101-95; San Antonio nipped Washington 118-116; Milwaukee outscored Golden State 112-103 and Denver hammered Seattle 123-95.

While Leonard was exulting in the eruption of last-minute points, Loughery was shutting out reporters.

"I didn't see the game so I can't comment on it," said a dour Loughery, who was ejected on his second technical of the night at 9:02 of the fourth period.

Billy Knight scored 32 points for Indiana, including seven in that late 12-point run. An underhand scoop shot of Knight's tied the score at 94 with 28 seconds left. Moments before, Don Buse hit two free throws, then stole the ball from Nate Archibald to set up a dunk shot by Dan Roundfield and bring the Pacers within striking distance.

Ricky Sobers scored a career-high 30 points to pace Phoenix over Buffalo.

Mickey Johnson and Artis Gilmore combined for 17 fourth-quarter points and picked off 13 rebounds to guide Chicago past Atlanta. The Bulls, winning for the eighth time in their last 10 games, could not put the game away until the final two minutes, when Norm Van Lier made four straight free throws.

San Antonio got 26 points from Larry Kenon and survived a scare when Washington's Elvin Hayes narrowly missed a tip-in with one second left, preserving the Spurs' victory over the Bulls.

Milwaukee's Bob Dandridge scored 16 of his 22 points in the second half, leading the Bucks over Golden State. Gus Williams and Rick Barry rallied the Warriors from an eightpoint, fourth-quarter deficit to within 100-99 and 104-103. But Dandridge scored a basket to make it 106-103 and trigger a run of eight consecutive points by the Bucks.

David Thompson scored a season-high 38 points and Denver used a brilliant secondquarter defense to whip Seattle.

Finley's Court Case Recessed

CHICAGO (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley's civil suit against baseball Commission Bowie Kuhn for voiding the multi-million dollar sale of three Oakland A's players last summer has recessed until Jan. 3.

Finley is seeking in U.S. District Court to recover some of the millions he said he lost when Kuhn voided his trade of outfielder Joe Rudi and pitchers Vida Blue and Rollie Fingers.

Finley said he believes baseball's Major League Agreement doesn't give the commissioner power to void legal trades, but allows him only to "make sure there is no gambling — and nothing immoral going on."

Finley, wrapping up his case against Kuhn Thursday, also testified that he was constantly offering his players valuable contracts but that they were all turned down.

Kuhn gave as his reason for voiding the sales last summer that they were "not in the best interests of baseball" and would tend to upset "competitive balance" in the American League by making New York and Boston too strong and weakening Oakland.

Judge Frank J. McGarr recessed the trial until Jan. 3, when Kuhn's attorneys will cross-examine Finley and then begin their own defense.

Alabama Downs Carolina Again

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
When South Carolina played Alabama earlier in the season, the Crimson Tide were at their best and it did the Gamecocks' reputation considerable harm.
Alabama was at its worst Thursday night. But it still didn't do South Carolina any good as Alabama raised its record to 8-4.
"It was a good win for us," said Alabama Coach C.M. Newton after his Crimson Tide defeated South Carolina 67-62 in the finals of the Carolina Classic. "It was our fourth game in seven days and we weren't as quick as we have been."
South Carolina Coach Frank McGuire, remembering a 90-66 beating from Alabama earlier in the year at Tuscaloosa, changed tactics.

Instead of using a man-to-man defense as he did at Alabama, McGuire offered a zone.

"McGuire had an excellent game plan," said Newton. "We drubbed them pretty good at our place with the press and playing against their man-to-man and we knew they would change things this time around."

"I think our zone was very effective," McGuire pointed out. "But they hit two long shots late in the game that hurt us. We played as well as we're capable of."

The hardware won by Alabama marked the second journey triumph this year for the nation's fifth-ranked team. It's the first time that Alabama has won two basketball tournaments in one season. The Crimson Tide won the Dayton

All the Buffalo Sabres wanted for Christmas was first place in the National Hockey League Adams Division ... and they got it with room to spare.

The high-flying Sabres overtook the Boston Bruins Wednesday night and boosted their lead to two points Thursday evening with a come-from-behind 4-2 triumph — their seventh in a row — over the Toronto Maple Leafs while the Bruins were tied 3-3 by the New York Rangers.

"Our guys said they would be in first place by Christmas and they are," said Coach Floyd Smith. "I didn't really expect them to be. Remember they were 12 points back only month ago."

In other NHL action, Philadelphia defeated Washington 5-2, Detroit deposed Pitt-Savard tied it early in the third period.

New York came from behind twice on a pair of second-period goals by rookie Don Murdoch and one by Steve Vickers in the third period.

The Rangers spotted the Bruins a 2-0 lead on goals by Earl Anderson and Terry O'Reilly before Murdoch scored his 26th and 27th goals of the season. Boston regained the lead on Johnny Bucyk's goal early in the third period but Vickers tied it again at 12:40.

Philadelphia leads the Patrick Division by two points over the New York Islanders with Atlanta nine out and the Rangers 10 back.

Don Saleski's two goals helped Philadelphia extend its unbeaten streak to 17 games. The Flyers' streak is the longest in the NHL this season and also

Pirates Open With Chisox

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates have announced a 26-game exhibition schedule for 1977.

Under new manager Chuck Tanner, the Pirates will play 11 home games at McKeesport Field in Bradenton, Fla.

The first game will be held in Sarasota March 10 against the Chicago White Sox. The Pirates' first game in Bradenton will be against the White Sox the following day.

Two Coaches

GREEN BAY, WIS. (AP) — Green Bay Packers' Coach and General Manager Bart Starr, one of pro football's greatest tacticians when he quarterbacked the team to five championships in the 1960s, apparently will have more direct input in the offense in 1977.

That became evident Thursday with disclosure that Paul Roach, the Packers' offensive coordinator, and offensive line Coach Leon McLaughlin had resigned at Starr's request.

Robert Scott's jumper with 5:47 left broke a tie and triggered Alabama's victory over South Carolina. T.R. Dunn of Alabama led the Tide's attack with 15 points and was voted the Carolina Classic's most valuable player. Hearn Gets Weird Pickup First Ball Downs 7-10

By JERRY DYKSTRA
Staff Sports Writer

Strange but true!
That's what Roger Hearn's weird 7-10 pickup rates.
Most bowlers pick up the difficult 7-10 split on their second ball. Not Roger. He knocked down the Nos. 7 and 10 pins on his first ball, leaving the other eight pins standing.

Here's how the Watervliet kegler explains the oddity:
"My ball hit the 10 pin and went into the gutter. The 10 pin went into the air and hit the ball. Then the pin hit the kick back of the lane and bounced off and knocked down the seven pin."

Needless to say, the freak feat left Hearn and his Watco league members at Coloma Recreation striking their heads in amazement.

"It's not one of those things you brag about...but at least I can say I picked up the 7-10," laughed Hearn, who turned the trick last week Wednesday.

Hearn, who supports about a 175 average in the league, ended with a 527 series.

Ann Flagg made the women's high series standings with her 628 in the Switch-A-Roo league at Lakes Bowl. Ann socked games of 246-205-177. She carries a 171 average in the league.

Skip's Other Place improved its fourth-place spot in the women's high team series efforts by 29 pins with a 2556 effort in the Tuesday Night Ladies league at Theo's.

There were three triplicates reported this week. Gerry Nash powered three games of 133, Hazel Neidlinger 132 and Karen Ambler 107.

Another string of consecutive series of the same total has been reported. Last year the Shopper's Guide team, bowling in the Hartford Men's league at Wil-O-Paw Lanes, rolled 2484 three straight weeks. The series came on Sept. 25, Oct. 2 and Oct. 9 of 1975. Team members were Bill McLaughlin, Lawrence Olds, Ernest Eiswald, Mark Miller and Vern Wilkinson.

The Steinhoff Jewels team, which bowls at Coloma Recreation, is ranked second in the country by the American Junior Bowling Congress for its team series of 2141 for bantam bowlers. The team consists of Pam Steinhoff, Kim LoPrelli, Nancy Martin, Kathy Darling and Colleen Frazier.

The Michigan Travel Commission at its Dec. 13 meeting in Lansing unanimously adopted a resolution urging the American Bowling Congress to consider the Greater Metropolitan Detroit area as a potential site for the future development of a National Bowling Hall of Fame and Museum.

Deadline for entries in the 1977 WIBC championship tournament is Jan. 14. The tournament will open March 31 in Milwaukee and run through May 23, unless extended.

Fidrych Top 1976 State Sports Story

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

The storybook debut season of Detroit Tiger pitcher Mark Fidrych is the top Michigan sports story of 1976, according to a vote of Associated Press sports writers and broadcasters.

Turmoil at Michigan State University over illegal football recruiting was second in the balloting. The University of Michigan's football season, capped by a 1977 Rose Bowl appearance, was third.

Fidrych, nicknamed "The Bird," survived spring training but languished in the bullpen the first month of the season before getting a chance to start. He became an instant success, piled up 19 victories and drew huge crowds throughout the American League.

Fidrych was a starter in the All-Star game, led the league in earned run average and was voted American League Rookie of the Year.

He was named top Michigan sports story of 1976 on 24 of the 25 ballots received from AP members. The U-M football story got the only other first-place vote.

The MSU scandal over recruiting violations resulted in the National Collegiate Athletic Association imposing a three-year probation on the East Lansing school. Both Athletic Director Burt Smith and football Coach Denny Stolz were relieved of their jobs.

Meanwhile at Ann Arbor, the University of Michigan football team climbed to No. 1 in the country only to be upset at Purdue late in the season. However, a victory over rival Ohio State and a trip to the Rose Bowl kept alive the team's hope for a national championship.

Here's the remainder of the Top 10 Michigan sports stories of 1976:

4. The University of Michigan basketball team achieves a 25-7 mark, its best ever, and loses the NCAA title to Indiana in the final tournament game.

5. Detroit Tiger outfielder Ron LeFlore hits safely in 30 straight games, the longest hitting streak by a Tiger in 33 years. He also steals 58 bases, most by a Tiger in 60 years.

6. Detroit speedskater Sheila Young wins Gold, Silver and Bronze medals in the Winter Olympics.

7. Rick Forzano quits as coach of the National Football League Detroit Lions and is succeeded by scouting coordinator Tommy Hudspeth. The Lions struggle and finish the year at 6-8.

8. The Western Michigan University basketball team amasses a 25-3 mark, its best ever, and gains its first entrance into the NCAA tournament.

9. The Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association pay $500,000 for Marvin Barnes in the American Basketball Association dispersal draft. But Barnes' basketball court activities are limited by injuries and suspensions and he spends more time in legal court hassles.

10. U-M football Coach Bo Schembechler survives a 6½-hour heart operation and decides to continue coaching.

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

When South Carolina played Alabama earlier in the season, the Crimson Tide were at their best and it did the Gamecocks' reputation considerable harm.

Alabama was at its worst Thursday night. But it still didn't do South Carolina any good as Alabama raised its record to 8-0.

"It was a good win for us," said Alabama Coach C.M. Newton after his Crimson Tide defeated South Carolina 67-62 in the finals of the Carolina Classic.

"It was our fourth game in seven days and we weren't as quick as we have been."

South Carolina Coach Frank McGuire, remembering a 90-66 beating from Alabama earlier in the year at Tuscaloosa, changed tactics.

Instead of using a man-to-man defense as he did at Alabama, McGuire offered a zone.

"McGuire had an excellent game plan," said Newton. "We drubbed them pretty good at our place with the press and playing against their man-to-man and we knew they would change things this time around."

"I think our zone was very effective," McGuire pointed out. "But they hit two long shots late in the game that hurt us. We played as well as we're capable of."

The hardware won by Alabama marked the second tourney triumph this year for the nation's fifth-ranked team. It's the first time that Alabama has won two basketball tournaments in one season.

The Crimson Tide won the Dayton Invitational earlier in the year.

Elsewhere in college basketball, No. 8 UCLA stopped William & Mary 59-55; No. 16 Utah trimmed Weber State 88-81 in overtime; No. 18 Arkansas whipped Tulsa 81-66 and No. 20 Minnesota nipped Kansas State 62-60.

Robert Scott's jumper with 5:47 left broke a tie and triggered Alabama's victory over South Carolina. T.R. Dunn of Alabama led the Tide's attack with 15 points and was voted the Carolina Classic's most valuable player.

In a consolation game, Georgetown defeated Harvard 60-40 to take third place in the tourney.

Eight free throws in the final minute, four by Roy Hamilton, preserved UCLA's victory over William & Mary.

Jeff Jonas scored 19 points and handed out 15 assists to lead Utah's overtime victory over stubborn Weber State. Ron Brewer and Sidney Moncreif each scored 20 points to lead Arkansas past Tulsa.

Ray Williams' layup with 43 seconds to play gave undefeated Minnesota its seventh victory. Williams, who was injured in the first half and had just reentered the game, took a perfect feed from Michael Thompson for his game-winning shot.

Under new manager Chuck Tanner, the Pirates will play 11 home games at McKeesport Field in Bradenton, Fla.

The first game will be held in Sarasota March 10 against the Chicago White Sox. The Pirates' first game in Bradenton will be against the White Sox the following day.

High Jumper Joy Is Top Athlete

TORONTO (AP) — High jumper Greg Joy, winner of an Olympic silver medal, was named today as Canada's Male Athlete of the Year for 1976.

The 20-year-old Joy, a native of Portland, Ore., and a student at the University of Texas-El Paso, beat jockey Sandy Hawley and hockey player Guy Lafleur of the Montreal Canadiens for the honor.

Joy leaped 7 feet, 3¼ inches in finishing second in the Olympic high jump at Montreal and winning Canada's first track and field medal at the Games in 12 years.

Carter Discusses Faith Openly

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Most presidents of the United States have avoided elaborating their particular religious views openly, regarding it politically hazardous and limiting themselves in public to reverent generalities. But Jimmy Carter laid it out explicitly, in the clear.

Among presidents down through the years, only Lincoln has so plainly expressed his theological ideas in connection with that office, and possibly Wilson. Most of the others of high religious concern, such as Jefferson and John Adams, kept and the first full-fledged Southerner elected president since before the Civil War, also is the first in the presidential line to assert openly that Christ is the main influence in his life, and the first to make his concepts of Scriptural teaching and evangelical belief part of the electoral process.

"Jesus comes first in my life, even before politics," he says. "I don't want anything that's not God's will for my life... I'm a Christian, no matter what." But he also says of Judaism: "We worship the same God. We study the same Bible."

A Southern Baptist, Carter has served as deacon and Sunday School teacher in his home congregation in Plains, Ga. He has also served as trustee of the national denomination's service agency, the Brotherhood Commission, and as a lay preacher, evangelist and worker on mission teams in Lock Haven, Pa., and among Spanish-speaking poor in Springfield, Mass.

"My religion," he says, "is as natural to me as breathing."

Whether his reserved religious faith appealed to voters or not, it was not just pro forma as it has seemed to be with some past presidents. He had lived it and witnessed to it before ever aspiring to the presidency, and it clearly was the real Carter.

In contrast, modern political savvy has tended to downplay the religious factor, keeping it so generalized as not really to matter one way or another and to bother no one. But Carter bluntly laid it on the line. Regardless of whether it helped him or hurt him at the polls, he declared his convictions.

"I do not hold them because of their effect on the electorate," he says. "I hold them despite their effect. I hold them because I believe them. They're part of the Carter package. They come with me."

When the question first arose in the beginning of his campaign in 1975, he says he had a moment's hesitation about whether to pass it off with only his denominational affiliation, the usual sidestepping of it, but "I decided I'd respond with the same kind of openness and honesty to this question as to any other question."

He took some lumps for it. The political intelligentsia groaned. Numerous columnists and commentators voiced their cynicism.

Carter says the most unexpected aspect of the campaign had been the furor over his religious views. "So many analyses, so many stories, so many questions, so many expressions of doubt and skepticism — and occasionally ridicule," he says. "It really amazed me, and sometimes it hurt a little."

Lately, he's been reading from a Spanish version, combining both sustaining his fluency in that language and sharpening his Scriptural consciousness, reflecting his bent for getting maximum efficiency from his time.

While his principles are grounded in the Bible, he also is familiar with the words of the great religious thinkers, Reinhold Niebuhr, Karl Barth, Paul Tillich, Soren Kierkegaard, and often refers to their insights.

By a strange irony, the question has been raised about whether Carter might use the

Although the mass media treated it as some kind of strange anomaly, a Gallup survey indicates 34 per cent of all adult Americans say they have been "born again" — half the Protestants and 18 per cent of Roman Catholics. Actually it is basic to all Christianity whether the term is used or not.

In Carter's case, as he tells it, it happened at a low point in his political fortunes. Troubled that his faith did not take priority over other interests, he wrestled with these and other misgivings on a conversational stroll through the pine woods near his home with his sister, Ruth Carter Stapleton, a psychologist-evangelist.

"I determined then and there really to commit my life to Christ," he says. "I became uniquely aware of the Holy Spirit as an integral part of my life. I began to read the Bible with new interest and perspective. Since then, I've had just about a new life. I've had an inner peace and inner assurance that have transformed my life for the better. Now that doesn't mean I'm better, but I'm better off."

In his campaign, Carter not only faced misapprehensions about his own faith but false stereotypes about his denomination, the Southern Baptist, as a narrow, dogmatic body. Actually it embraces a diverse, yet generally moderate religious spectrum. With 12.7 million members, it is the largest body in the country, now spread through all 50 states.

Although predominantly white, its national convention repeatedly has condemned race discrimination and segregation. It has less than 1 per cent black membership and many of its congregations still are solidly white. Only last month did Carter's home church in Plains vote to open its membership to blacks, as long advocated by Carter's family.

As president, he says he plans no special services in the White House as in the Nixon era when the president had his own selected religious attendants. Carter intends simply to participate in a nearby Baptist congregation and "play down any sort of show about it."

Carter's rise to the presidency heightened a religious element in the national consciousness. While he sometimes may have demurred at precision on various other issues, he seemed to have touched some deeper chord, some more basic pain and need in American society for moral fiber and spiritual strength. It was a theme he constantly sounded.

Perhaps he may bring some tempering of the secular saturation that has dominated society in recent times, suggests Lutheran scholar Richard

J. Neuhaus. He notes that the last presidents to do so were Wilson and, more successfully, Lincoln.

Both of them also were Southerners by birth. Perhaps Carter's influence may also help stimulate a climate in which the moral traditions that shaped the nation's heritage can surface more naturally, enriching the diversity that is American life.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., father of the late civil rights leader, put it this way at the Democratic convention that nominated the man destined to be the next U.S. President: "Surely the Lord has sent Jimmy Carter to come out and bring America back to where it belongs."

private their detailed discussions of it, preserved largely in personal papers.

But Carter, newly elected to the presidency, brushed aside the conventional reticence and spelled out frankly and publicly just where he stood in matters religious. He spoke against any governmental partisanship about religion and disclaimed presuming to have himself any special pipeline to God, but strongly and specifically affirmed dependence on Him.

"I pray many times a day for God's guidance as I confront difficult decisions," he says. "I ask God to let me do what's right, and let me do what's best." But he said, "The fact that a person has deep religious convictions doesn't mean that person thinks he is always right. I recognize my own shortcomings and sinfulness and my need to improve, and the need for forgiveness from the people around me, and from God."

Carter the first Georgian

'Jesus comes first in my life even before politics. I don't want anything that's not God's will for my life.'

Two other Baptists besides Carter have been president: Warren G. Harding, 1921-23, a perfunctory, incidental member of the Northern branch, the American Baptists; and Harry Truman, 1945-53, a Southern Baptist like Carter, but not so extensively active in church affairs, although a consistent worshipper, versed in Scriptures.

Carter, despite misportrayals of his religion, is not a rigid Biblical literalist nor hard-line fundamentalist, being neither defensive nor judgmental. Rather, he conveys a positive, trusting religious viewpoint, a man of tolerant breadth and disciplined devotional practice.

"I pray many times during the day," he says, noting that he does so especially when he hears of someone in trouble or when facing a decision affecting the lives of others. "For a long time, I've had a habit of reading a chapter in the Bible every day. It's been a help to me and become part of my life... I haven't missed a day this year."

presidency to foist his religious views on others. Yet he belongs to a tradition, the Baptists, who from the first have been among the staunchest champions of individual liberty in religion and of the U.S. policy separating church and state.

Indeed, Baptists played a key role in obtaining that policy. The first American colony assuring religious freedom was established in 1639 in Rhode Island by Baptist Roger Williams. A Baptist leader in Virginia, John Leland, had a major influence with James Madison in drafting the first constitutional amendment forbidding any "law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

So fervently have Baptists defended that principle that they're sometimes accused of carrying it too far, such as in refusing federal loans for their colleges. They proclaim a spirit of individuality in religion, insisting that each person is free to determine his beliefs and interpret Scriptures according to his own conscience.

"I believe in complete separation of church and state," Carter says. "Certainly I would never use political office to impose my religious convictions on someone else. The broad diversity of philosophical and religious belief in our country is one of our greatest strengths."

Nevertheless, like any genuinely religious person, Carter makes clear that his faith permeates his whole outlook and provides the framework of his values in his approach to issues, personal and political.

"As far as my decisions as a political leader, they are affected very heavily by my Christian beliefs," he says. "I don't look on the presidency as a pastorate. But it gives me a chance to serve and it also gives me a chance to magnify whatever influence I have, for either good or bad, and I hope it will be for good... I try to utilize my religious beliefs as a constant guide in making my decisions as a private and public citizen."

He notes that there are ethical principles common to many religions — compassion, brotherhood, love, truth, honesty, decency, and he adds, "I believe it is a state's responsibility and privilege to reflect these virtues in its policies, both domestic and foreign."

Carter's religion was portrayed as being problematical for Jews, yet Southern Baptists and other evangelicals are among the staunchest supporters of the state of Israel, seeing it as a fulfillment of Biblical prophecy. Carter himself affirms that view.

"The survival of Israel is not a political issue — it is a moral imperative," he says. Surveys indicate Jews gave him 75 per cent of their vote, surpassing their usual margin for Democrats.

Carter, whose main boyhood playmates were blacks, also showed that special Southern understanding for them, and they reciprocated with 90 per cent of the black vote, providing his majority in several areas. He probably is the first president whose election edge came from blacks.

Among Catholics, he took an indicated 34 per cent of the votes despite criticism by some of the church's press and bishops for his refusal to advocate a constitutional amendment outlawing all abortions. He emphasized he personally opposed abortion, and would do all he could to minimize the need for it.

Carter, baptized in his home church as a boy of 11, had

JOHN P. ROCHE

A Word Edgewood

The big Washington question for thousands of dedicated Democrats is, "What will Jimmy Carter give me for Christmas?" As one who was born an outsider and something of an anarchist, I am in the happy position of not wanting anything — not even the President-elect's private number. But the spectacle of the thirty political types rushing for the water hole is pretty amusing, particularly since there are at least 28 characters wandering around town offering jobs. Thus the big question, after you have been "offered" the chairmanship of, say, the Federal Communications Commission, is "Does this guy have the inside track?"

Actually the way jobs are passed out is an art form that lends itself to precisely this ambiguity. Let us assume for a moment that Jimmy Carter has decided I am ideally qualified to run the Central Intelligence Agency. Normally under this circumstance you might think he would pick up the phone, call me, and say, "Well, John how would you like to run the pickle factory?" But, as we say in Brooklyn, that ain't the way it works. You see, I might say (indeed, certainly would say), "No thank you, Governor — I've got a job."

In short, the President-elect would be "snubbed," an event that is completely unconstitutional. To avoid this sort of disaster, an elaborate choreography has been developed, one which allows plenty of room for independent operators. The key theme is that nobody is ever offered a job until after he or she has accepted it! To revert to Carter, Roche and the C.I.A., the drama could well unfold in the following format.

Old Washington Hand on phone to Roche: "John, meet me for lunch at the International Club. I have a message from some mutual friends." Roche — suspecting he is going to end up with the tab, but curious — "Sure, Seamus, see you there at one." Once settled in for lunch, Seamus — looking around suspiciously to make sure no one is eavesdropping — leans across the table confidentially: "John, the Governor has heard a lot of good things about you."

that is sinking in, he orders another martini, and I am increasingly certain I'll be stuck with the bill. But the serve must be returned: "That's nice to know — I treated him with elaborate deference in his campaign — but what sort of thing does he have in mind?" "John, he seems to think you are just the guy to keep the spooks in line — that C.I.A. crowd has been writing its own ticket too long. Now this isn't a firm offer, you understand, but if you are interested, I'll let him know. If everything works out, you'll be hearing from us." Roche picks up check.

Now the odds against my hearing from "us" are astronomical, but how am I to know, especially if I happen to be hungry and would like to settle into the comfort of C.I.A. headquarters in Langley? I suppose I could call Plains, Georgia, and ask if this bird is for real. But even if he was, the standard reply would be, "Nobody has the authority to speak for the President-elect." Moreover, I have known of situations in which high-level jobs were passed out in precisely this fashion.

Finally, I should mention the perfect fail-safe if you fear Jimmy Carter is not going to present you with a position worthy of your talents. You call a press conference and state that "for personal reasons" you regret you will be unable to serve the President and the nation. In candor, I should reveal that it is precisely on such personal grounds that I have been unable to accept State, Defense and the Weather Bureau.

VALE, Colo. (AP) — His father's departure from the White House may help Jack Ford's career.

For some time now, young Ford has been saying that while his father was president it was difficult to find work in his chosen field — forestry — because of potential conflicts of interest. Now the President's 24-year-old son is job hunting.

Most presidents of the United States have avoided elaborating their particular religious views openly, regarding it politically hazardous and limiting themselves in public to reverent generalities. But Jimmy Carter laid it out explicitly, in the clear.

Among presidents down through the years, only Lincoln has so plainly expressed his theological ideas in connection with that office, and possibly Wilson. Most of the others of high religious concern, such as Jefferson and John Adams, kept and the first full-fledged Southerner elected president since before the Civil War, also is the first in the presidential line to assert openly that Christ is the main influence in his life, and the first to make his concepts of Scriptural teaching and evangelical belief part of the electoral process.

"Jesus comes first in my life, even before politics," he says. "I don't want anything that's not God's will for my life... I'm a Christian, no matter what." But he also says of Judaism: "We worship the same God. We study the same Bible."

A Southern Baptist, Carter has served as deacon and Sunday School teacher in his home congregation in Plains, Ga. He has also served as trustee of the national denomination's service agency, the Brotherhood Commission, and as a lay preacher, evangelist and worker on mission teams in Lock Haven, Pa., and among Spanish-speaking poor in Springfield, Mass.

"My religion," he says, "is as natural to me as breathing." Whether his reserved religious faith appealed to voters or not, it was not just pro forma as it has seemed to be with some past presidents. He had lived it and witnessed to it before ever aspiring to the presidency, and it clearly was the real Carter.

In contrast, modern political savvy has tended to downplay the religious factor, keeping it so generalized as not really to matter one way or another and to bother no one. But Carter bluntly laid it on the line. Regardless of whether it helped him or hurt him at the polls, he declared his convictions.

"I do not hold them because of their effect on the electorate," he says. "I hold them because they are part of me. I believe them. They're part of the Carter package. They come with me."

When the question first arose in the beginning of his campaign in 1975, he says he had a moment's hesitation about whether to pass it off with only his denominational affiliation, the usual sideling of it, but "I decided I'd respond with the

He took some lumps for it. The political intelligentsia groaned. Numerous columnists and commentators voiced their cynicism.

Carter says the most unexpected aspect of the campaign had been the furor over his religious views. "So many analyses, so many stories, so many questions, so many expressions of doubt and skepticism — and occasionally ridicule," he says. "It really amazed me, and sometimes it hurt a little."

Lately, he's been reading from a Spanish version, combining both sustaining his fluency in that language and sharpening his Scriptural consciousness, reflecting his bent for getting maximum efficiency from his time.

While his principles are grounded in the Bible, he also is familiar with the works of the great religious thinkers, Reinhold Niebuhr, Karl Barth, Paul Tillich, Soren Kierkegaard, and often refers to their insights.

By a strange irony, the question has been raised about whether Carter might use the

Although the mass media treated it as some kind of strange anomaly, a Gallup survey indicates 34 per cent of all adult Americans say they have been "born again" — half the Protestants and 18 per cent of Roman Catholics. Actually it is basic to all Christianity whether the term is used or not.

In Carter's case, as he tells it, it happened at a low point in his political fortunes. Troubled that his faith did not take priority over other interests, he wrestled with these and other misgivings on a conversational stroll through the pine woods near his home with his sister, Ruth Carter Stapleton, a psychologist-evangelist.

"I determined then and there really to commit my life to Christ," he says. "I became uniquely aware of the Holy Spirit as an integral part of my life. I began to read the Bible with new interest and perspective. Since then, I've had just about a new life. I've had an inner peace and inner assurance that have transformed my life for the better. Now that doesn't mean I'm better, but I'm better off."

In his campaign, Carter not only faced misapprehensions about his own faith but false stereotypes about his denomination, the Southern Baptist, as a narrow, dogmatic body. Actually it embraces a diverse, yet generally moderate religious spectrum. With 12.7 million members, it is the largest body in the country, now spread through all 50 states. Although predominantly white, its national convention repeatedly has condemned race discrimination and segregation. It has less than 1 per cent black membership and many of its congregations still are solidly white. Only last month did Carter's home church in Plains vote to open its membership to blacks, as long advocated by Carter's family.

As president, he says he plans no special services in the White House as in the Nixon era when the president had his own

selected religious attendants. Carter intends simply to participate in a nearby Baptist congregation and "play down any sort of show about it."

Carter's rise to the presidency heightened a religious element in the national consciousness. While he sometimes may have demurred at precision on various other issues, he seemed to have touched some deeper chord, some more basic pain and need in American society for moral fiber and spiritual strength. It was a theme he constantly sounded.

Perhaps he may bring some tempering of the secular saturation that has dominated society in recent times, suggests Lutheran scholar Richard

J. Neuhaus. He notes that the last presidents to do so were Wilson and, more successfully, Lincoln.

Both of them also were Southerners by birth. Perhaps Carter's influence may also help stimulate a climate in which the moral traditions that shaped the nation's heritage can surface more naturally, enriching the diversity that is American life.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., father of the late civil rights leader, put it this way at the Democratic convention that nominated the man destined to be the next U.S. President: "Surely the Lord has sent Jimmy Carter to come out and bring America back to where it belongs."

private their detailed discussions of it, preserved largely in personal papers.

But Carter, newly elected to the presidency, brushed aside the conventional reticence and spelled out frankly and publicly just where he stood in matters religious. He spoke against any governmental partisanship about religion and disclaimed presuming to have himself any special pipeline to God, but strongly and specifically affirmed dependence on Him.

"I pray many times a day for God's guidance as I confront difficult decisions," he says. "I ask God to let me do what's right, and let me do what's best." But he said, "The fact that a person has deep religious convictions doesn't mean that person thinks he is always right. I recognize my own shortcomings and sinfulness and my need to improve, and the need for forgiveness from the people around me, and from God."

Carter the first Georgian

'Jesus comes first in my life even before politics. I don't want anything that's not God's will for my life.'

Two other Baptists besides Carter have been president: Warren G. Harding, 1921-23, a perfunctory, incidental member of the Northern branch, the American Baptists; and Harry Truman, 1945-53, a Southern Baptist like Carter, but not so extensively active in church affairs, although a consistent worshipper, versed in Scriptures.

Carter, despite misportrayals of his religion, is not a rigid Biblical literalist nor hard-line fundamentalist, being neither defensive nor judgmental. Rather, he conveys a positive, trusting religious viewpoint, a man of tolerant breadth and disciplined devotional practice.

"I pray many times during the day," he says, noting that he does so especially when he hears of someone in trouble or when facing a decision affecting the lives of others. "For a long time, I've had a habit of reading a chapter in the Bible every day. It's been a help to me and become part of my life... I haven't missed a day this year."

presidency to foist his religious views on others. Yet he belongs to a tradition, the Baptists, who from the first have been among the staunchest champions of individual liberty in religion and of the U.S. policy separating church and state.

Indeed, Baptists played a key role in obtaining that policy. The first American colony assuring religious freedom was established in 1639 in Rhode Island by Baptist Roger Williams. A Baptist leader in Virginia, John Leland, had a major influence with James Madison in drafting the first constitutional amendment forbidding any "law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

So fervently have Baptists defended that principle that they're sometimes accused of carrying it too far, such as in refusing federal loans for their colleges. They proclaim a spirit of individuality in religion, insisting that each person is free to determine his beliefs and interpret Scriptures according to his own conscience.

"I believe in complete separation of church and state," Carter says. "Certainly I would never use political office to impose my religious convictions on someone else. The broad diversity of philosophical and religious belief in our country is one of our greatest strengths." Nevertheless, like any genuinely religious person, Carter makes clear that his faith permeates his whole outlook and provides the framework of his values in his approach to issues, personal and political.

"As far as my decisions as a political leader, they are affected very heavily by my Christian beliefs," he says. "I don't look on the presidency as a pastorate. But it gives me a chance to serve and it also gives me a chance to magnify whatever influence I have, for either good or bad, and I hope it will be for good... I try to utilize my religious beliefs as a constant guide in making my decisions as a private and public citizen."

He notes that there are ethical principles common to many religions — compassion, brotherhood, love, truth, honesty, decency, and he adds, "I believe it is a state's responsibility and privilege to reflect these virtues in its policies, both domestic and foreign."

Carter's religion was portrayed as being problematical for Jews, yet Southern Baptists and other evangelicals are among the staunchest supporters of the state of Israel, seeing it as a fulfillment of Biblical prophecy. Carter himself affirms that view.

"The survival of Israel is not a political issue — it is a moral imperative," he says. Surveys indicate Jews gave him 75 per cent of their vote, surpassing their usual margin for Democrats.

Carter, whose main boyhood playmates were blacks, also showed that special Southern understanding for them, and they reciprocated with 90 per cent of the black vote, providing his majority in several areas. He probably is the first president whose election edge came from blacks.

Among Catholics, he took an indicated 54 per cent of the votes despite criticism by some of the church's press and bishops for his refusal to advocate a constitutional amendment outlawing all abortions. He emphasized he personally opposed abortion, and would do all he could to minimize the need for it.

Carter, baptized in his home church as a boy of 11, had

JOHN P. ROCHE

A Word Edgewise

The big Washington question for thousands of dedicated Democrats is, "What will Jimmy Carter give me for Christmas?" As one who was born an outsider and something of an anarchist, I am in the happy position of not wanting anything — not even the President-elect's private number. But the spectacle of the thirty political types rushing for the water hole is pretty amusing, particularly since there are at least 25 characters wandering around town offering jobs. Thus the big question, after you have been "offered" the chairmanship of, say, the Federal Communications Commission, is "Does this guy have the inside track?"

works. You see, I might say (indeed, certainly would say), "No thank you, Governor — I've got a job."

In short, the President-elect would be "snubbed," an event that is completely unconstitutional. To avoid this sort of disaster, an elaborate choreography has been developed, one which allows plenty of room for independent operators. The key theme is that nobody is ever offered a job until after he or she has accepted it! To revert to Carter, Roche and the C.I.A., the drama could well unfold in the following format.

Old Washington Hand on phone to Roche: "John, meet me for lunch at the International Club. I have a message from some mutual friends." Roche — suspecting he is going to end up with the tab, but curious — "Sure, Seamus, see you there at one." Once settled in for lunch, Seamus — looking around suspiciously to make sure no one is eavesdropping — leans across the table confidentially: "John, the Governor has heard a lot of good things about you."

that is sinking in, he orders another martini, and I am increasingly certain I'll be stuck with the bill. But the serve must be returned: "That's nice to know — I treated him with elaborate deference in his campaign — but what sort of thing does he have in mind?" "John, he seems to think you are just the guy to keep the spooks in line — that C.I.A. crowd has been writing its own ticket too long. Now this isn't a firm offer, you understand, but if you are interested, I'll let him know. If everything works out, you'll be hearing from us." Roche picks up check.

Now the odds against my hearing from "us" are astronomical, but how am I to know, especially if I happen to be hungry and would like to settle into the comfort of C.I.A. headquarters in Langley? I suppose I could call Plains, Georgia, and ask if this bird is for real. But even if he was, the standard reply would be, "Nobody has the authority to speak for the President-elect." Moreover, I have known of situations in which high-level jobs were passed out in precisely this fashion.

Finally, I should mention the perfect fail-safe if you fear Jimmy Carter is not going to present you with a position worthy of your talents. You call a press conference and state that "for personal reasons" you regret you will be unable to serve the President and the nation. In candor, I should reveal that it is precisely on such personal grounds that I have been unable to accept State, Defense and the Weather Bureau.

For some time now, young Ford has been saying that while his father was president it was difficult to find work in his chosen field — forestry — because of potential conflicts of interest. Now the President's 24-year-old son is job hunting.

Nation Is Moved By 'Criag's Letter

SEATTLE (AP) — A haphazardly-spelled letter to Santa, signed "Criag" and bearing no return address, has prompted gifts of food, toys, and money from all over the country — and even a song.

"I think parents are using this as an example of what Christmas is about — sharing," said Shirley Martin, who organized a holiday drive for needy families after the letter was accidentally delivered to a restaurant here.

"Dear Santa," the letter said, "Mama said you got lost last year and couldn't find your way to our house. We wrilly mist you aspheshly my little sisters. Please come this year Santa."

To assure a visit from St. Nick, the boy said he was enclosing a map to his house. But he forgot to include the map, and the envelope bore no return address.

A postscript said, "ps. don't leav any thing for dady becuse he isn't hear anymore."

Employees at Francisco's restaurant started a food and toy drive, hoping that if they helped enough needy families in the area they might accidentally help Craig's.

"We have checks coming in from all over the country," said Mrs. Martin, who volunteered to help wrap gifts and has since taken over the drive. "We get calls from out of state from people who know needy families we could help. We tell them we will try, but that they should try to take care of that family, too."

So far, more than $1,500 in cash has come in, along with several tricycles and bicycles and piles of toys.

"When those trucks pull out of the parking lot, I think I'm gonna break down and cry," Mrs. Martin said.

A woman in Houston read an Associated Press story about Craig's letter and wrote a song for him.

"Don't put prezunts in our sox, Santa."

"Our sox and our shoos ain't got no toze —" the lyrics say.

"I feel so much empathy for the little guy," the woman said in a letter to The AP. "I was a poor kid, too — but never so poor that Santa got totally 'lost' on Christmas."

A Seattle family planned a ski trip for Christmas vacation, but the place they were going had no snow. "So they are using the money to take care of a family themselves," Mrs. Martin said.

With the money that comes in after Christmas, restaurant employees plan to start a forgotten children's fund, to help needy families the year around.

Meanwhile, the search for Craig goes on.

The Seattle Times distributed a letter to Seattle schools, asking teachers to help find Craig.

"One of you must know this boy," it said, "a boy in the first years of school who spells his name 'Criag' sometimes, and who comes from a family without a father or much money.... We would like to see that Craig's presents reach him."

DETROIT (AP) — Pre-Christmas new domestic car sales hit the second fastest rate in history, the nation's auto industry reported Thursday as mid-December sales figures were totaled.

The robust sales for the Dec. 11-20 span, provided the first evidence of the 1977-model year that deliveries in the new year would approach the record levels predicted by car executives.

The four U.S. makers sold 223,556 cars in eight selling days for a daily rate of 27,945, up 33 per cent from a year ago.

Harvester Could Change Rhubarb Industry's Future

It's possible that the development of a mechanical harvester and improved cultural practices could bring a turnaround in the dwindling rhubarb industry.

The harvester will make producing rhubarb much cheaper. Rhubarb growers say that the cost of hand harvesting has become so expensive that if the industry didn't mechanize soon, they would be forced out of the business.

The development of the harvester coupled with improved cultural practices such as growing the plants in hedgerow style, could eventually open up new untapped markets, according to Dale Marshall, ARS-USDA agricultural engineer and designer of the machine.

Marshall said that the consumer-size pack is "by and large and untapped market," and that the recent developments could now make rhubarb more economically feasible to process and to offer on the fresh market.

The harvester, the prototype of which was built by Marshall, was used successfully in June and has since been refined and produced commercially by Wilde Manufacturing, Inc., Bailey.

During a Dec. 2 meeting at Michigan State University, growers from the United States and Canada met to learn more about the development of the machine — the first of its kind.

While Marshall was testing his harvester in Manistee county, a local rhubarb grower, Hugh Bowling, said he'd like to buy one if someone could build it for the second cutting in the fall. The Wilde machine was contacted and they refined and built the machine in less than 11 weeks, according to Bernie Wilde of the company.

Marshall, who has been working with the harvester since early this year, has found that the current cultural practices may reduce the efficiency of the mechanical harvester. Growers currently plant rhubarb in four-foot square patterns for cross cultivation. Marshall feels that planting rhubarb one foot apart in the rows would provide more of a "hedgerow" effect, "something like a corn field," increasing the harvester efficiency and recovery.

During the meeting growers also learned about the possibility of obtaining a rhubarb herbicide label. Dr. Alan Putnam and Dr. Hugh Price said that the industry needs a herbicide for cleaner rhubarb fields, which will lead to harvesting ease and efficiency. Dr. Putnam said to date none has been approved by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), but such a move may be possible in the near future.

The principal of both the prototype machine and the commercially developed machine is the same, except the Wilde machine has a few more refinements and attaches to just about any 60 horsepower tractor. The prototype machine was self-propelled.

The Wilde machine has four hand sorters to remove the leaves not taken out mechanically. Marshall said he believes in time that three of the sorters could eventually be eliminated.

During harvesting at Hugh Bowling's farm this fall with the Wilde machine, about 65 per cent of the crop was successfully harvested. Twenty per cent was not picked up and another 17 per cent was lost.

Bowling said that with harvest costs rising 15 to 20 per cent per year, the $18,000 machine should "quickly" pay for itself. He added that even if the efficiency figure dropped to 50 per cent the purchase would still be worthwhile.

Only a few states are involved in rhubarb production, according to an unofficial survey taken by Marshall. In total, the United States and Canada devote about 1,600 acres to rhubarb which returns less than $2 million. Michigan plants about 200 acres of the crop.

Storage Apples Moving Very Well

There are fewer apples in storage in 1976 compared to last year, and they are moving much faster, according to Fred Hasler, manager of the Michigan Apple Committee.

More than 25 per cent of this year's holdings have already been sold, and the movement of more than 1 million bushels of apples so far this month is considered "the best this year," Hasler said.

"Considering the problems of size and quality that we faced because of dry weather and frosts, this has been a very good year," he added.

Movement of various varieties is considered good, with the exception of Red Delicious, which has been facing stiff competition from the Western producing states.

Most processors have good supplies of apples and are not expected to need more fruit until after the first of the year, according to a Dec. 15 report from the committee. More apples went to processors this year because of the lesser quality of the fruit due to spring frosts and the dry weather late in the growing season.

As of Dec. 15, 1,059,000 bushels have been moved compared to 919,000 at the same time last year. Holdings as of Dec. 15 were 4,480,000 bushels, down from the 5,750,000 bushels held at the same time last year.

Traverse City To Hold Farm Show Feb. 2-3

The Farm and Orchard Show will be held Feb. 2 and 3 at the Park Place Motor Inn, Traverse City, according to the Grand Traverse Fruit Council and the Michigan State Extension service, sponsors of the event.

Plans are now underway for the educational program and banquet, according to Robert Underwood, president of the fruit council. The show was not held last year because of a mixup in scheduling space.

Reporting Service Adds Flowers To Survey List

Bedding plants, snapdragons, plus potted poinsettias, lilies, geraniums, and hydrangea will be surveyed for the first time in Michigan in the Michigan Crop Reporting Service's annual commercial flower and foliage survey.

The service added these crops to its list of roses, chrysanthemums, gladioli, and foliage plants that are already reported in the survey. The number of states in which the survey is conducted will also be expanded. Each crop will be estimated in those states comprising 95 per cent of the U.S. value of sales.

Michigan's production of the crops surveyed in 1975 was $10.8 million, ranking it eighth nationally in flower production. The wholesale price tag for the 22 major producing states was $430 million last year.

WILDE COMPANY HARVESTER: This commercially built rhubarb harvester was used during the fall cutting of rhubarb in a field in Manistee county. The owner, Hugh Bowling, reported that the machine picked up 65 per cent of the crop. He expects it to be well worth the $18,000 cost.

Tobacco Byproduct Could Become New Source Of Food

A high-quality protein byproduct of tobacco whose nutritional value is comparable to milk could become a source of food for humans and animals. Removing the protein from the tobacco leaf also has the added benefit of eliminating the undesirable elements of tobacco smoke.

The key to the removing the protein from tobacco leaves is a process known as homogenized leaf curing (HLC). Originally devised as a means of saving labor and improving tobacco quality, HLC has also made it possible to remove the protein byproduct, called Fraction-1. Protein, along with other potentially useful compounds.

The byproduct is pure, tasteless, odorless and colorless and is stable and easy to store. Its nutritional value is comparable to milk and surpasses that of soybean. It can be manufactured in a gel-like form that looks much like soybean curd, a staple food in many countries.

Dr. T. C. Tso, a United States Department of Agriculture scientist who is working on the project, projects a worldwide tobacco yield of 12.5 billion pounds by 1985, and 20 billion pounds by 2000, with no increase in acreage. Tso said this could provide 750 million pounds of both protein fractions by 1985, and 1.2 billion pounds by 2000 — enough to meet the needs of 33 to 63 million people.

Lozmack Elected ASCS Chairman

George Lozmack of Three Oaks was elected chairman of the Berrien county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee for 1977 at its reorganizational meeting Monday night.

Lozmack, who has held the post of vice chairman for the past three years, replaces Orville Welbaum who was elected third member. Lozmack is a grain and dairy farmer and has served on the board of directors for Producers Creamery, the River Valley school board and the Three Oaks Co-op board.

Robert Barlett of Bainbridge township was elected vice chairman of the committee. He has served as third member for the past four years.

Despite inclement weather, thirty-three ASCS committeemen were on hand for the Monday night meeting held at the Baroda township hall, according to Milton Francis, executive director of the Berrien county ASCS office.

Space Age Technology Coming To Farming?

"A huge machine apparently supported by air, moves silently to the edge of a field. Pausing briefly, it moves on again with barely audible sound. Behind it, leaves precisely spaced seed and time release chemicals which furnish both nutrition and protection against soil-borne pests for emerging plants."

Or this:

Fruit and vegetable crops grown in huge domed greenhouses 24 hours a day in all seasons. Solar energy maintains the greenhouse environment plus energy for other routine needs. Because the greenhouses will be located near all consumer markets, fresh vegetables and small fruit can be delivered daily.

All that and more is what agricultural experts from government, universities and industry are predicting for farming in the 21st century in a report presented to agriculture engineers last week at the annual American Society of Agriculture Engineers winter meeting in Chicago.

The original material for the report was a result of the work of five ad hoc committees and was compiled and reviewed by the staff of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers whose national office is located in St. Joseph.

The futurists' predictions were part of a report titled "Heritage and Horizons," which envisions such space age feats as orbiting satellites that monitor weather conditions, and high-rise food factories where animals are housed in environment-controlled units with complete systems for automatic feed blending and dispensation and for complete wastes handling.

Solar energy will probably become the most widely used energy source on the farmstead for crop drying and for heating buildings, along with power from wind-generated electricity. The scientists also predict that ultraviolet radiation will control air-borne and surface-infesting organisms and may become important as an insect attractant for entomological surveys.

Space stations located outside the earth's atmosphere will be able to collect solar energy and beam it back to receiving stations on earth within the next 100 years if the report, which took a year to complete, is right. In fact, the report said, some of the technology that will produce the machines of the future is now available.

Beneath a field of corn or wheat will be buried a maze of perforated plastic pipe and sensing blocks to relay to a central control tower measurements on soil acidity, oxygen, carbon dioxide and moisture. By setting a few dials, a grower will be able to control the condition of the soil. The perforated pipes will either drain or irrigate while bringing about desired changes in the soil's micro-environment.

The scientists also predict that farmers will no longer buy individual pieces of equipment but entire systems of equipment that will be needed for their operations.

Farm equipment will be controlled by computer tapes and guided by buried wires or sensing devices. One operator will be able to monitor the automated movement of a fleet of field machines from a central tower. The machines will be able to harvest and process one crop as they will simultaneously prepare the seedbed and plant another crop.

"From a rich array of triumphs already achieved by modern agriculture," the report said, "comes added conviction that mankind can, indeed, conquer the shortages of food, feed and fiber that dominate recorded history."

MSU Trustees Approve Funds For New Clarksville Farm

The Michigan State University Board of Trustees has approved $551,697 in funds for fiscal 1977-1978 for initial development of the new MSU research station at Clarksville.

The new research station, which will take over some of the peach research now being conducted at the South Haven Experiment station, is expected to cost more than $1.7 million before it is completed in the early 1980s.

The funds allocated for this year are primarily for blueprints, bulldozing rock piles and fence rows and razing unusable buildings on the 440-acre property, according to Dr. Sylvan Wittwer, director of MSU's Agricultural Experiment Station.

The Clarksville farm was purchased in 1974 to modernize existing capabilities. It is located off I-96, 20 miles east of Grand Rapids in Ionia county.

A manager for the station will also be selected in 1977. Target dates in 1977-1978 have been selected for installation of irrigation and drainage systems and undertaking plot development. Plans for 1978-1980 call for construction and/or remodeling of buildings for the general headquarters, pesticide building and farm shop. Five farm laborers are expected to be hired in 1978, along with purchases of essential farm implements and the establishment of experimental plantings. Finalization of boundary fencing is expected to be completed by 1980.

Cattle Feeder's Course Offered In Lansing

Michigan State University is sponsoring a cattle feeder's short course aimed at improving management skills in feeding, on Jan. 6-7 at Long's Convention center, Lansing.

The first day of the short course features Dr. Don Gill, Oklahoma State University beef specialist, who will discuss management procedures used in high plains commercial feedlots, and marketing for maximum return.

Dr. Mitch Geesler, MSU extension agriculture program director, and Dr. Ray Black, MSU agricultural economist, will discuss what feeders must do to compete in the future.

The second day's session includes Robert Maddex, MSU agricultural engineer, speaking on proper housing systems for Michigan conditions, and Myron Danner, MSU animal husbandry graduate student, discussing how much money should be spent on a housing system.

Harvester Could Change Rhubarb Industry's Future

It's possible that the development of a mechanical harvester and improved cultural practices could bring a turnaround in the dwindling rhubarb industry.

The harvester will make producing rhubarb much cheaper. Rhubarb growers say that the cost of hand harvesting has become so expensive that if the industry didn't mechanize soon, they would be forced out of the business.

The development of the harvester coupled with improved cultural practices such as growing the plants in hedgerow style, could eventually open up new untapped markets, according to Dale Marshall, ARS-USDA agricultural engineer and designer of the machine.

Marshall said that the consumer-size pack is "by and large and untapped market," and that the recent developments could now make rhubarb more economically feasible to process and to offer on the fresh market.

The harvester, the prototype of which was built by Marshall, was used successfully in June and has since been refined and produced commercially by Wilde Manufacturing, Inc., Bailey.

During a Dec. 2 meeting at Michigan State university, growers from the United States and Canada met to learn more about the development of the machine — the first of its kind.

While Marshall was testing his harvester in Manistee county, a local rhubarb grower, Hugh Bowling, said he'd like to buy one if someone could build it for the second cutting in the fall. The Wilde company was contacted and they refined and built the machine in less than 11 weeks, according to Bernie Wilde of the company.

Marshall, who has been working with the harvester since early this year, has found that the current cultural practices may reduce the efficiency of the mechanical harvester. Growers currently plant rhubarb in four-foot square patterns for cross cultivation. Marshall feels that planting rhubarb one foot apart in the rows would provide more of a "hedgerow" effect, "something like a corn field," increasing the harvester efficiency and recovery.

During the meeting growers also learned about the possibility of obtaining a rhubarb herbicide label. Dr. Alan Putnam and Dr. Hugh Price said that the industry needs a herbicide for cleaner rhubarb fields, which will lead to harvesting ease and efficiency. Dr. Putnam said to date none has been approved by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), but such a move may be possible in the near future.

The principal of both the prototype machine and the commercially developed machine is the same, except the Wilde machine has a few more refinements and attaches to just about any 60 horsepower tractor. The prototype machine was self-propelled.

The Wilde machine has four hand sorters to remove the leaves not taken out mechanically. Marshall said he believes in time that three of the sorters could eventually be eliminated.

During harvesting at Hugh Bowling's farm this fall with the Wilde machine, about 65 per cent of the crop was successfully harvested. Twenty per cent was not picked up and another 17 per cent was lost.

Bowling said that with harvest costs rising 15 to 20 per cent per year, the $18,000 machine should "quickly" pay for itself. He added that even if the efficiency figure dropped to 50 per cent the purchase would still be worthwhile.

Only a few states are involved in rhubarb production, according to an unofficial survey taken by Marshall. In total, the United States and Canada devote about 1,660 acres to rhubarb which returns less than $2 million. Michigan plants about 200 acres of the crop.

Storage Apples Moving Very Well

There are fewer apples in storage in 1976 compared to last year, and they are moving much faster, according to Fred Hasler, manager of the Michigan Apple Committee.

More than 25 per cent of this year's holdings have already been sold, and the movement of more than 1 million bushels of apples so far this month is considered "the best this year," Hasler said.

"Considering the problems of size and quality that we faced because of dry weather and freezes, this has been a very good year," he added.

Movement of various varieties is considered good with the exception of Red Delicious, which has been facing stiff competition from the Western producing states.

Most processors have good supplies of apples and are not expected to need more fruit until after the first of the year, according to a Dec. 15 report from the committee. More apples went to processors this year because of the lesser quality of the fruit due to spring frosts and the dry weather late in the growing season.

As of Dec. 15, 1,059,000 bushels have been moved compared to 919,000 at the same time last year. Holdings as of Dec. 15 were 4,480,000 bushels, down from the 5,750,000 bushels held at the same time last year.

Traverse City To Hold Farm Show Feb. 2-3

The Farm and Orchard Show will be held Feb. 2 and 3 at the Park Place Motor Inn, Traverse City, according to the Grand Traverse Fruit Council and the Michigan State Extension service, sponsors of the event.

Plans are now underway for the educational program and banquet, according to Robert Underwood, president of the fruit council. The show was not held last year because of a mixup in scheduling space.

Reporting Service Adds Flowers To Survey List

Bedding plants, snapdragons, plus potted poinsettias, lilies, geraniums, and hydrangea will be surveyed for the first time in Michigan in the Michigan Crop Reporting Service's annual commercial flower and foliage survey.

The service added these crops to its list of roses, chrysanthemums, gladioli, and foliage plants that are already reported in the survey. The number of states in which the survey is conducted will also be expanded. Each crop will be estimated in those states comprising 95 per cent of the U.S. value of sales.

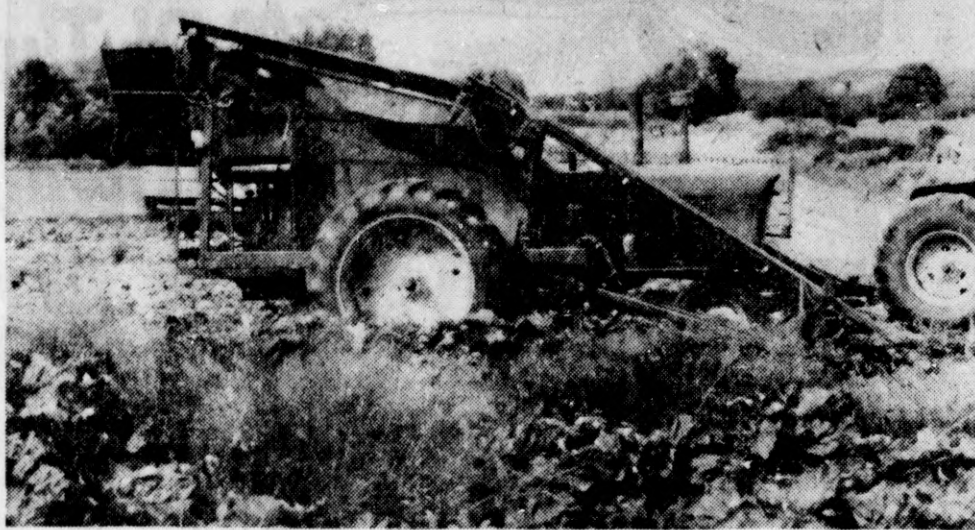

Michigan's production of the crops surveyed in 1975 was $10.8 million, ranking it eighth nationally in flower production. The wholesale price tag for the 22 major producing states was $430 million last year.

WILDE COMPANY HARVESTER: This commercially built rhubarb harvester was used during the fall cutting of rhubarb in a field in Manistee county. The owner, Hugh Bowling, reported that the machine picked up 65 per cent of the crop. He expects it to be well worth the $18,000 cost.

Tobacco Byproduct Could Become New Source Of Food

A high-quality protein byproduct of tobacco whose nutritional value is comparable to milk could become a source of food for humans and animals. Removing the protein from the tobacco leaf also has the added benefit of eliminating the undesirable elements of tobacco smoke.

The key to the removing the protein from tobacco leaves is a process known as homogenized leaf curing (HLC). Originally devised as a means of saving labor and improving tobacco quality, HLC has also made it possible to remove the protein byproduct, called Fraction-I-Protein, along with other potentially useful compounds.

The byproduct is pure, tasteless, odorless and colorless and is stable and easy to store. Its nutritional value is comparable to milk and surpasses that of soybean. It can be manufactured in a gel-like form that looks much like soybean curd, a staple food in many countries.

Dr. T. C. Tso, a United States Department of Agriculture scientist who is working on the project, projects a worldwide tobacco yield of 12.5 billion pounds by 1985, and 20 billion pounds by 2000, with no increase in acreage. Tso said this could provide 750 million pounds of both protein fractions by 1985, and 1.2 billion pounds by 2000 — enough to meet the needs of 33 to 63 million people.

Lozmack Elected ASCS Chairman

George Lozmack of Three Oaks was elected chairman of the Berrien county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee for 1977 at its reorganizational meeting Monday night.

Lozmack, who has held the post of vice chairman for the past three years, replaces Orville Welbaum who was elected third member. Lozmack is a grain and dairy farmer and has served on the board of directors for Producers Creamery, the River Valley school board and the Three Oaks Co-op board.

Robert Barchett of Bainbridge township was elected vice chairman of the committee. He has served as third member for the past four years.

Despite inclement weather, thirty-three ASCS committeemen were on hand for the Monday night meeting held at the Baroda township hall, according to Milton Francis, executive director of the Berrien county ASCS office.

Welfare Information Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has signed a bill requiring employers or former employers of welfare recipients to provide information to the Department of Social Services when requested. It is aimed at making it easier for the agency to investigate welfare fraud. Information that would have to be provided includes dates of employment, hours worked and rate of pay. Another bill requires that counties use general fund money to pay expenses related to a county drain commissioner's office. It also requires voter approval of all drainage projects costing more than $800 per mile.

Wisconsin Firm Buys Ionia Plant

IONIA, Mich. (AP) — Vollrath Corp. of Sheboygan, Wis., announced Thursday acquisition of the Bolla Food Service Products line produced at the General Tire Co. plastics plant in Ionia.

The products include plastic trays, beverage containers and tableware.

Sale price was not disclosed. Frank D'Errico, manager of the Bolla plant, said 90 salaried and hourly rated jobs at the plant will be phased out in the next eight months as the machinery, molds and product inventory are transferred to Sheboygan.

He said the decision by General Tire followed months of evaluation of the product line, its profitability and how it relates to long-range corporate planning.

Newhouse Has Most Booth Stock

NEW YORK (AP) — Publisher S.I. Newhouse has acquired all but 31,946 of the original 7.4 million common shares of Booth Newspapers Inc., his company said Thursday.

The remainder represents less than one-half per cent of the outstanding common stock of the Michigan chain of eight newspapers, according to The Herald Co., one of the Newhouse publishing companies.

Booth also has a controlling interest in Parade Magazine, a national Sunday newspaper supplement. The company said its offer to purchase the shares for $47 each from Booth stockholders will expire at 5 p.m. EDT on Dec. 28, unless further extended.

Newhouse first bought 25.5 per cent of the 7.4 million shares in February. In late October, Booth's directors endorsed his offer for the remainder.

The cost of buying all of the shares is about $305 million, the highest price ever paid for a newspaper property in the United States.

INVESTORS' GUIDE Dollar Investments Not 'Conservative'

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. I am a conservative investor of 30 years who has managed to accumulate about $50,000 in savings accounts and about $5,000 in E bonds. Should I put some into tax-exempt bonds?

A. One of the definitions of a "conservative" is "a cautious or discreet person." And "conservatism" is defined as "a disposition to preserve the established, a tendency to prefer an existing situation to change."

I would call myself a conservative, too. But I must admit that in talking of the U.S. dollar (and other currencies) there is no "tradition" to preserve, no "existing situation" which one can even hope to defend "at all costs."

I must assume you've spent more than a few years accumulating this $55,000. And although I'm no one to look down my nose at $55,000, we must realize that the dollars you put into this fund 10 years ago (and more) are now worth almost 50 per cent less in the consumer market, and will be worth even less when you turn to them for support at retirement — 10 to 15 years hence. I'm not interested in pouring "salt onto your wounds" so much as I want to point out that the word "conservative" doesn't mean much more in finance today than it does in politics. Money is ruled by the economics of the times just as political platforms are adjusted to meet political, economic, domestic and international pressures.

By this time, you must be pretty certain that if I had any 100 per cent solutions, I would have blurted them out at the very start — instead of obfuscating via the dictionary.

The answer, if there is one, is that you can't hide a dollar anywhere and say you are being "conservative" because the policies which have depreciated our dollar over the years have been anything but conservative-oriented.

I think a woman of 30 who is attempting to accumulate funds for her retirement cannot do it in dollars alone. Conservative or no, you will have to take some chances in common stocks — "conservative" issues, of course, but nevertheless subject to changes in the economy, international peace, money rates, agricultural crops (not only in the U.S., but abroad) and so on and on.

Savings are important: E bonds defer income taxes. But neither can be the sole answer in a world which has doubled food and clothing costs in about 10 years, and housing costs in even a shorter period. To keep even with that sort of evaluation you must own something besides dollars. And if you complain, "Yes, but that can be risky," I'll agree.

Whatever funds you don't want to put into equities could, of course, go into high-grade, tax-exempt bonds, coming due about the time you plan to retire. At least you will thereby be protecting yourself from income taxes.

Auditors Say AMC Is Failing

DETROIT (AP) — In an unusual move, "independent auditors for American Motors Corp. have issued a concern about the firm's recent heavy losses and a warning about the continuity of the business."

However, a company spokesman reaffirmed the automaker's forecast for an improved performance in 1977. The small-car specialist, caught in a severe auto sales slump, has lost $74 million in the last two fiscal years.

The accounting firm Touche Ross & Co., which also is the auditor for Chrysler Corp., drew attention to AMC's financial problems in a certificate attached to AMC's annual report for fiscal 1976, ended Sept. 30. The report was issued on Thursday.

Antismog Advocate Gives Up On Rules

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California antismog chief Tom Quinn, long an advocate of strict standards for auto emissions, said Thursday the proposed 1978 federal auto standards would cause "economic catastrophe."

In a public letter to congressional authors of clean air legislation and to California's congressional delegation, Quinn said the federal government should instead adopt California's emissions standards.

Those standards are more stringent than the current federal limits but allow more carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxide emissions than nationwide standards scheduled to take effect next year, if Congress doesn't delay them. "We are forced to agree with the auto makers that imposition of the statutory standards for 1978 is just not practical," said Quinn, appointed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. as chairman of the state Air Resources Board.

Those standards would "make it impossible for most manufacturers to sell cars that year," Quinn said.

Although two foreign auto makers, Volvo and Honda, have developed cars that reportedly can meet the 1978 standards, Quinn said he has reluctantly concluded others can't duplicate the achievement for perhaps another three or four years.

He blamed a "lack of commitment on the part of most manufacturers," but said the Environmental Protection Agency, by delaying tough interim standards, "let them believe that the law would be changed."

Current federal emissions standards, per mile traveled, are 1.5 grams of hydrocarbons, 15 grams of carbon monoxide, and 2 grams of nitrogen oxide.

The proposed 1978 standards are 0.41 grams of hydrocarbons, 3.4 grams of carbon monoxide, and 0.4 grams of nitrogen oxide. California's 1977 standards match the federal hydrocarbon requirement but allow 9 grams of carbon monoxide and 1.5 grams of nitrogen oxide. The ARB says at least some models of all cars can meet the standards, though they get a few miles less per gallon than cars elsewhere.

If auto makers can prove that they can't even meet the 1977 California standards, Quinn said, Congress should adopt the state's 1975-76 standards of 0.9 grams of hydrocarbons, 9 grams of carbon monoxide and 2 grams of nitrogen oxide.

In any case, Congress should not give in to the manufacturers' demands to maintain the current emissions standards, Quinn said.

Newhouse Has Most Booth Stock

NEW YORK (AP) — Publisher S.I. Newhouse has acquired all but 31,946 of the original 7.4 million common shares of Booth Newspapers Inc., his company said Thursday.

The remainder represents less than one-half per cent of the outstanding common stock of the Michigan chain of eight newspapers, according to The Herald Co., one of the Newhouse publishing companies.

Booth also has a controlling interest in Parade Magazine, a national Sunday newspaper supplement. The company said its offer to purchase the shares for $47 each from Booth stockholders will expire at 3 p.m. EDT on Dec. 28, unless further extended.

Newhouse first bought 25.5 per cent of the 7.4 million shares in February. In late October, Booth's directors endorsed his offer for the remainder.

The cost of buying all of the shares is about $305 million, the highest price ever paid for a newspaper property in the United States.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Dollar Investments Not 'Conservative'

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. I am a conservative female of 50 years who has managed to accumulate about $50,000 in savings accounts and about $35,000 in E bonds. Should I put some into tax-exempt bonds?

A. One of the definitions of a "conservative" is "a cautious or discreet person." And "conservatism" is defined as "a disposition to preserve the established, a tendency to prefer an existing situation to change."

I must assume you've spent more than a few years accumulating this $85,000. And although I'm no one to look down my nose at $85,000, we must realize that the dollars you put into this fund 10 years ago (and more) are now worth almost 50 per cent less in the consumer market, and will be worth even less when you turn to them for support at retirement — 10 to 15 years hence. I'm not interested in pouring "salt onto your wounds" so much as I want to point out that the word "conservative" doesn't mean much more in finance today than it does in politics. Money is ruled by the economics of the times just as political platforms are adjusted to meet political, economic, domestic and international pressures.

By this time, you must be pretty certain that if I had any 100 per cent solutions, I would have blurted them out at the very start — instead of obfuscating via the dictionary.

The answer, if there is one, is that you can't hide a dollar anywhere and say you are being "conservative" because the policies which have depreciated our dollar over the years have been anything but conservative-oriented.

I think a woman of 50 who is attempting to accumulate funds for her retirement cannot do it in dollars alone. Conservative or no, you will have to take some chances in common stocks — "conservative" issues, of course, but nevertheless subject to changes in the economy, international peace, money rates, agricultural crops (not only in the U.S., but abroad) and so on and on.

Savings are important: E bonds defer income taxes. But neither can be the sole answer in a world which has doubled food and clothing costs in about 10 years, and housing costs in even a shorter period. To keep even with that sort of evaluation you must own something besides dollars. And if you complain, "Yes, but that can be risky," I'll agree.

Whatever funds you don't want to put into equities could, of course, go into high-grade, tax-exempt bonds, coming due about the time you plan to retire. At least you will thereby be protecting yourself from income taxes.

Shulsky welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column. For information on corporate and tax-exempt bonds, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address your requests to Sam Shulsky, care of this newspaper.

Antismog Advocate Gives Up On Rules

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California antismog chief Tom Quinn, long an advocate of strict standards for auto emissions, said Thursday the proposed 1978 federal auto standards would cause "economic catastrophe."

In a public letter to congressional authors of clean air legislation and to California's congressional delegation, Quinn said the federal government should instead adopt California's emissions standards.

Those standards are more stringent than the current federal limits but allow more carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxide emissions than nationwide standards scheduled to take effect next year, if Congress doesn't delay them.

"We are forced to agree with the auto makers that imposition of the statutory standards for 1978 is just not practical," said Quinn, appointed by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. as chairman of the state Air Resources Board.

Those standards would "make it impossible for most manufacturers to sell cars that year," Quinn said.

Although two foreign auto makers, Volvo and Honda, have developed cars that reportedly can meet the 1978 standards, Quinn said he has reluctantly concluded others can't duplicate the achievement for perhaps another three or four years.

He blamed a "lack of commitment on the part of most manufacturers," but said the Environmental Protection Agency, by delaying tough interim standards, "led them to believe that the law would be changed."

Current federal emissions standards, per mile traveled, are 1.5 grams of hydrocarbons, 15 grams of carbon monoxide, and 2 grams of nitrogen oxide.

The proposed 1978 standards are 0.41 grams of hydrocarbons, 3.4 grams of carbon monoxide, and 0.4 grams of nitrogen oxide.

California's 1977 standards match the federal hydrocarbon requirement but allow 9 grams of carbon monoxide and 1.5 grams of nitrogen oxide. The ARB says at least some models of all cars can meet the standards, though they get a few miles less per gallon than cars elsewhere.

If auto makers can prove that they can't even meet the 1977 California standards, Quinn said, Congress should adopt the state's 1975-76 standards of 0.9 grams of hydrocarbons, 9 grams of carbon monoxide and 2 grams of nitrogen oxide.

In any case, Congress should not give in to the manufacturers' demands to maintain the current emissions standards, Quinn said.

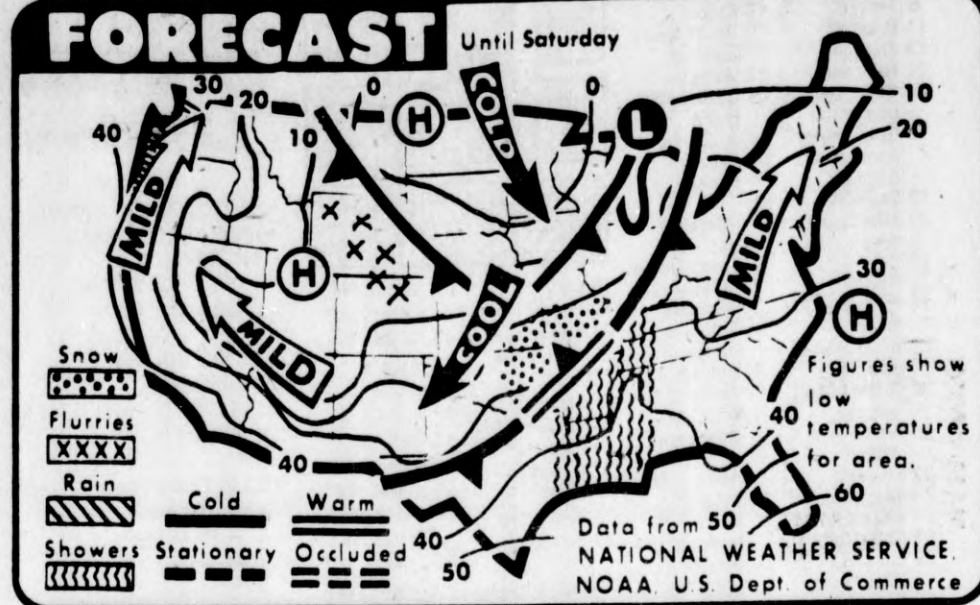

UAW May Pick New Target

DETROIT (AP) — Bolstered by its first successful organizing effort at a new General Motors plant in the South, the United Auto Workers may next turn its attention to an Alabama component plant.

Workers at GM's Guide headlamp plant in Monroe, La., voted 323-280 Wednesday to make the UAW their bargaining agent. The election was the first under a neutrality pledge the union exacted from the giant automaker during contract negotiations last month.

BRIDGMAN Country Club Sues Two Accused Men

Bridgman country club has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court seeking restitution plus punitive damages from two men accused of burglarizing the club and return of $569 confiscated by Michigan State police as evidence.

Restitution of $2,107.45 and damages of $8,300 are sought from Ronald Lard, Mishawaka, Ind., and Timothy Hanover, New Troy. Lard and Hanover and a third man, not named a defendant in the civil case, were charged with burglary and safe cracking (damaging a safe with intent to commit larceny) Sept. 9 at the country club, according to Circuit-court records. A safe, containing $2,500 cash, was reported stolen.

The suit claims $569 from the burglary was recovered by state police. Since Lard is awaiting trial on the charges, Chief Asst. Prosecutor Jeffrey Long said the cash is evidence in the case. It won't be returned until the case is disposed of, said Long.

The suit asks the court to order the state police to return the $569 to the club and any other club property confiscated in connection with the case.

Hanover is awaiting sentencing on the burglary charge, and he's pleaded innocent to safe cracking, according to court records.

Court records also show that a third defendant, Robert Vines of Three Oaks, pleaded guilty to burglary and was sentenced to two years probation. The safe cracking charge was dismissed. The civil suit states that Vines has returned $1,192.55 of the money taken from the club. Vines is not named as a defendant in the civil suit.

Skis, stereo equipment and a gun were among loot in four thefts reported Thursday to police in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph and Berrien sheriff's deputies. Berrien deputies said Rick Gillespie, 204 Lake View avenue, St. Joseph, reported a pair of skis and bindings, valued at $250, were stolen from a rack outside the Royal Valley Ski Lodge, Main street road, Buchanan, township. Ford Hurt In Fall

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford, limping from a skiing injury, plans to celebrate Christmas by attending midnight services tonight and will carry on a gift-exchanging tradition with his family on Christmas morning. Ford remained off the ski slopes on Thursday, and there were two different versions about why. Reporters noticed that Ford was limping Thursday and asked his press secretary, Ron Nessen, if Ford had taken a fall. Nessen, who was irate last Christmas over suggestions that Ford might take more than his share of falls on the ski slopes, replied that his boss was limping because he had aggravated an old knee injury.

Fukuda Wins Easily

TOKYO (AP) — 71-year-old Takeo Fukuda, a conservative economic expert and new leader of the Liberal-Democratic party, was easily elected prime minister of Japan today.

The parliament vote came one day after Fukuda was named party president by acclamation. He succeeds Takeo Miki, who resigned to take responsibility for the poor showing of the Liberal-Democratic party (LDP) in lower house elections Dec. 3. Fukuda, whose long quest for the prime minister's job led one Tokyo newspaper to call him the LDP's "perennial crown prince," smiled broadly and shook hands as he accepted the congratulations of his supporters in the Diet (parliament).

Cease-Fire In Philippines

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos ordered an immediate cease-fire today in the fighting against Muslim guerrillas in the southern Philippines. "It has been decided that the cease-fire, as well as the cessation of all military operations in the southern Philippines, take place effective Friday, Dec. 24," Marcos said in a nationally televised meeting with military commanders, security advisers and cabinet members. Government sources said a possible peace agreement with the Muslim rebels was discussed in a closed-door meeting before the televised coverage. Representatives of the two sides met for nine days in Tripoli, Libya, this month to discuss an end to the four-year-old war in the southern islands.

ASK THEM YOURSELF

Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR BENNY GOODMAN, clarinetist

As a music great, do you ever go to rock concerts, and, if so, what do you think of them?—H.D., Hamilton, Ohio

● I once went to a Rolling Stones concert but had no idea of what was going on. There seemed to be so much commotion on stage that wasn't related to music. Mick Jagger is probably to rock what Pavlova was to ballet, but no one seemed to be paying attention. I doubt the audience could hear the music; it was so drowned out and distorted by the amplification. All in all, I can't say I'm in love with electronic sounds, but since I'm in the business, I feel I must make an effort to understand them.

FOR JEANE DIXON, astrologer

If you foresaw a tragedy in your life or in that of a member of your family, what would you do?—John Hampton, Fort Arthur, Texas

● I'd react just the way I do when I see misfortune in the future of anyone else. I believe in the old saying, "Forewarned is forearmed." The reason we're given premonitions of danger is so that we can use our intelligence to avoid it. And what we can't avoid, we must learn to accept as God's will for us.

FOR JULIUS FAST, author of The Pleasure Book

Why do some people feel guilty if they enjoy themselves?—S.S., Medford, Oreg.

● Society and a puritanical upbringing might be the cause. From the cradle, we're fed the proverb, "The Devil finds work for idle hands," and we're convinced that if we don't spend our time doing something profitable, we're doing something wrong. In other words, enjoyment is virtually a sin. Once one is aware of the guilt, one is on the way to overcoming it and getting some fun out of life.

FOR BARRY MANLOW, pop singer and composer

Do you still write commercials?—J.M., Alliance, Ohio

● Before my records made an impact, I participated in creating a few dozen jingles, had a great time and learned enough to enable me to move on. I don't know why, but I've recently been credited with turning out just about every jingle ever written. And if one more person tells me I'm the one who wrote that MacDonald's one, I won't be responsible for what I'll do with my next Big Mac.

FOR PHYLLIS DILLER, comedienne

What was your biggest professional disappointment?—P.L., Little Rock, Ark.

● The failure of both my TV series. And the knowledge that I was to blame. I did not work hard enough or pay sufficient attention to the many details that make up a show.

FOR ELIZABETH POST, etiquette expert

Am a teenager who's constantly told manners were different when my parents were my age. Are they right?—B.G., Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

● Yes, and the biggest difference is the way our young treat our old. It's deplorable! In this country, there isn't the respect that's found in Europe. Youngsters can't get it into their heads that those a generation or two ahead of them have much to contribute due to their experience and knowledge.

FOR GUY LOMBARDO, "Mr. New Year's Eve"

What musical training did you and your brothers have?—L.S.H., Las Cruces, N.M.

● I began to study music about the same time I started to walk. While we were in grammar school, Carmen, Lebert and I formed a band. From school dances we worked our way up to church socials. Our first big break was an appearance on a local Cleveland radio show. I've learned a lot about music over the years—except how to dance to it. The only way I can get around the floor is with a push—and a prayer.

FOR LORETTA LYNN, country singer

Do you believe in reincarnation?—D.B., Casper, Wyo.

● Yes. Once I tested something I'd read, which said that with concentration you could re-live a past life. After letting my mind drift for a while, I saw myself as an Indian woman. I was near an Indian on horseback, and something told me he was my husband and chief of the tribe. I saw myself saying good-bye as he went off into battle. A few minutes later, there was a shot, and my "husband" toppled off his horse. I screamed, and the noise jolted me out of my trance.

FOR JACK CARTER, comedian

You've been around a long time, and I'm wondering why your career hasn't advanced further?—T.J., Dover, Del.

● My rotten personality has been a big deterrent. I'm a manic-depressive, live on the brink of destruction and have a sullen, hangdog look. In this business you have to be a walking smile machine and pleasant to everyone. I'm not. That's why I'm not the big name I should have been.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

When I make a New Year's resolution, I always wonder about what celebrities decide. Do you know?—P.E., Flint, Mich.

● Opera star Beverly Sills always makes the same one: "This year I want to spend more time with my family." Jerry Lewis, soon to make his Broadway debut in Helzapoppin' says: "I resolve never to do anything that isn't perfect. That means no smoking, drinking, women, candy or golf. Just hard work. That way, I'll earn enough money to pay for my funeral, but I'll have died of boredom." Art Buchwald, the tongue-in-cheek columnist: "I'm with Jimmy Carter. I will not lust for any woman in my heart in 1977." Actress Deborah Raffin: "My resolve: to improve my backhand in tennis."

HAVE WE HAD A YEAR! AND DID WE NEED IT!

It couldn't have come at a better time, our Bicentennial, and all over the country we not only celebrated but also rededicated ourselves to the ideals we were founded on.

By Harriet Van Horne

As a nation, we have had some vintage years. But will any linger as proudly in the memory as 1976?

We took the measure of our spirit during this Bicentennial year. And we found it good.

We emerge from our 200th anniversary with a new sense of identity. We are—let's hear ruffles and flourishes—the world's oldest democracy. Our Constitution has been the model for all emerging nations aspiring to breathe free. We are one of a half-dozen countries on this planet that still enjoys freedom of the press and free elections.

As the Bible says of Man we may say of our country: "We are fearfully and wonderfully made!"

We are not perfect, but come what may, we have been blessed.

Thanks to the Bicentennial, some of us now have a deeper awareness of our brave and bloody origins. Some of us know, for the first time, the names of the men who pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor that the United States of America might come to birth—and endure.

In an almost mystical way, we needed this Bicentennial. Our pride—still raw from Vietnam and Watergate —needed a healing touch. It was time we believed in our own decency again. It was time we stirred our roots, time we took a long look at our own good earth.

"History, by apprising us of the past," wrote Thomas Jefferson, "enables us to judge of the future."

Reaching our 200th year reminded Americans of how blessed it is to continue. That is, to maintain the traditions, to honor the Founding Fathers, and to hold back the barbarians that always lurk at the gates of civilized society.

It all came to a grand climax—our pride, our love, our vigor and style—in the Fourth of July celebrations, coast to coast. Was there ever such a day?

There were the tall sailing ships of 30 nations sparkling in New York Harbor. There were relays of marathon runners, carrying the torch of liberty through the 50 states. There was a horse race down the main street of Lexington, Kentucky. There were sunrise services at a wagon encampment on the battleground at Valley Forge.

And somewhere, out in space, there roared a U.S. rocket, poised to land on Mars. Man's first serious venture beyond the moon. A Bicentennial event beyond the imagination of the Founding Fathers.

Try as we would, some of us could not remain cool and dry-eyed about this 200th Fourth of July. We were suddenly awash in emotions we never expected to feel.

Fastidious Americans who have deplored the noisy patriotism of "flag wavers," now discovered the depth of their own patriotism. It was, as some poet has said, "too deep for sound or foam." We cried over this Fourth of July precisely as one cries at christenings, graduations and weddings. Out of love. We heard America singing! We heard the street jazz in New Orleans, watched the Indian powwow in Oklahoma and saw President Ford land on the deck of the Forrester. We watched all these happenings together, as a family.

Sadly, though, there were some profiteers among the revelers on the Fourth. They sold novelty toys that broke in five minutes. They peddled standing room on piers and rooftops for five dollars and orange-tinted water for one dollar a cup. Where crowds

Were some time-warped to restore the Founding Fathers to us, would they look upon us, their progeny, with pride?

If you are fairly prosperous, if you are moderately educated, if you have glimpsed the dream of the men that begat us, then you could well say to Washington, Jefferson, Madison and Adams—"Look, the dream came true!" But for millions of your fellow citizens, the dream is impossible because even with all the joy we've experienced, there are still unsolved problems.

Our greatest shame is our poverty and ignorance. Through general education, Jefferson saw "a prospect of great advancement in the happiness of the human race." It would wound him to learn that 20 percent of us, in this land of compulsory free schooling, is illiterate.

No matter how sweetly this Bicentennial year lives on in our minds, it cannot gloss over the grim poverty of 30 million despairing citizens. We put out more flags, we marched and sang and sent forth a Freedom Train bearing a Howdy-Doody doll, an electric chair and President Ford's Bible.

We showed the world the very best of America on the Fourth of July—but we went on hiding the worst from ourselves. In that 16-hour television marathon, we saw the essence of America's goodness. We saw nothing of slums, migrant workers' shacks, prisons or the porn merchants in our decaying cities.

Looking back down the years, it may fairly be said that we have wasted much of our natural resources in riotous living.

Even so, we're still on the threshold of a new era—perhaps even a new revolution. If so, we'll do better with our new revolution if we carefully study the lessons of the old. We have come a long journey, we are renewed in spirit, but there is much to be done.

Across the years John Adams shakes his quill at us, "Posterity! You will never know how much it cost the present generation to preserve your freedom. I hope you will make good use of it. If you do not, I shall repent in heaven that I ever took half the pains to preserve it."

Reliving this Bicentennial year in memory, I am reminded of the refugees who came here as "displaced persons" after the last war. How moved they were, how eager to be Americans—and how they shamed us for years for never hanging out the flag, never prizing our freedom, never caring enough!

Well, we are not so uncaring anymore. The Bicentennial year has brought us a new awareness of who we are—and what blessings we enjoy. Blessings upon 1976! Set it among the high tides of the calendar.

It was a very good year.

HAVE WE HAD A YEAR! AND DID WE NEED IT!

It couldn't have come at a better time, our Bicentennial, and all over the country we not only celebrated but also rededicated ourselves to the ideals we were founded on.

By Harriet Van Horne

As a nation, we have had some vintage years. But will any linger as proudly in the memory as 1976?

We took the measure of our spirit during this Bicentennial year. And we found it good.

We emerge from our 200th anniversary with a new sense of identity. We are—let's hear ruffles and flourishes—the world's oldest democracy. Our Constitution has been the model for all emerging nations aspiring to breathe free. We are one of a half-dozen countries on this planet that still enjoys freedom of the press and free elections.

As the Bible says of Man we may say of our country: "We are fearfully and wonderfully made!"

We are not perfect, but come what may, we have been blessed.

WHAT MAKES A HAPPY CHRISTMAS? TWO TALES OF GIVING AND GETTING

By Sloan Wilson

New that Christmas is over, I can't help remembering a very different one many years ago when I had first written The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit. We had recently moved to a rich suburb outside of New York City, and apparently the custom there that year was for the many affluent neighbors to give expensive gifts to the children of their friends and acquaintances. Business connections added to the presents, as did people who wanted to become business connections, such as insurance salesmen and stockbrokers.

The mountain started to build up about ten days before Christmas. And as Christmas grew nearer, it grew with increasing speed. Long boxes wrapped in gold paper, big square boxes in red-and-white stripes, little expensive-looking boxes all silver-colored—thousands arrived by mail and by special messenger. Most were addressed to my three children, and they soon formed a wall around the Christmas tree so high that the star of Bethlehem at the top threatened to disappear. Tags tied to the ribbons identified the givers of these presents. Most of the names were totally unfamiliar to me.

Ours was not the only house with a mountain of presents. The many successful actors, producers, advertising executives and broadcasters who lived nearby were assembling whole ranges of mountains with foothills. Some of them even had Christmas trees two stories high which had been decorated by professionals. I had never known there was such a thing as a professional Christmas tree decorator.

Our three children, then seven, nine and 10, did not pay much attention to all this. In the past they had made a joke of looking in closets to locate hidden presents, but this mountain of gaudily wrapped boxes right out in the open defied speculation. On Christmas morning, however, the children were, as usual, up at dawn. They threw themselves against the gifts like soldiers against an enemy rampart. Shreds of brilliantly colored paper flew in every direction. As their excitement increased, I could think only of sharks in a killing frenzy. When I finally insisted on calling a halt and putting the rest of the presents in the attic until we could

That Christmas had another surprise for us: In the afternoon, the wives of our friends stopped by to show us the gifts they had received from their husbands. A white convertible, a diamond bracelet, a mink coat—all were proudly exhibited. Since I had not progressed beyond the stage of giving my wife a dressing gown, a pop-up toaster and a bottle of perfume from the local pharmacy, I found this display of the generosity of other men unnerve.

"What did you get?" our friends asked my wife.

"Oh, it hasn't come yet!" I blurted out. "It's a surprise, but it will have to be late."

I never like to lie, but how can one allow one's wife to compare a pop-up toaster to a convertible?

All that was a long-time ago. Now, instead of living in one of the wealthiest counties in New York State, I live in one of the poorest and most beautiful. In our village of Ticonderoga, in the foothills of the Adirondacks, we have an old farmhouse. My youngest daughter, Jessica, is about the age my eldest was 20 years ago, when the children charged the mountain of presents.

Jessica lives a very different kind of life. Here there are no professional decorators of Christmas trees. In fact, Ticonderoga is one of the last places where a Christmas tree still is a do-it-yourself project, beginning with an ax. A forest of Christmas trees surrounds us, and all you need do is get permission from a friendly farmer to cut one.

Like many people, we make our own decorations. I started this when Jessica bit into a glass ball that lacerated her lips. The next year, all the decorations on our tree were edible. Gingerbread men, strings of popcorn and cranberries, candy canes, apples and oranges—nothing a child could not touch. The success was so great that we have recreated it each year, even though Jessica is well past the stage where she finds danger in glass balls.

Gone, too, is the mountain of presents. In Ticonderoga, fortunately, friends rarely give presents to the children of friends. Everything under our tree came from members of the family. Many of the gifts were handmade. Jessica, for instance, made paperweights and pen stands in which she embedded fall leaves, the feather from the wing of a blue jay and an Indian arrowhead. My wife measured my old sweaters and knitted very fast when I wasn't looking.

Throughout most of the Christmas vacation, the many hills surrounding our mountain village are thronged by children trying out their new skis and sleds. A new sled or a pair of skis is considered a very big present around here, something to be treasured and passed on to younger brothers and sisters. A child who received a big present like a sled would not ordinarily expect something else, except, perhaps, a few trinkets in a stocking. Judging from the merriment of the children on the slopes, the happiness of Christmas obviously does not depend on the quantity or quality of the gifts. If they had a whole mountain of presents, those youngsters could not be as happy.

As in an old New England village, much of the social life revolves around the churches. Most of them have festive suppers during the holiday season. The Baptist church, for example, has an especially active program for children; it even ran a bus to a town 50 miles away which has an indoor swimming pool, and it has a group that sings carols. As the kids go from church supper to church supper, from one group of carol singers to another, I think they begin to believe that they belong to all the churches.

It's all so different from that experience so many years ago. So much more real. So much more full of what we used to call Christmas spirit. And, yes, so much more meaningful.

Sloan Wilson, a frequent contributor to FAMILY WEEKLY, is the author of The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit, a Summer Place and other best sellers. His most recent book, What Shall We Wear to This Party? an autobiography, was published to outstanding reviews earlier this year by Arbor Press.

Carter's horoscope states "peanuts to presidency" his only possible fate

By Tom Kennedy

It was harvest time in Georgia when little Jimmy Carter was born. His home was typical of the poor, southern farmer who knew only kerosene light, well water, outdoor plumbing and work. And before many more harvests went by, Jimmy Carter was helping in the family's little farm store and tending the peanut fields. But his horoscope makes it clear as a Georgia morning that he was destined for more than just peanuts.

Carter's horoscope indicates a man with great self-confidence. Proof of this is Mr. Carter's complete confidence that he will be president. Why is he so sure? His horoscope indicates that after his religious experience in the middle 60's, he would change from "tiller of the land" to "leader of the land." Strong planetary patterns emerging for him in 1976 back up his belief.

Comparisons of Jimmy Carter's horoscope with those of other presidents show that he has many characteristics and interests in common with other presidents. Like Abraham Lincoln, Carter's horoscope indicates poverty in early life, great honesty and sincerity. Both began their lives as poor country boys.

Both George Washington's and Carter's horoscopes show a closeness to the land. Both were farmers. Similar placements in Harry Truman's and Carter's horoscopes indicate strong family ties and a great bond with their partner. Here again, both men relied on their wives as their chief advisor and enjoyed long marriages.

Even more dramatic is a comparison of Carter's horoscope with the late President Kennedy's. Both show an affinity for water. John Kennedy was a PT boat captain in World War II, while Jimmy Carter was an officer aboard a nuclear submarine. Great charisma was pointed out in both horoscopes and Carter certainly does have that Kennedy charm about him.

Analysis of Jimmy Carter's natal horoscope shows a strong man who can cope with large issues. It indicates optimism, breadth of vision and an analytical approach to problems. His horoscope not only predicts that he will be our next president, but shows that he has all the qualifications to be a great president.

Jimmy Carter was not aware that we had in-

ASTROLOGY AFFECTS US ALL

Because you were born, you yourself have a unique natal horoscope, different from all others. I'll show you what it can mean to you by using celebrities for my examples.

Your natal horoscope can help you discover your hidden talents and give you the confidence to use them. Robert Redford was once a starving artist begging on the streets of Paris. His horoscope clearly indicates his acting ability. Fortunately, he discovered this hidden talent in time.

Your horoscope can advance your career and bring you wealth. There was a time in the life of Barbara Walters that she couldn't afford a lipstick even though her horoscope indicates great wealth. Also, Jupiter's influence in her chart makes her somewhat of a gambler. She made it pay off by making a change from NBC to ABC and a multi-million dollar position.

Your horoscope can bring you love and romance. Several years ago, producer John Foreman unintentionally invited both Robert Wagner and Natalie Wood to his party. They hadn't seen each other since their split nine years before. But in making a comparison of their charts, it was found that an aspect in Natalie's chart indicated that a chance meeting would renew an old love. Of course, Bob and Natalie were remarried in July of 1972 and have been blessed with their first child.

Your horoscope can help you stay in good health. Midnight recently published a story about a New York doctor who claims astrology saved the life of one of his patients and has helped countless others back on the road to health. The doctor says, "astrological evaluations are more beneficial than a whole battery of psychological tests."

THE TRUTH ABOUT ASTROLOGY

How does your natal horoscope work? An astrologer will chart the positions of the sun, moon, and eight planets as they appear above your place of birth at your exact time of birth. The placements and angular relationships of these bodies make up your natal chart. This means that someone born at the exact same time as you, but in a different city, will have a different chart.

The written interpretation and analysis of your natal chart is called your natal horoscope. Astrology is not fortune telling and your horoscope does not cause things to happen to you. Your horoscope analyzes your personality and then tells you what things are most likely to happen to you. But remember, your free will can override events in your life if you put your mind to it.

As you've seen from the examples I've given you, some of the most famous people used their horoscope to reach success, but in other instances ignored it and faced failure. There are thousands of different ways to achieve wealth, love, success and happiness.

A good example is Gary Dahl who made one million dollars in 90 days with his "Pet Rock" craze. Many people considered him odd, but this venture brought him wealth, success and happiness.

Each and everyone of us is good at something no matter how odd one's talents may seem to others. Your horoscope will tell you what you're good at. So why beat your brains out on an area that you're not talented in, when an equal amount of time spent on something you're good at would put you much farther ahead. Not only will you get ahead, but you'll be relaxed and happy while you're doing it.

Your horoscope will give you a comprehensive analysis of your personality. It will point out your strengths and show you how to utilize them. It will also discuss your weaker areas and allow you to compensate for them.

Because your natal horoscope is such a sophisticated analysis of your personality, it will challenge your subconscious mind to seek out your hidden talents. These are the areas where you thought you had talent (writing, E.S.P., sex appeal, public relations, athletics, etc.) but were afraid to try. If you've been waiting for someone to give you a little push, let your horoscope be that someone. It will give you the confidence

ASTROLOGY PREDICTS VICTORY!
Carter's horoscope showed that from birth his destiny was the presidency. An exact reprint of prediction made on July 1, 1976 is given below.

Millions of words have been written about Jimmy Carter. But, you won't know the "real" Jimmy Carter until you've read about his horoscope.

to start using your hidden talents.

Summed up, your natal horoscope will discuss your personality, love life, career, finances, and health. It will help you understand and accept yourself for what you are. It will then show you where your talents lie and set you on a course of self-improvement, self-fulfillment, and true happiness.

Carter's horoscope states "peanuts to presidency" his only possible fate

By Tom Kennedy

It was harvest time in Georgia when little Jimmy Carter was born. His home was typical of the poor, southern farmer who knew only kerosene light, well water, outdoor plumbing and work. And before many more harvests went by, Jimmy Carter was helping in the family's little farm store and tending the peanut fields. But his horoscope makes it clear as a Georgia morning that he was destined for more than just peanuts.

Carter's horoscope indicates a man with great self-confidence. Proof of this is Mr. Carter's complete confidence that he will be president. Why is he so sure? His horoscope indicates that after his religious experience in the middle 60's, he would change from "tiller of the land" to "leader of the land." Strong planetary patterns emerging for him in 1976 back up his belief.

Comparisons of Jimmy Carter's horoscope with those of other presidents show that he has many characteristics and interests in common with other presidents. Like Abraham Lincoln, Carter's horoscope indicates poverty in early life, great honesty and sincerity. Both began their lives as poor country boys.

Both George Washington's and Carter's horoscopes show a closeness to the land. Both were farmers. Similar placements in Harry Truman's and Carter's horoscopes indicate strong family ties and a great bond with their partner. Here again, both men relied on their wives as their chief advisor and enjoyed long marriages.

Even more dramatic is a comparison of Carter's horoscope with the late President Kennedy's. Both show an affinity for water. John Kennedy was a PT boat captain in World War II, while Jimmy Carter was an officer aboard a nuclear submarine. Great charisma was pointed out in both horoscopes and Carter certainly does have that Kennedy charm about him.

Analysis of Jimmy Carter's natal horoscope shows a strong man who can cope with large issues. It indicates optimism, breadth of vision and an analytical approach to problems. His horoscope not only predicts that he will be our next president, but shows that he has all the qualifications to be a great president.

Jimmy Carter was not aware that we had in-

ASTROLOGY AFFECTS US ALL

Because you were born, you yourself have a unique natal horoscope, different from all others. I'll show you what it can mean to you by using celebrities for my examples.

Your natal horoscope can help you discover your hidden talents and give you the confidence to use them. Robert Redford was once a starving artist begging on the streets of Paris. His horoscope clearly indicates his acting ability. Fortunately, he discovered this hidden talent in time.

Your horoscope can advance your career and bring you wealth. There was a time in the life of Barbara Walters that she couldn't afford a lipstick even though her horoscope indicates great wealth. Also, Jupiter's influence in her chart makes her somewhat of a gambler. She made it pay off by making a change from NBC to ABC and a multi-million dollar position.

Your horoscope can bring you love and romance. Several years ago, producer John Foreman unintentionally invited both Robert Wagner and Natalie Wood to his party. They hadn't seen each other since their split nine years before. But in making a comparison of their charts, it was found that an aspect in Natalie's chart indicated that a chance meeting would renew an old love. Of course, Bob and Natalie were remarried in July of 1972 and have been blessed with their first child.

Your horoscope can help you stay in good health. Midnight recently published a story about a New York doctor who claims astrology saved the life of one of his patients and has helped countless others back on the road to health. The doctor says, "astrological evaluations are more beneficial than a whole battery of psychological tests."

THE TRUTH ABOUT ASTROLOGY

How does your natal horoscope work? An astrologer will chart the positions of the sun, moon, and eight planets as they appear above your place of birth at your exact time of birth. The placements and angular relationships of these bodies make up your natal chart. This means that someone born at the exact same time as you, but in a different city, will have a different chart.

The written interpretation and analysis of your natal chart is called your natal horoscope. Astrology is not fortune telling and your horoscope does not cause things to happen to you. Your horoscope analyzes your personality and then tells you what things are most likely to happen to you. But remember, your free will can override events in your life if you put your mind to it.

As you've seen from the examples I've given you, some of the most famous people used their horoscope to reach success, but in other instances ignored it and faced failure. There are thousands of different ways to achieve wealth, love, success and happiness.

A good example is Gary Dahl who made one million dollars in 90 days with his "Pet Rock" craze. Many people considered him odd, but this venture brought him wealth, success and happiness.

Each and everyone of us is good at something no matter how odd one's talents may seem to others. Your horoscope will tell you what you're good at. So why beat your brains out on an area that you're not talented in, when an equal amount of time spent on something you're good at would put you much farther ahead. Not only will you get ahead, but you'll be relaxed and happy while you're doing it.

Your horoscope will give you a comprehensive analysis of your personality. It will point out your strengths and show you how to utilize them. It will also discuss your weaker areas and allow you to compensate for them.

Because your natal horoscope is such a sophisticated analysis of your personality, it will challenge your subconscious mind to seek out your hidden talents. These are the areas where you thought you had talent (writing, E.S.P., sex appeal, public relations, athletics, etc.) but were afraid to try. If you've been waiting for someone to give you a little push, let your horoscope be that someone. It will give you the confidence

FOR WHOM THE BELLS TOIL: THE STORY OF OUR FIRST TELEPHONE

The telephone has been around for just over 100 years now, but when the Levensons finally got theirs, it was a major social event and was soon put to use for their entire apartment building.

By Sam Levenson

It's a long way back to my own first telephone, a homemade walkie-talkie "secret" no-battery intercom made of two oatmeal-box cylinders connected by a waxed string. My brother Albert would put his oatmeal-box receiver to his ear and I, eight inches away, would yell into the mouthpiece at the top of my voice, "Can you hear me?" (You could hear me in Detroit, without an oatmeal box.)

I really didn't need a telephone to keep in touch with my friends. All I had to do was to extend my hand and touch them. A local call. Anyone not in the immediate vicinity could be reached by other methods. You could yell up the dumbwaiter or tie a note to a cord and lower it from the rooftop to the desired floor, then run down and tell to-whom-it-may-concern to pull in his message or wrap a note around a rock and throw it through a window or leave a message under the door, knock, and run away. If the people upstairs were noisy, you banged on the ceiling with the handle of a broom. If you did this vigorously enough, you could even get to see them making the noise.

You did not have to dial a taped recording to find out the weather; you just looked out of the window and you knew "whether." Besides, by the time I was three years old, I already had corns that bothered me when it was going to rain. I listened to them.

Some buildings had a public telephone on the ground-floor wall in the hall next to the janitor's apartment. Our janitor would answer the phone and yell, "Who in the hall do you want?" Once he caused a major panic when he painted over the wall around the phone on which we all had written phone numbers, cutting off about 30 young girls from possible dates.

Families with only sons had no need to take in a phone. "Let the girls' mothers get the telephones." Where there were one or more daughters to marry off, a phone was a necessity. We had one sister. That was enough to force Mama's hand. (I had a personal interest in getting Dora married and out of the house. It meant I would get a bed to sleep in.)

When we got our first phone, Papa called a meeting to discuss ways and means of financing it. We agreed that we would each pay for our calls on the honor system. Papa cut a slit into a little teabox in the shape of a trunk, then put a large lock over the latch of the trunk. "Whenever you make a call, you'll put a nickel into the slot." For good will, Papa started us off by putting two nickels into the slot himself. At the end of the first month, not only did we have a bill for $4.82, but Papa's two nickels were missing.

We had to teach Papa how to use the two-part telephone. "You put this thing to your ear and this thing to your mouth." Completely bewildered, Papa asked, "And with what should I talk?" He eventually learned to use it, but he thought that the farther away the person with whom he was talking, the louder he had to talk. The day he called Jersey City two fire engines showed up at our house.

Even in those days there was a common practice of calling yourself long distance on a person-to-person basis when you were away from home. Then your family knew you had arrived safely. So when Papa went to visit his brother in Canada, we got a long-distance telephone call from Montreal. Mama picked up the receiver to hear the operator say, "I have a long-distance person-to-person call from Montreal for Mr. Hyman Levenson." "Thank God," said Mama, and hung up.

At first, our phone didn't get much action, since most of the people we knew didn't have phones, and the same people never dreamed that we could have one. But it wasn't long before the neighbors found out that the Levensons had a telephone and calls started to come in. We became the message service for the entire building, with

Papa as switchboard operator. We had to devise a code for calling different people to the phone. If you knocked on the steampipe once, that was for Mrs. Burns, twice for Mrs. Gordon, three times for Mrs. Brown. (If we didn't get Mrs. Brown at least we got steam.)

"Harold Upstairs" (as distinguished from "Harold Downstairs") and I developed our own code: One bang on the pipes for "A," two for "B." The night I got four bangs Papa said, "Tell 'Harold Upstairs' to watch his language."

We got our quota of complaints from the neighbors. "My daughter got a phone call from a feller last Sunday night, and you weren't home. You want she should become an old maid?" Mr. Hessel, on the other hand, had a fight with the operator—insulted her—and the last thing we heard him saying was, "What do I care? Pull out the rotten telephone." Papa had to apologize first to the operator, then to Mr. Hessel.

One evening Papa got a message for "first-floor back" to the effect that that lady's daughter had just given birth to a boy. This was cause for a general celebration in the building. The news zig-zagged back and forth through the building like a streak of lightning from first-floor back to second-floor front to third-floor back to fourth-floor front to fifth-floor back and then down again, touching every apartment it had missed on the way up. And the neighbors all came to our kitchen to hear Papa make the announcement again. Mama took out the cake and the wine, and there was much "Blessed Be God" and kissing and crying and congratulations. It cost Papa about $30 before we found out it had been a wrong number.

Since Papa was so busy taking care of the neighbors, we left our own personal messages to Mama:

"Ma, were there any calls for me today?"

"Yes. There was a call for you."

"Who called, Ma?"

"I wrote it down on a piece of paper so I wouldn't get it wrong. Last time I made a mistake. It's spelled T-r-o-o-p-l-m with an 'S'."

"Troopl-m? What kind of crazy name is that?"

"Don't blame me, I don't pick your friends. Maybe it was Eddie."

"Eddie? Ma, I don't know no Eddie."

"So why does he call you if you don't know him?"

"Think hard, Mama, please. It may be important. Maybe it was Teddy?"

"Teddy? Teddy isn't a girl's name."

"Oh, it was a girl? Then it must be Betty."

"That's right, Mildred."

My brother Mike called home late one night:

"Hello, Mama? This is Mike."

"Mike? Mike isn't home." And she hung up.

He called back. "Mama, this is Mike. Listen carefully."

"Mike isn't home!" And she hung up.

He called again. "Ma, please listen. Don't hang up. I don't want you to worry. I'm stuck in the office. I have to work overtime, and I don't know what time I'll get home tonight. I don't want you to worry."

Part One of the fling: you go over the list of albums on these 3 pages.
And you choose the 11 you want
most. Then mail the coupon.

Part Two of the fling: your 11 records or tapes arrive in the mail.

This, of course, is the part
where you really go crazy.
You can tease yourself and play one a day. Or you can play them all at once in the most incredible concert
you've ever had in your room. You can invite good friends over to share the fun. And, of course, you can play them again and again and again.

11 hit albums for $1.00, plus shipping and handling. A crazy idea, perhaps. But it can happen to you as a new member of the Columbia Record & Tape Club.

Make it happen now...

Get a lot of music.
Go a little crazy.

Take any 11

This is the beginning of a fling.

A crazy fling.

A fling filled with music.

The music you love most.

More music than you've ever been able to get at once.

Part One of the fling: you go over the list of albums on these 3 pages.
And you choose the 11 you want
most. Then mail the coupon.

Part Two of the fling: your 11
records or tapes arrive in the mail.

This, of course, is the part
where you really go crazy.
You can tease yourself and play one a day. Or you can play them all at once in the most incredible concert
you've ever had in your room. You can invite good friends over to share the fun. And, of course, you can play them again and again
and again.

11 hit albums for $1.00, plus shipping and handling. A crazy idea, perhaps. But it can happen to you as a new member of the Columbia Record & Tape Club.

Make it happen now ...

BOOKS AND COOKS/By Marilyn Hansen

Graham Kerr's Cookbook, "The New Seasoning"

"Graham Kerr achieved worldwide renown through his television series, The Galloping Gourmet," says Food Editor Marilyn Hansen. "Today, Graham and his wife Treena live on a Christian ministry ranch called Rejoice Fellowship."

The Kerr family at Rejoice Fellowship.

CREAM OF LETTUCE SOUP

- 2 tablespoons water
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 lb. head iceberg lettuce, rinsed and core removed
- 1 large onion, sliced
- ¼ cup all-purpose flour
- 2 cups "cooking milk"
- 2 cups chicken stock
- 2 cloves garlic
- Freshly ground salt or 1 teaspoon coarse salt
- Freshly ground white pepper
- Dillweed

1. Separate freshly rinsed lettuce into leaves; place in large, heavy sauce pan with 2 tablespoons water. Cook over medium heat, covered for 6 minutes.
2. Place butter in another pan on low heat; stir in onion and let cook until soft, about 8 minutes. Stir in flour, making a roux. Cook 3 minutes, stirring.
3. Stir cooking milk into roux and add ½ of the chicken stock.
4. Remove cooked lettuce from pot, purée in a blender, return to pot and add soup. Add remaining chicken stock and cook while stirring for 7 minutes or until thickened. Season to taste with salt and pepper.
5. Strain lettuce soup through a sieve into a soup tureen and serve at once with a dusting of dillweed.

Makes 5 cups, 4 servings

*Cooking milk: Blend 1 qt. milk made from instant skim-milk powder and 1 qt. of regular milk; use 2 cups for recipe.

STUFFED SOURDOUGH MEAT LOAF

- 1 clove garlic, chopped
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1 tablespoon safflower oil
- 1 lb. finely chopped or home-ground beef
- ¼ cup tomato paste
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- ¼ cup soy sauce
- ¼ cup water
- 1 teaspoon oregano leaves

- 1 loaf sourdough or French bread, about 4" x 14"
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 cloves garlic, chopped

1. In large skillet, sauté 1 clove chopped garlic and onion in oil; cook, stirring 5 to 8 minutes until golden.
2. Add beef and cook until meat changes color; drain excess fat from pan.
3. Add tomato paste; cook until it begins to brown. Add chili powder, soy sauce and water.
4. Cover, reduce heat to low, and simmer 30 minutes. Add oregano.
5. While meat simmers, remove center from bread loaf by hinging back the top and spooning out the bread. Leave about ½-inch wall all around.
6. Melt butter; add 2 cloves of garlic and brush on inside of loaf.
7. Spoon in chili mixture and cover with Hot Bean Dressing.
8. Replace top of loaf. Heat at 350° F. for 20 minutes until loaf is brown and crusty. Cut diagonally to serve.

Makes 6 servings

HOT BEAN DRESSING

- 1 cup dried red kidney beans
- 1 (12 oz.) smoked ham hock, bone in
- 4 slices bacon
- 1 medium onion
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- ¼ cup sour cream
- 1 fresh red "hot" chili pepper
- 2 tablespoons chopped bread and butter pickles

1. Soak beans in cold water for 24 hours; drain. Place beans in clean fresh water with ham hock and bring very slowly to boiling (should take about 30 minutes). Now reduce heat, cover and simmer for another 1½ hours until beans are tender. Cool beans in stock.
2. Chop the bacon finely; peel and finely dice the onion. Fry bacon and onion together.
3. Stir in chili powder and continue to fry for one minute. Add the drained cooked red beans; stir gently.
4. Pour on the sour cream and cook over a low heat for 30 minutes more—until the beans have practically absorbed the sauce.
5. Serve hot or cold with chopped pickles and chili peppers stirred in at the end. Or pickles and peppers can be served in small separate dishes to be added by the individual at the table.

Note: This is a general recipe that can be used to spice up other dishes, especially Mexican or Spanish ones.

Now—diet expert Sidney Petrie reports on an exciting way to banish excess poundage...look and feel better... and NEVER go hungry with...

"FAT-DESTROYER FOODS"!

Dear Friend:

A fascinating concept has now been presented by a well-known diet expert—in a new book—to enable dieters to continue eating as much or as frequently as they did before, while slimming down!

It's the exciting news that certain foods destroy fat! (See page 10 for this electrifying idea—then read the whole story!) FORGET ABOUT CALORIES, says Sidney Petrie. As long as you eat "Fat-Destroyer Foods," you may, depending on your own metabolism, eat as much as 3,000 calories a day! All kinds of delicious treats while excess weight simply melts off your body!

Yes, you must EAT the substance found in "Fat-Destroyer Foods," a substance that burns away fat in the words of one medical doctor, "By scientifically adjusting the body's metabolic processes, 'Fat-Destroyer Foods' seem to melt away pound after pound..."

What this means to you is this: "Fat-Destroyer Foods" actually force excess fat—hundreds and hundreds of extra calories a day—OUT OF YOUR BODY, says Petrie. And, because you must eat them on this weight-loss plan, unwanted pounds disappear fast—and you're never really hungry! Petrie says—

EAT "FAT-DESTROYER FOODS" TILL YOU GROAN AND STILL LOSE WEIGHT!

Stick to "Fat-Destroyer Foods," and you'll lose weight—it's virtually automatic—says Petrie. And what foods!!!

EAT-ALL-YOU-WANT portions of... Uboeschurgers... Veal Parmigiana... Beef Stroganoff... Canadian Bacon... Eggs Benedict (fried or with mushrooms)... Cheese (the whole delicatessen is yours)... Barbequed Spare ribs... Link Sausages... Butter, Sauces, Gravies... Hungarian Goulash... and much more!

GENEROUS, MOUTH-WATERING HELPINGS of Ice Cream... Butter-creamed Pudding... Caramel Custard... Fruit-Flavored Gelatin... Vanilla Pudding... Apple sauce Chocolate Blanc Manger... Cheese Cake... Whipped Cream Desserts... washed down with goblets of red wine... coffee breaks... frequent snacks... drinks... and much, much more... Chopped herring, Gefilte Fish... BLTs... blackberries... blueberries... cherries... dates... figs... AND STILL THAT'S JUST THE BEGINNING!

But there are certain foods you must avoid, reports the author, at least until you're all slimmed down to your ideal weight (it need not be a permanent sacrifice)!

A SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY THAT CAN CHANGE YOUR LIFE!

We all know some lucky persons who can "eat like a horse" and never gain a pound! What has this person got that you haven't?

That's what Sidney Petrie, a diet specialist who has treated thousands of overweight people, wanted to know.

"Then I made a fortuitous discovery," says Petrie. "Certain foods destroy fat," he says. Other foods, in excess, are stored as fat. But not "Fat-Destroyer Foods," says Petrie. Excess "Fat-Destroyer Foods" are thrown off as waste. More important in the absence of these other foods—"Fat-Destroyers"—seem to drag body fat away, he says. "You can actually see evidence of your own fat going down the drain."

This is the scientific fact that is now revolutionizing the eating habits of thousands! "Fat-Destroyer Foods" are EAT-ALL-YOU-WANT foods—Petrie adds. There are MORE of them to choose from! They encourage less hunger—less water retention! They are go-go-go foods!

"Other foods contain 'fat hooks,'" says Petrie, that can literally hang excess fat on you. They contain "empty calories"—lacking vital nutrients, the body needs. You could eat 5,000 calories a day of them and feel weak, says Petrie, and they PREVENT WEIGHT LOSS.

Stick to "Fat-Destroyer Foods," says Petrie. STUFF YOURSELF ON THEM, he says without guilt. You will in all likelihood continue to lose weight. But let the other foods slip in—just one or two of them and you are now geared to put the poundage on instead of take it off, he states. What are the "fat hooks"? You'll find complete details in Petrie's new book.

SNACK ANYTIME—EAT AS FREQUENTLY AS YOU WISH!

"Fat-Destroyer Foods" contain the most important ingredient your body needs, says Petrie. The entire body—hair, skin, veins, flesh, bones—everything depends on it.

What happens on a starvation diet of less food—or "empty" foods—that lack this vital ingredient?

"Doctor," you say, "I just can't stay on my diet, I get so hungry and I feel so weak."

WATCH YOUR WEIGHT PLUMMET!

Now, if you've ever tried conventional weight-loss diets, you know you just can't eat like this. But in scientific experiments, it was found many years ago, that the human body ACTUALLY BURNS UP MORE CALORIES OF "FAT-DESTROYER FOODS" THAN IT TAKES IN! You can eat lavishly of fat burning foods and still lose weight, says Petrie!

As a result, you see your weight drop—see pound after pound of it melt away! Even if you're 10, 20, 30 lbs. or more overweight! Some of Petrie's clients have dropped as much as 700 pounds, eating as much and as frequently as before of "FAT-DESTROYER FOODS."

"It sounds too good to be true," says Petrie, "but IT IS TRUE, and it has lost tons for my clients!" (Naturally, a dieter should use common sense, and not overemphasize fat burning foods to the point of severe underweight!!!)

HERE IS DRAMATIC PROOF THAT "FAT-DESTROYER FOODS" CAN HELP YOU SHED 20—40—60 POUNDS OR MORE!

"I have proved to thousands that they can eat all they want and still lose weight," says Petrie. People like...

Harriet, a telephone operator, 34 years old, came to Petrie as a "fat resistor." At 5 feet 10 inches, she weighed 400 pounds. With tears in her eyes, she told how her doctor had given her up in despair. She could not reduce and stay reduced, and she had a razor weight problem. With "FAT-DESTROYER FOODS" she never felt hungry...

The Result: 120 lbs. lost in 6 months! Harriet is today slim, attractive, and statuesque—without hunger!

Molly's habit of "tasting" her family's meals ballooned her body to 300 lbs. despite numerous attempts at dieting. Instead of starving, she switched to "FAT-DESTROYER FOODS," eating freely.

The Result: she is now below 140 lbs. and still losing!

Ronald, a business man in his early 40's, tipped the scales at 305 lbs, some 130 lbs. overweight! With "FAT-DESTROYER FOODS" he lost 75 lbs. the first week alone! Week after week, he enjoyed a steady weight-loss, until he reached his desired goal.

The Result: 130 lbs. lost, remaining happy, healthy, and well-fed along the way!

Henry, a high-school principal, weighed 300 lbs. With conventional diets, he was never able to reduce and stay reduced. He loved his favorite foods and found calorie-counting quite difficult. With "FAT-DESTROYER FOODS," he lost 30 lbs. the first month!

The Result: 110 lbs. lost without hunger. Even his back pain disappeared!

By using this fact in their daily lives, people are now able to eat more and weigh less. With "FAT-DESTROYER FOODS," says Petrie, you can eat more than you ever thought possible... and never gain an ounce!

A DOCTOR OF MEDICINE APPRAISES "FAT-DESTROYER FOODS"

Frank S. Caprio, M.D., in his Foreword to the book, says:— "I am...impressed by Petrie's remarkable discovery of 'Fat-Destroyer Foods,' which I believe to be an entirely new concept in dieting. It permits the dieter to enjoy what I, too, believe is one of the most permissive and pleasant diets ever devised... to lose weight and never gain it back."

"I am impressed," Dr. Caprio continues, "by the astonishing and dramatic weight loss results achieved by so many of Petrie's patients—even in seemingly hopeless cases referred to him by physicians and other medical specialists."

"I can honestly say that, in my medical opinion, this book... in its category (8) the best I have ever read, and I heartily recommend it to anyone who wants to lose weight quickly, easily, anatomically and permanently."

THE EASY WAY TO SHED POUNDS FAST...FASTER...FASTEST!

You'll never be hungry, or need "will power" with "Fat-Destroyer Foods," Petrie reminds us. Eat all you want of them, AS FREQUENTLY AS YOU WISH, he states. "And if you can't make up your mind between 2 or 3 possibilities—have them all," he says of his Free Diet, the first of several plans revealed.

You can even enjoy frequent snacks... at TV time, between meals, at a restaurant. Enjoy a night on the town... even "boast the elbow" with drinks like rye, bourbon, scotch, whiskeys, rum, vodka, gin and brandy, martinis and wines... a whole world of food opens up in a dazzling cascade of delights!

AND YOU CAN SPEED UP YOUR PROGRESS by adding more "Fat-Destroyer Foods!" There are 5 rapid reducing plans in this book: FAST, FASTER, AND FASTEST! You'll lose weight easily on all 3 depending on how fast you wish to shed those pounds, says Petrie!

A TIDY SPELL

*I've just been through a tidy spell,
I tell you it's a verity.
I've sorted out the things to keep,

I've sorted out my shoes and socks,
I've sorted out my shorts,
I've sorted out so much, in fact,
That now I'm out of sorts.*

FROM FRENCH SCIENTIST'S PRIVATE FORMULAS

Cosmetic Chemist develops home treatment that Wipes away blackheads and clears problem skin

IN JUST MINUTES A DAY

By Renée Bouchard.
Beauty Consultant to Maison Cher

If you do nothing else today, please read these few paragraphs. They are vitally important if you have problem skin.

Recently in Paris, I saw demonstrated a simple home treatment that really wiped away blackheads, healed blemishes, tightened pores and made skin softer, smoother and younger looking. Results were almost breathtaking. In fact, I saw these dramatic improvements after just one treatment. With teenagers I saw pimples and blemishes virtually dry up and disappear immediately and with older women I saw complexions firm up and beautify with a smoother, tighter, more youthful, almost baby-like look.

AMAZINGLY SIMPLE—YOU DO IT YOURSELF

"MAGIC" STEP NUMBER ONE

THE SECOND "MAGIC" STEP

Now you apply the amazing new Protein Menthol Masque with your fingertips and leave on just 10 to 15 minutes. You will actually feel the masque close the pores and tighten the skin. Now the "magic" ingredients go to work eliminating redness, reducing swelling of blemishes and leaving skin soft, moist and radiant. The secret of this special masque is that it contains no harsh alcohols or irritants but that it does contain Skin will be more beautiful even after just one treatment. And with 3 or 4 treatments a week, you will see a really remarkable complexion improvement. After that, a single maintenance treatment weekly is probably all your skin will ever need to keep it clear of blemishes and glowing with a healthy and younger look.

FROM FRENCH SCIENTIST'S PRIVATE FORMULAS

Cosmetic Chemist develops home treatment that Wipes away blackheads and clears problem skin

IN JUST MINUTES A DAY

By Renée Bouchard
Beauty Consultant to Maison Cher

If you do nothing else today, please read these few paragraphs. They are vitally important if you have problem skin.

Recently in Paris, I saw demonstrated a simple home treatment that really wiped away blackheads, healed blemishes, tightened pores and made skin softer, smoother and younger looking. Results were almost breathtaking. In fact, I saw these dramatic improvements after just one treatment. With teenagers I saw pimples and blemishes virtually dry up and disappear immediately and with older women I saw complexions firm up and beautify with a smoother, tighter, more youthful, almost baby-like look.

"MAGIC" STEP NUMBER ONE

THE SECOND "MAGIC" STEP

Now you apply the amazing new Protein Menthol Masque with your fingertips and leave on just 10 to 15 minutes. You will actually feel the masque close the pores and tighten the skin. Now the "magic" ingredients go to work eliminating redness, reducing swelling of blemishes and leaving skin soft, moist and radiant. The secret of this special masque is that it contains no harsh alcohols or irritants but that it does contain

JOBMANSHIP

How to Avoid the "Gyp" Trade Schools

If you are bored with your job or hungry for better-paying work, you have probably thought that a good paying trade might be the answer. Your next step is to find a reliable trade school. In a unique and helpful book, If Not College What? The Guide To Career Education (Quadrangle Books, $8.95 hardcover; $3.95 paperback), Muriel Lederer has collected and clearly explained all you could need to know about 200 trades and skills: how to learn them, what the work opportunities and salaries are, what kind of person is most likely to enjoy that work. During her research, she discovered the signs of "gyp" trade schools that take your money but do not fulfill their promises.

Watch out, for instance, if the salesperson offers a substantial discount on tuition in exchange for immediate cash payment, or if he insists you make up your mind immediately because "there are only a few openings left." Be suspicious of a school that makes extravagant claims for placement, yet seems reluctant to release the names of graduates you can talk to for recommendations. If the school discourages your attempt to visit it beforehand, ask why. Be on your guard if the school promises a fabulous career in a glamorous industry after only a few weeks training, or if a private correspondence course promises diplomas usually granted only by colleges. Sure, you'll have the "diploma," but who will take it seriously?

Also, when you read the words "registered," "approved" or "accredited" about a school, realize the words by themselves mean nothing. The question is: approved, accredited and registered by which agency or group? Finally, does the school have a fair refund policy clearly stated in writing in its bulletin? Without one, you may find you are legally obligated to pay the entire tuition fee, even if you drop the course soon after it begins. Your local Better Business Bureau or Chamber of Commerce can tell you whether any complaints have been registered against the school. And always ask potential employers in your field if they would hire someone who took that school's course.

Two free directories of reliable schools are available upon request: Directory of Accredited Private Trade and Technical Schools, National Association of Trade and Technical Schools, 2021 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20009; Directory of Accredited Private Home Study Schools, National Home Study Council, 1601 18th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20009.

Especially for you holiday overeaters: As part of the experiment to determine the value to the human heart of prolonged exercise, pigs are jogging five miles a day at the University of California. No, not on the school track—the black, hairless porkers are running on treadmills. “The pig may not be the most glorious animal, but its heart structure is the most similar to a human’s,” explained Dr. Max Sanders, an exercise physiologist at the university. “In order to assess continuing changes in their condition, half of the pigs eat and jog, while the others ‘just sit around all day, like most people do,’” Sanders said. The joggers are divided into two groups: one healthy and the other with induced heart damage. The results of the study will be released this spring. Sanders worked previously with dogs but found they are less useful because their capacity for exercise is far superior to that of humans. “You can take the average dog on the street, put him on a treadmill, and he can run for two hours straight at a good rate,” Sanders said. “That’s far longer than any overfed, sedentary human—or pig—could do. When we started working with the pigs, they could only run a couple of minutes at a time.” After training, however, the best-conditioned of the healthy pigs is now running his mile in a neat eight minutes.

THE CARDBOARD LEAGUE

What can you say about a .176 hitter?

Baseball players can be very touchy about their photos, and the Topps Baseball Card photographers try to depict them at their best, though as Sports Card Director Sy Berger says, “You can’t make a silk purse out of a sow’s ear.” As for player statistics, unfortunately, those too just can’t be changed. “You don’t know the agony of trying to think up something nice to say about some guy who hit .176 last year and made 25 errors,” Berger laments. “What can you say—This guy stinks?” Everything is done as fairly as possible, and most of the players wouldn’t expect preferential treatment, anyway. Just being on a baseball card is enough, and some would appear there for love alone. “It’s like the actor or movie star who makes it to the top and gets his name up in lights on a theater marquee,” Berger says. “When a player reaches the majors and gets his picture on a baseball card, he feels he has made it. I’ve had many of them tell me it was one of their biggest thrills.” (From The Great American Chewing Gum Book, by Robert Hendrickson, Chilton, $9.95).

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

“SUPERMAN” READY TO FLY
Brando Set to Star; Bisset as Lois Lane?

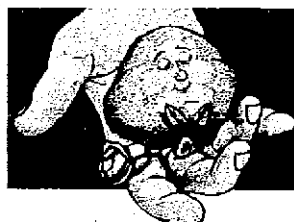

Clark Kent, mild-mannered reporter for a great metropolitan newspaper, is back in the spotlight in an upcoming 1977 multimillion-dollar Superman film extravaganza. Already signed for the cast are Marlon Brando as Jor-El, Superman’s scientist father on Krypton, and Gene Hackman as Luther, archvillain and Superman’s nemesis. Hackman finds the Luther role “one of the most interesting and challenging I’ve ever played,” according to his agent, Dick Guttman. Helping to create all that artistic excitement, no doubt, is the reported $2 million Hackman will receive for his part. Under consideration for the title role of the Man of Steel is Perry King, who appeared in The Lords of Flatbush and Mandingo. The producers—the father-and-son team of Alexander and Ilya Salkind—say they hope to get Jacqueline Bisset to play Lois Lane and Arthur Hill for Perry “Don’t-call-me-Chief” White.

Electrocution on the banquet circuit?

Ted Bernstein, an electrical engineering professor, doubles as an after-dinner and banquet speaker for legionnaires and the P.T.A., among others. His topic: the electric chair, its origin, history and use. “There were a number of botched hangings in New York in the 1880’s, and people began to look for something better,” the University of Wisconsin professor relates. “They thought of shooting, the garrote, the guillotine and other things, but they were all too messy. They thought of lethal injections, but no doctor would do it.” Then, with the rise in the use of electricity, people were being accidentally electrocuted, and it seemed quick and easy. “There was a big political thing between Thomas Edison and George Westinghouse over how legal electrocutions should be done,” says Bernstein. “Edison was against capital punishment but said if it were done it should be done with Westinghouse’s alternating-current (AC) because it was more dangerous. There was no word for electrocution at the time, and Edison wanted the process to be called Westinghousing,” Bernstein reports. He credits a Buffalo dentist, A. P. “Old Spark” Southwick, with spreading the word of the electric chair and calls him

“the father of legal execution.” In all, Bernstein says, 4,310 persons have been put to death in the electric chair. He says many people are fascinated by it, but he still has no answer for those who ask whether it really hurts or not. “There’s no way to know.”

ROCKS FIND ETERNAL REST A different kind of pet cemetery

When your pet rock is stone dead, one option for the disposition of the remains is to send it to Jackie Hopper’s pet-rock cemetery in Detroit. It’s a small graveyard, decked with plastic grass and plots marked by white concrete blocks and growing in popularity. Ms. Hopper started her cemetery in a parking lot across from her tavern after seeing ads for food to keep pet rocks alive. So she decided to provide a free service for their afterlife. Already 23 plots are filled, some with tombstone epitaphs: “George went through too many windows.” An alternative to the pet-rock cemetery is the developing field of rock cryogenics, a procedure now possible at home: Wrap the deceased rock in aluminum foil and keep it in the freezer until science discovers a way to revive it.

Great theater in your home state: If you want to see great plays, you don’t necessarily have to give your regards to Broadway. In fact, if you want to get an idea of what plays will be coming to New York this season as well as in future seasons, you ought to take a look at the schedules in your own home town. From The Actors Theater in Louisville to The Arizona Civic Theater in Tucson to the Seattle Repertory Theater in Washington, theater activity is exploding all over the country. It’s all thanks to the League of Resident Theaters (LORT), a national organization of nonprofit professional theater groups, whose aim is to provide a permanent, creative environment for the artistic performance of plays on a continuing basis. And more and more people—producers, playwrights, actors, agents, audiences—are focusing their attention on regional theater. In fact, some of our most famous playwrights are turning to these theaters first: Tennessee Williams spent last season at the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco, while this season Arthur Miller has promised his latest play to the Long Wharf Theater in New Haven, Conn., and Edward Albee will be nearby with two new one-act plays at the Hartford Stage Company. So make it a New Year’s resolution to find enough time to check out the theater nearest you.

Especially for you holiday overeaters: As part of the experiment to determine the value to the human heart of prolonged exercise, pigs are jogging five miles a day at the University of California. No, not on the school track—the black, hairless porkers are running on treadmills. “The pig may not be the most glorious animal, but its heart structure is the most similar to a human’s,” explained Dr. Max Sanders, an exercise physiologist at the university. “In order to assess continuing changes in their condition, half of the pigs eat and jog, while the others “just sit around all day, like most people do,” Sanders said. The joggers are divided into two groups: one healthy and the other with induced heart damage. The results of the study will be released this spring. Sanders worked previously with dogs but found they are less useful because their capacity for exercise is far superior to that of humans. “You can take the average dog on the street, put him on a treadmill, and he can run for two hours straight at a good rate,” Sanders said. “That’s far longer than any overfed, sedentary human—or pig—could do. When we started working with the pigs, they could only run a couple of minutes at a time.” After training, however, the best-conditioned of the healthy pigs is now running his mile in a neat eight minutes.

Gas. It could change your brand to Fact.

You might not know it, but cigarette smokers breathe gas from many different brands. Not the good kind of gas.

And despite what we're told, people don't think some cities in smoking say it's just as important to cut down on some of the gases as tar and nicotine.

No ordinary cigarette does either. But Fact does.

Fact is the first cigarette with the revolutionary Purite filter. And Fact reduces gas concentrations while it reduces tar and nicotine.

Read the pack. It tells how you get the first low gas, low tar smoke with good, rich taste.

Taste as good as the leading king-size brand.

And that's not fiction.
That's a Fact.

Fact is the first cigarette with Purite granules.

The selective filtering agent.
Selective.

That means it reduces specific gases in smoke that taste bad.

Without removing the elements that taste good.

So, for the first time, you get low gas, low "tar," and satisfying taste in one cigarette.

Fact: The low gas, low "tar."

Available in regular and menthol.

Fact: The low gas, low 'tar'

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.
